

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Valarie Prescott Adams

Cataloging Coordinator, University of Tennessee at Chattanooga

Valarie is UC Foundation Associate Professor of the Library and more specifically the Cataloging Coordinator in the Materials Processing Department at the Lupton Library, University of Tennessee at Chattanooga. Valarie has been an academic librarian for 20 years. She earned her undergraduate degree from the University of North Alabama in Florence and her MSLS from the University of Tennessee in Knoxville. She is an avid gardener and amateur geologist.

Patrick Alexander

Director, The Pennsylvania State University Press

Patrick H. Alexander is the director of The Pennsylvania State University Press and the codirector of the University Libraries' Office of Digital Scholarly Publishing. He has been involved in academic publishing for more than twenty-five years. He has been active in publishing-related events such as the Charleston Library Conference and the Association of American University Presses, where he serves as the chair of the AAUP's Press-Library Relations Committee. He along with Ellen Faran of MIT co-chairs the AAUP/ARL Working Group on Scholarly Communication.

Steve Alleman

Head of Collections, University of Missouri - Kansas City

Steve Alleman has been Head of Collections at the University of Missouri - Kansas City since early 2008. Previous to that he was Collection Management Librarian at the University of New Orleans, where he had worked since 1977.

Helen Anderson

Head, Collection Development, River Campus Libraries, University of Rochester

Helen Anderson is Head, Collection Development for River Campus Libraries at the University of Rochester. Before coming to Rochester in 1998, I worked for twelve years at McGill University as Slavic Studies cataloger, reference librarian, subject librarian and Head of Humanities and Social Science Collections. At Rochester, I still participate in reference work with individuals and classes, but mainly concentrate on budgeting and facilitating the liaison and collections management work of subject librarians in all disciplines.

Scott Anderson

Information Systems Librarian, Millersville University

Scott Anderson is an Associate Professor and the Information Systems Librarian at Millersville University where I have been practicing my off beat brand of librarianship since 1994. I am heavily involved with information systems, services, and electronic resources. Subject specialist for government resources, business, computer science, economics and mathematics. Involved in the Keystone Library Network with electronic resources and the PALCI consortium as its official Cosmographer. I enjoys reading, traveling with the family, roller coasters, playing cards and non-oval track four wheeled motor sports.

Kristin Antelman

Associate Director for the Digital Library, North Carolina State University

Kristin Antelman has been with NCSU Libraries since 2002. She is responsible for IT, digital library initiatives, metadata and cataloging and content acquisitions and licensing. NCSU, with Duke representing TRLN, is a development partner in Kuali OLE. Kristin serves as NCSU's representative to the Kuali OLE Functional Council and is lead on the Global Open KnowledgeBase project.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Betsy Appleton

Electronic Resources Librarian, George Mason University

Xan Arch

Collection Development Librarian, Reed College

Xan Arch is the Collection Development Librarian at Reed College. She holds a MLIS from San Jose State University and a MA in English from Stanford University.

Beth Ardner

Senior Director of Sales and Marketing, IGI Global

Beth Ardner has always been a book geek. By day she is the Senior Director of Sales and Marketing at IGI Global, an STM publishing company based in Hershey Pennsylvania specializing in information technology research publications. In her free time she enjoys reviewing young adult literature and participating in NaNoWriMo with other bookish friends. As a former barista she also recognizes the value of a good cup of coffee paired with a fine book. She is a passionate advocate for sharing good books with teenagers and the need for better world history education in schools.

Michelle Armstrong

Scholarly Communications Librarian, Boise State University

Michelle Armstrong is the Scholarly Communications Librarian at Albertsons Library, Boise State University. Before coming to Boise State, she managed the "Victims of Crime with Disabilities Resource Guide", a U.S. Department of Justice grant, for the University of Wyoming and served as the Coordinator of Information Services for the Wyoming Institute for Disabilities. Since the fall of 2008, Ms. Armstrong has overseen the development of ScholarWorks, Boise State's institutional repository.

Michael Arthur

Head of Acquisitions & Collection Services, University of Central Florida

Michael Arthur is the Head of Acquisitions & Collection Services at the University of Central Florida. Michael received his Bachelor of Science in Sport Marketing & Management in 1991, and his Master of Library Science in 1999, from Indiana University in Bloomington. He received his Master of Public Administration from Old Dominion University in 2006. He is a member of Pi Alpha Alpha, the National Honor Society for Public Affairs and Administration. Michael is active in ALA, and the North American Serials Interest Group. He has attended The Charleston Conference annually since 2000, and has presented several times. He also presented at the North Carolina Serials Conference, and the Acquisitions Institute. He has published articles in The Serials Librarian and Serials Review. He is vice chair/chair elect for the state wide Collection Development Committee of the state universities in Florida and just became co-chair of the Collection Development Committee for the Association of Southeastern Research Libraries. Michael is a member of the Springer Academic Library Advisory Board. Michael enjoys speaking about ways to make technical services operations more effective. Michael enjoys camping and helping out with Scouting. Michael lives in the Orlando, FL area with his wife Amy and their three children Jacob, Abigail and Sarah.

Stacy Baggett

Electronic Resources Librarian, Shenandoah University

Stacy Baggett is the Electronic Resources Librarian at Shenandoah University, Winchester, Virginia. She has held this position since 2008. Prior to coming to Shenandoah University she worked for nearly nine years in a variety of distance education and technical services positions at East Carolina University,

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Greenville, North Carolina. She holds a BSBA and MBA from East Carolina University and MLS from North Carolina Central University. Stacy is the proud mother of two two-footed children and four four-footed children.

Ashley Fast Bailey

Collection Development Manager, YBP Library Services

Ashley Fast Bailey is a Collection Development Manager with YBP Library Services. She works with universities in the Midwest and Southern US. She earned her BA and MLIS from the University of Southern Mississippi.

Jeff Bailey

Interim Dean, Arkansas State University

A native of Dayton, Ohio, Jeff Bailey is the Assistant Director for Public Services at Arkansas State University, and has also served as Interim Dean of the Library there since 2009. In his academic library career, Jeff has worked in circulation, reference, and collection development. He received his MSLS from Clarion University of Pennsylvania in 1990. Jeff was a key player in the original creation of Arkansas State's collection development allocation formula in 2001.

Matt Barnes

Vice President of Marketing, ebrary

As Vice President of Marketing for ebrary, Matt leads strategic marketing, communications, product marketing, and partner relations. In this role he is focused on ensuring ebrary develops products and services that help libraries deliver relevant content to their patrons in the most efficient and cost effective manner possible.

Previously, Matt was appointed to this position after serving as ebrary's Vice President of North American Sales, where he was instrumental in driving the company's growth.

Matt is a frequent presenter at library conferences on the topics of electronic resources and maintaining the integrity of library collections in the face of budget pressure.

Kathy Bartelt

Collection Development/Acquisitions Librarian, University of Evansville Libraries in Evansville, Indiana

Kathy Bartelt currently holds the position of Collection Development/Acquisitions Librarian at the University of Evansville Libraries in Evansville, Indiana. Prior to this recent appointment, she served as the Collection Management Librarian at Evansville overseeing circulation and interlibrary loan activities. Special current interests include database evaluation and copyright issues.

N. Bernard (Buzzy) Basch

President, Basch Subscriptions

Jennifer Bazeley

E-Resources & Serials Librarian, Miami University

Jennifer Bazeley has a BM and an MM in viola performance from the Eastman School of Music, and an MLIS from Dominican University in Illinois. Her love of serials and electronic resources started with a student job in the DePaul University Library in Chicago, IL. Since completing her MLIS, Jennifer has worked in technical services at the library in the Field Museum in Chicago, the Mason Public Library in Ohio, and the library at the Cincinnati Art Museum. She has been the Electronic Resources and Serials Librarian at Miami University in Oxford, OH since November 2009.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Linda Beebe

Senior Director, PsycINFO, American Psychological Association

Linda Beebe is the Senior Director of PsycINFO for the American Psychological Association. In that capacity, she directs the development and production of electronic databases. APA currently offers seven databases: PsycINFO, a bibliographic database for peer-reviewed scholarly books and journals; PsycEXTRA a hybrid database for gray literature with more than 70% full text); PsycARTICLES with 80 journals; PsycBOOKS with more than 2,500 books; PsycCRITIQUES with nearly 40,000 book and film reviews, PsycTESTS a new database for psychological measures with nearly 2,000 full-text tests; and PsycTHERAPY with 300 hours of streaming video of therapy sessions. She previously was President of Parachute Publishing, a consulting firm, and earlier Associate Executive Director for Communications for the National Association of Social Workers. She is the current Chair/President of CrossRef. Linda and her husband Hank have two sons and three grandsons. Her interests include cooking, gardening (a challenge in Washington, DC), and travel.

Jack Bernard

Assistant General Counsel, University of Michigan

Jack Bernard has been with the General Counsel's Office since 1999. His primary areas of responsibility include intellectual property, academic freedom and speech, privacy, security, computing and cyberlaw, media rights, student rights, affiliation agreements, and disability law.

During the 11 years prior to this work, he had been an academic administrator and/or instructor at Macalester College, Saga Daigaku, and the University of Michigan. He teaches at University of Michigan's Schools of Law, Education, and Information, as well as at the Ford School of Public Policy. He is currently chair of the University of Michigan's Council for Disability Concerns.

In 2009, he received the American Library Association's "L. Ray Patterson Copyright Award" as well as the First Decade Award from the National Association of College and University Attorneys. He has also been a Spence Fellow and a researcher at the National Center for Postsecondary Improvement. He received his J. D. from the University of Michigan Law School and Master's in Higher Education from the University's Center for the Study of Higher and Postsecondary Education. Jack studied neuroscience at Macalester College in St. Paul, MN.

Beth Bernhardt

Electronic Resources Librarian, University of North Carolina at Greensboro

Beth Bernhardt is the Electronic Resources Librarian at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. She has her graduate degree in Library and Information Science from the University of South Carolina. Beth has over twenty years of experience working in academic libraries, 11 years of that specializing in electronic resources. Her job is to evaluate, recommend and provide access to electronic resources. Beth is a certified North Carolina State Library trainer and provides training on NC LIVE databases around the state. She is also the current program director for the 2011 Charleston Conference.

Douglas Black

Collection Development Librarian, Northern Michigan University

Douglas Black is Collection Development Librarian at Northern Michigan University. He is a recovering writing teacher (University of Wyoming) and a survivor of driving charter buses in the Rocky Mountains. He holds an AB in English from Middlebury College, an MA in English from the University of New Hampshire, an MS in Library & Information Science from Simmons College, and a Class B commercial driver's license with passenger and air-brake endorsements. When he's not motorcycling or playing his guitar, he's sailing a 50-year-old sloop on Lake Superior and doing his best to avoid the gales of November.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Heather Blaine

Director of Marketing, Credo Reference

Heather Blaine is the Director of Marketing at Credo Reference and is responsible for managing conferences, events, public relations and our partnerships with library consortia. Heather has over 15 years of experience in the library industry having worked at Gale, Blackwell Publishing and Prenax, Inc before joining Credo Reference in June 2008. She has an MBA from Boston College and a BA from Clark University. Her personal interests include cycling, reading and cooking. She recently took up rock climbing as a way to improve her relationship with heights.

Deborah Bleic

Associate Professor and Bibliographer for the Life and Health Sciences, University of Illinois at Chicago Library

Deb is Associate Professor and Bibliographer for the Life and Health Sciences at the University of Illinois at Chicago Library. She has twenty years of collection development experience and can remember the days before e-books and e-journals. Deb's current research focuses on the use of electronic resources. When not working, you may most likely find Deb in Yosemite Valley or on the beaches of Florida or the Pacific Northwest. Deb earned her B.A. from Northwestern and her M.L.S. from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

LouAnn Blocker

Electronic Resources and Serials Librarian, Reese Library, Augusta State University

I'm the Electronic Resources and Serials Librarian at Reese Library. This is my first professional position. I worked as a paraprofessional for 13 years at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, where I earned my undergraduate degree in history and my masters in information science. I'd like to learn more about how smaller universities make decisions regarding bound journal retention, and how to work with academic departments to make the best purchasing decisions. I like reading about cognitive processes and learning, and information overload and how to deal with it. I'm married and I have two dogs and two cats.

Erin Boyd

Cataloging Librarian, Rosa Parks Library, Troy University - Montgomery

Erin E. Boyd is the Cataloging Librarian at the Rosa Parks Library at Troy University - Montgomery. Previous to this position she worked as a Bibliographic Specialist at the University of Southern Mississippi cataloging music, media and special collections materials. Ms. Boyd received her B.A. in Music and her M.L.I.S. from the University of Southern Mississippi. She is active in the library profession serving on committees and roundtables for the Association for Library Collections and Technical Services and the Alabama Library Association. Her research interests include emerging technologies, social media, collection management, and collaboration in a multi-campus environment.

Ginny Boyer

Head of Collection Management & Metadata, Laupus Library, East Carolina University

Ginny Boyer joined the faculty of Laupus Library in October of 2010 as Head of Collection Management & Metadata Librarian. Ginny received her undergraduate degree from the University of North Carolina at Wilmington, and her Master of Information & Library Science from Florida State University. She is currently pursuing a graduate certificate in Health Informatics from East Carolina University. In addition to her work as a librarian, Ginny teaches information and computer literacy at Beaufort County Community College in Washington, NC where she lives with her husband and two cocker spaniels.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Ann-Marie Breaux

VP, Academic Service Integration, YBP Library Services

Ann-Marie has worked various jobs at YBP since 1997. Currently, she helps to develop new services, manages YBP technical services sales worldwide, and maintains YBP's relationships with systems vendors. Prior to joining YBP, Ann-Marie received an MSLIS from Simmons College and did acquisitions and cataloging work in the Harvard University Library system. When not on the road, Ann-Marie splits her time between Woodstock, GA and Mountain Brook, AL.

Ken Breen

Senior Director of eBook Products, EBSCO

Ken Breen joined EBSCO Publishing in September 2010 as the Senior Director of eBook Products. He is responsible for developing and managing EBSCO Publishing's eBook and audio book product and content strategy. Previously, Mr. Breen had been the Vice President of Business Development at Gale where he dealt with eBooks and served in a variety of roles for 11 years including: strategic planning & alliances, rights acquisition & management, copyright & licensing and product management.

Mr. Breen's experience with eBooks began in 1997 as the Product Development Manager for City Directories at R.L. Polk & Company, an international, privately owned, consumer information company. In that role, he led the migration of Polk's infoTYME product (the electronic version of the print City Directory) from diskette to CD-Rom.

During his career Mr. Breen has been a featured speaker and a panelist at conferences including American Library Association Annual Conference and London Book Fair

Kevin Brewer

Acquisitions Dept. Head, Utah State University

Kevin started at Utah State Univ. in 1995 as a reference librarian. In 2003, after a brief tenure as web master, he became the head of the acquisitions and serials departments where he has remained through today.

Michelle M. Volesko Brewer

Librarian/Manager Market Intelligence, Wolters Kluwer Health

Michelle Volesko Brewer is the embedded librarian and manager of market intelligence at Wolters Kluwer Health in New York. She provides research, analysis and expert searching for Ovid and Lippincott Williams and Wilkins in support of new product development. Prior to joining Wolters Kluwer in 2010, she was director of a healthcare association library for 31 years, involved with health services research, evidence based medicine and directing a multistate library, consortial licensing group. She is a past recipient of the N.J. Health Sciences Librarian of the Year Award and the Professional Recognition Award for Publications & Research from MLA's Hospital Libraries Section.

Craig Brians

Professor - Dept. of Political Science, Virginia Tech

CRAIG LEONARD BRIANS is Associate Professor and Associate Chair in the Department of Political Science at Virginia Tech. His research analyzes information seeking and use, frequently in the context of political communication. Applied settings include campaign news coverage and advertising, voter registration procedures, and students' learning from digital information sources.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Brians' research appears in prominent journals, including the American Political Science Review, American Journal of Political Science, Presidential Studies Quarterly, and Political Research Quarterly. He is the principal author of Empirical Political Analysis, Eighth edition (2011, Longman), a leading Political Science research methods textbook.

Robert "Hob" Brooks

Senior Library Sales Manager, SAGE Publications

I have worked in library sales for about six years, having started my career with ISI selling Web of Knowledge products and subsequently moving to the publishing side, joining SAGE two years ago. I currently manage a national sales team at SAGE, but also work directly with key academic library and consortia accounts from Pennsylvania to Maine.

Richard Brown

Director, Georgetown University Press

Richard Brown, PhD is director of Georgetown University Press and past president of the Association of American University Presses.

Lora Brueck

Assistant Director for Collections Management, Worcester Polytechnic Institute

Lora Brueck has been at WPI since 1974, working as archivist and cataloger before becoming Collections Management Librarian over twenty years ago. In addition to being responsible for the overall collection, Lora oversees the areas of acquisitions, cataloging, preservation, and digitization. Her biggest budgetary challenge over the past few years has been the shift from purchasing individual print books to subscribing to ebook collections. Her poster presentation will describe one way WPI is trying to get academic departments to be more committed to helping create strong library collections while living with a tight budget.

Dennis Brunning

Humanities Development Librarian, Arizona State University

Dennis Brunning is Librarian for the Herberger School for Design and the Arts at Arizona State University, specializing in Art History, Theater Arts, Cinema Arts, and Dance Performance. He admits readily this is a stretch, brought on by economic times and an enduring interest on how this humanities turn will positively affect him in retirement. Previously he has been online coordinator, systems librarian, and electronic resources coordinator at ASU.

His big question: Carpe Diem. His second big question: whither libraries? He is available at Brunning@asu.edu.

Tim Bucknall

Assistant Dean of University Libraries, UNCG

Tim is founder and convener of the Carolina Consortium, and is a member of NC LIVE's Librarians Council. At UNCG he leads an innovative department responsible for electronic resources, digital projects, hardware and software support, programming, and distance education. He has received the NCLA "Significant Contribution" award and an IGI Global Technology Excellence award, and has been designated a "Technology Genius" by Gale and a "Mover and Shaker" by Library Journal.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Jonathan Bunkell

VP ebook Sales, ProQuest

Jonathan Bunkell is VP ebook Sales for ProQuest, responsible for growing global sales of the ebook portfolio through ProQuest's ebook division, ebrary.

Ebrary continues to gain new customers, serving nearly 20Mil end-users through 4500 institutions and growing at 30% p.a. through offering a range of innovative and developing products and services to library markets.

Jonathan's track record includes sales of scientific and professional reference, textbooks and trade computing titles online and in print with Elsevier, Blackwell Publishers and Pearson.

Leslie Burke

Account Services Manager, EBSCO Information Services

Leslie Burke has worked for EBSCO Information Services since 2000 as a librarian-on-the-road (Account Services Manager), providing solutions to customer needs, especially surrounding e-resources. Prior to her work with EBSCO, she made an ecumenical trek as a library employee/librarian of several religious colleges in the Grand Rapids area, followed by 11+ years as a corporate librarian for Amway Corporation. She received her MLIS from University of Michigan School of Information.

Rick Burke

Executive Director, SCEL

Rick Burke, MLS, is the Executive Director of SCEL, the Statewide California Electronic Library Consortium. SCEL is a consortium of 109 private academic and nonprofit research institutions primarily in California, plus Nevada and Texas. He has presented at numerous conferences, including the Charleston Conference, the American Library Association, the Society of Scholarly Publishing, the California Association of Research Libraries, and IFLA, on topics such as collaborative collection development in a consortium, negotiation, consortial electronic resource management, and managing consortial e-journal packages.

Bill Burkholder

Library Technology Manager, Bucknell University

Melody Burton

Chief Librarian, Okanagan Library, University of British Columbia

Melody Burton began her appointment as Deputy University at the University of British Columbia in September. She completed her library education at the University of Alberta a few decades earlier. Inbetween, she has worked at York and Queen's Universities in Ontario, Canada.

Melody is known for her outspoken opinions on a variety of library-related topics. She is a frequent debater at the annual Canadian Library Association's "Great Debate" where she has tackled many controversial topics including the imminent demise of reference desks, print resources and library instruction and other sacred cows. Melody's contrarian POV helps to expose the vulnerable areas of our profession's hallmark positions so that better, more convincing arguments can be made. She believes that more humour would improve librarianship and conference attendance.

The Canadian Association of College and University Libraries, a division of the Canadian Library Association, awarded Melody the Miles Blackwell Outstanding Academic Librarian of the Year in 2011.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Leslie Button

Associate Director for Library Services, UMass Amherst

Leslie Button is Associate Director for Library Services at the UMass Amherst Libraries. Previously, she was Associate Director for Collection Services, Head of the Acquisitions Department at UMass Amherst. She is active in Boston Library Consortium and Five College Libraries committees. She is currently Vice-President/President-Elect of the Association of College and Research Libraries, New England Chapter. In her spare time, Leslie enjoys traveling, golf and playing with her miniature poodles.

Kristin Calvert

Electronic Resources Librarian, Western Carolina University

Kristin Calvert joined Western Carolina University in 2011 in its newly created Electronic Resources Librarian position. She specializes in technological wizardry and arcane spreadsheet mysticism. She previously held positions at U.C. Berkeley, Saint Anselm College and YBP Library Services.

Anne Campbell

E-Processing Manager, Swets

With the increased interest in EDI and connectivity from both publishers and library's, Swets created an E Processing Manager position in 2011 to focus strictly on connectivity, new development and system integration opportunities. Anne Campbell, has been with Swets for over 16 years in many roles including, Manager of Information Technology, Technical Trainer, Manager of Electronic Media Specialists, Project Manager and Customer Service Manager. In her new role this year, Anne is supporting all Customer Service and Publisher Services teams in EDI and system connectivity. This includes working closely with the Swets Process Analysts.

Lisa Carlucci Thomas

Director, Design Think Do

Lisa Carlucci Thomas is a nationally recognized librarian and author known for her leadership, innovation, and research on mobile and social technologies. Her expertise includes ebooks, mobile culture, social media, technology trends and training, and career development for information professionals. Lisa is the Director of Design Think Do, providing technology, new media, and creative services consulting to libraries and organizations. Her previous experience includes overseeing library systems and digital initiatives at Southern Connecticut State University; and managing access services, e-resources and digital collections at Yale University. Lisa is a 2010 Library Journal Mover & Shaker and a 2009 ALA Emerging Leader. Follow on Twitter @lisacarlucci.

Steven Carrico

Chair, Acquisitions Department, University of Florida Libraries

Steven Carrico has been an Acquisitions Librarian at the University of Florida since 1994, earned tenure in 2002, and was promoted to Chair of the Acquisitions Department in 2006. He has presented at several library conferences and authored/co-authored a wide range of refereed and non-refereed journal articles, monograph chapters (publishers: ALA and Haworth Press), book reviews, bibliographies, and was a contributing editor for an ARL Spec Kit. Steven has served on numerous national and state library committees and is a co-columnist for Against the Grain and a peer reviewer for Library Resources & Technical Services.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Jeff Carroll

Assistant Director for Collection Development, Columbia University

Jeff Carroll is the Assistant Director for Collection Development at Columbia University Libraries. Prior to this he was Head of Serials & Electronic Acquisitions, also at Columbia. Before joining the library profession in 1997 he worked throughout Manhattan for several independent book stores, none of which, sadly, continues to exist. This trail of destruction was not of his own making but, rather, the result of larger economic forces. He holds an M.L.S. from Syracuse University, an M.A. in Creative Writing from The City College of New York, a B.S. in Political Science and a B.A. in Agribusiness, both from Washington State University.

Jennifer Castaldo

Distance Education Librarian, Johns Hopkins University

Through a unique partnership between Johns Hopkins University's Entrepreneurial Library Program and Excelsior College, I provide services to a completely online college with no physical campus. I have been here for a little over 3 years, and I handle all of our acquisitions, including licensing. I also get to do reference, assessment, marketing, collection development, virtual instruction, and more! In my spare time I love traveling, wine and beer, reading YA fiction, and I am always looking for new restaurants to try in Baltimore.

Jeannie Castro

Electronic Resources Coordinator, University of Houston

Jeannie Castro is the Electronic Resources Coordinator at the University of Houston. She holds an MLIS from Florida State University and a Masters in Communication from Auburn University.

Rita M. Cauce

Head, Resource Development Department, Florida International University

Rita M. Cauce is Head of the Resource Development Department at FIU, where she coordinates and provides leadership to acquisitions and serials management, and is responsible for the libraries' resources budget. Rita is currently Chair of Florida's State University Libraries' Acquisitions Subcommittee and represents FIU on the Statewide Storage Task Force. Before joining FIU in 2006, Rita was Assistant Director for Technical Services at Barry University. She holds an M.S. in Educational Media from Nova Southeastern University, and an M.A. in Library Sciences from University of South Florida.

Robin Champieux

Vice President, Business Development, Ebook Library

Robin is Vice President of Business Development at EBL. Before joining EBL in 2009, Robin was Director of North American Sales for Blackwell. She is a frequent contributor to Against the Grain and Member-at-Large for the ALCTS AS Executive Committee.

Debora Cheney

Larry and Ellen Foster Communications Librarian, and Head, The News and Microforms Library, The Pennsylvania State University

Debora Cheney serves as The Larry and Ellen Foster Communications Librarian and Head, The News and Microforms Libraries at The Pennsylvania State University Libraries. As the Larry and Ellen Foster Librarian, she works closely with the faculty and students in Penn State's communications majors, including journalism and media studies. As head, of the News and Microforms Library her work has focused on the challenges large academic libraries face in providing access to news content for teaching and research and the role of libraries in providing access to content that is increasingly electronic and delivered via the Internet. She has co-authored articles on teaching students how to use libraries and information in Portal and Journal of Academic Librarianship and on how libraries can provide access to converging news forms in College and Research Libraries and presented papers related to news content use, marketing and promotion at Newspaper Section meetings of the International Federation of Library Association) IFLA conferences in New Delhi and Kuala Lumpur, at the ALA EBSS program in Washington D.C., and at the Center for Research Libraries Global Resources Forum on Electronic Media and the Preservation of News.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Timothy Cherubini

Director for Regional Services, LYRASIS

Tim began his career in librarianship as Music Librarian at the Ohio State University after completing his MLS and Master of Music in Musicology degrees at Indiana University. In subsequent positions at Duke University, Emory University and Williams College Tim eventually left his music specialty and extended his professional expertise to collections and acquisitions, rising to the senior leadership level with Emory Libraries. He has held several positions with consortia including Manager of Product Licensing at SOLINET and Director of Content Innovation at LYRASIS. In these roles Tim led continually expanding programs designed to support libraries in all that they do related to electronic and print collections and acquisitions. In his current role as Director of Regional Services at LYRASIS, Tim maintains close contact with LYRASIS members on their information management interests, issues, and concerns, and speaks and consults frequently on a wide range of topics current for the library profession.

Adam Chesler

Director of Library Relations, Business Expert Press

Adam manages institutional relations, including sales and faculty outreach, for Business Expert Press, a new company publishing ebooks for advanced business students. Previously he was Content Director for the American Society for Training and Development; prior to that, he held sales, customer relations, and customer service positions at the American Chemical Society; and customer relations, marketing, sales, and content licensing positions at Kluwer Academic Publishers. He served on the executive boards of CLOCKSS and NASIG, and is currently a member of the Charleston Conference's Board of Directors. He's written and spoken about numerous subjects, including open access, digital preservation, content licensing, and publisher business models.

Robin Chin Roemer

Communication Librarian, American University

Tina Chrzastowski

Chemistry Librarian, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Tina E. Chrzastowski is Chemistry Librarian and Professor of Library Administration at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, where she has worked since 1987. Prior to that time she held academic library positions at the University of Delaware and the University of Washington. Her research focuses on collection use and assessment, including longitudinal use studies, user surveys, and musings about transitions taking place in libraries due to electronic journal access and the Internet. Recent work includes an assessment guidebook for beginning librarians, an introduction to SFX statistical reporting to guide collection managers, an assessment of approval plans and most recently, a longitudinal study of ebook cost and use.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Katie Clark

Associate Dean, Public Services and Collection Development, University of Rochester

Katie Clark is currently the Associate Dean for Public Services and Collection Development at the University of Rochester. Katie was a member of the Undergraduate Work Practices team and contributed to two chapters of the book, "Studying Students: The Undergraduate Research Project at the University of Rochester." She has also participated in two grant funded, user studies of graduate students and faculty. Prior to coming to Rochester, she worked at the University of Houston, Penn State and Texas A&M University Libraries.

Jennifer Clarke

Assistant Director, Collection Development and Access Services, Bucknell University

Joel Claypool

Publisher, Morgan and Claypool Publishers

Joel is the co-founder of Morgan and Claypool Publishers, one of the first publishers with content "born digital". He has been in STM publishing for more than 30 years and his career includes the development, acquisition and publication of the highly successful CRC Press engineering handbook and book program. More recently he was with Academic Press/Elsevier Science. He co-founded Morgan & Claypool in 2002.

Pete Coco

Liaison Librarian for Liberal Arts, Grand Valley State University

Pete Coco is the library liaison for English, writing, and environmental studies at Grand Valley State University in Allendale, Michigan. In addition to writing and presenting as a librarian, Pete's fiction and essays have appeared in a range of mainstream and literary outlets, including several exploring the boundaries of web, mobile, and social formats. He holds an MSLIS from the University of Illinois and an MFA from the Iowa Writers' Workshop.

Suzanne Cohen

Collection Development Librarian, Cornell University

Suzanne Cohen is Collection Development Librarian at the Martin P. Catherwood Library, ILR School, Cornell University and chair of Cornell University Library's Social Sciences Team for collection development. She previously served as the Catherwood Library's Reference Services Coordinator, and has been involved with the development of an institutional repository since 2002. When not trying to keep up with her two young daughters, she enjoys both hiking and reading.

Ed Colleran

Senior Director, International Division, Copyright Clearance Center

Edward Colleran serves as the Senior Director of the International Division at Copyright Clearance Center (CCC), the world's premier provider of copyright licensing solutions. He oversees strategic initiatives focused on CCC's international activities—specifically, providing rightsholders around the world with new content licensing solutions and revenue-generating initiatives based on CCC's products and services. Edward also provides the vision for the advancement of CCC's rights management services and is a key contributor on other long-term strategic issues facing the information industry.

An industry veteran, Edward is a member of the Software and Information Industry Association (SIIA) board of directors and also serves on the copyright committee of ALPSP. Edward is also a past member of the board of the Society for Scholarly Publishers (SSP). He is a featured speaker and editorial contributor on issues such as navigating copyright requirements and the challenges and opportunities of managing content in a digital environment. A regular speaker at industry events, Edward has recently presented at the annual conferences of SSP, ALPSP and SIIA as well as London Online and the Frankfurt Book Fair.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Eleanor Cook

AD for Collections & Technical Services, East Carolina University

Eleanor I. Cook has worked in libraries for over 30 years. She has worked in acquisitions, cataloging and serials for most of that time, with stints at UNC-Chapel Hill, GA Tech, NC State University, Appalachian State U., and East Carolina U. A regular at Charleston, she hasn't missed a conference since 1989.

Eleanor is the Chief Editor of ACQNET-L and has served in leadership roles with various organizations including ALCTS, NASIG and NCLA. She is the recipient of the 2010 Charleston Conference Vicky Speck Award and the ALCTS Harrassowitz Leadership in Acquisitions award for 2011.

Sheila Corral

Professor of Librarianship & Information Management, University of Sheffield

Sheila Corral is Head of the Libraries & Information Society Research Group at the University of Sheffield Information School, where she teaches courses on academic libraries, information resources and library management. Her research interests focus on collections in the digital world, the intellectual assets of information services and the mission of university libraries. Before moving to Sheffield, Sheila spent 25 years working in public, special, national and academic libraries, gaining experience at every level from shelver to director. She is a passionate advocate of information literacy development and led the CILIP expert group that defined information literacy for the UK.

Paul Courant

Dean of Libraries, University of Michigan

Paul N. Courant is University Librarian and Dean of Libraries, Harold T. Shapiro Collegiate Professor of Public Policy, Arthur F. Thurnau Professor, Professor of Economics and Professor of Information at the University of Michigan. From 2002-2005 he served as Provost and Executive Vice-President for Academic Affairs, the chief academic officer and the chief budget officer of the University. He has also served as the Associate Provost for Academic and Budgetary Affairs, Chair of the Department of Economics and Director of the Institute of Public Policy Studies (which is now the Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy). In 1979 and 1980 he was a Senior Staff Economist at the Council of Economic Advisers.

Courant has authored half a dozen books, and over seventy papers covering a broad range of topics in economics and public policy, including tax policy, state and local economic development, gender differences in pay, housing, radon and public health, relationships between economic growth and environmental policy, and university budgeting systems. More recently, his academic work has considered the economics of universities, the economics of libraries and archives, and the effects of new information technologies and other disruptions on scholarship, scholarly publication, and academic libraries.

Paul Courant holds a BA in History from Swarthmore College (1968); an MA in Economics from Princeton University (1973); and a PhD in Economics from Princeton University (1974).

Christopher Cowan

Vice President of Publishing, ProQuest

Chris Cowan is Vice President, Publishing for ProQuest, LLC. Over the past 11 years, he has been responsible for overseeing the creation and development of ProQuest's Historical Newspaper product line and managing ProQuest Genealogy businesses, Microfilm publishing, Student Research publishing, and Archival E-commerce services for major newspaper publishers. He is engaged with acquisitions and is responsible for business development and licensing with content partners and institutions.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Before joining ProQuest in 2000, Mr. Cowan spent over 16 years in the information and publishing industry with Thomson and Cox Newspapers, business publications, and city regional magazines primarily in sales, publishing and new product development roles.

Anna Craft

Metadata Cataloger, UNC-Greensboro

Anna Craft is the Metadata Cataloger at Jackson Library at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, where she works with MARC cataloging and NC DOCKS, UNCG's institutional repository, as well as on various digital projects. She is an avid reader and in her previous position, as Metadata Librarian at Western Carolina University, she also managed the library's leisure reading collection. In addition, Anna has held positions at North Carolina State University and received her MSLS from UNC-SILS. She is looking forward to the start of college basketball season.

Cindy Craig

Psychology and Sociology Librarian, University of Florida

Cindy Craig is the Psychology and Sociology Librarian at the University of Florida. In addition to her library science degree, Cindy holds a Master's degree in art therapy. She enjoys portrait drawing in her spare time. Cindy has used her arts background in volunteer work with grieving children and their families. Her arts skills also came in handy during her time as a youth services librarian. In the words of a beloved professor of her art therapy program, the therapeutic power of art is in the process, not the product.

Linda Creibaum

Acquisitions Librarian, Arkansas State University

Linda Creibaum grew up in Memphis, Tennessee, and has spent most of her adult life in the Mid-South. She was one of the first to get a degree via distance education, an MSLS from the University of Illinois. Linda has worked in a variety of library positions, including Solo Librarian and Instructional Services Librarian, in several states. She very much enjoys the challenges of being Acquisitions Librarian at Arkansas State University but is always looking for opportunities to travel.

Joel Cummings

Head of Collection Development, Washington State University

Joel Cummings has worked at Washington State University since 1999, first as an electronic resources librarian, then collection manager for the sciences and now Head of Collection Development. Previous positions include reference and instruction librarian at University College of the Fraser Valley, corporate librarian at ID Biomedical and information specialist at Nova Chemicals. He received an MLIS from the University of British Columbia.

He has been published in journals Library Hi-Tech, Serials Reviews and portal. He has contributed to the research literature and professional meetings in the areas of information technology for library public services including articles on link resolvers, wireless devices usage by library users, virtual reference and collection development, including articles on aggregation databases, collection evaluation and eBooks. Also, he has have been a reviewer for Reference Reviews and Choice for many years. He and co-authors have recently received an Emerald Literati Award for a Highly Commended Article published in Library Hi-Tech in 2010.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Tim Daniels

Manager, LYRASIS Technology Services, LYRASIS

Tim Daniels is currently the Manager of LYRASIS Technology Services. Previously, he was the Assistant State Librarian for Technology and Infrastructure at the Georgia Public Library Service. Before this he was Learning Commons Coordinator at Georgia State University. He has held positions at the Georgia Institute of Technology, where he was the liaison for the College of Computing, and at the Asheville-Buncombe Library System as branch manager. He has worked in Archives and Special Collections and at a Community College library. During much of his library career he has been involved in technology and technology training. Tim has a B.S. in History with a concentration in Public History and minors in Computer Information Systems Management and English from Appalachian State University in North Carolina. His library degree is from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Robert Darnton

Carl H. Pforzheimer University Professor and University Librarian, Harvard University, Harvard University

Robert Darnton was educated at Harvard University (A.B., 1960) and Oxford University (B.Phil., 1962; D. Phil., 1964), where he was a Rhodes scholar. After a brief stint as a reporter for The New York Times, he became a junior fellow in the Society of Fellows at Harvard. He taught at Princeton from 1968 until 2007, when he became Carl H. Pforzheimer University Professor and Director of the University Library at Harvard. He has been a visiting professor or fellow at many universities and institutes for advanced study, and his outside activities include service as a trustee of the New York Public Library and the Oxford University Press (USA) and terms as president of the American Historical Association and the International Society of Eighteenth-Century Studies. Among his honors are a MacArthur Prize Fellowship, a National Book Critics Circle Award and election to the French Legion of Honor. He has written and edited many books, including The Business of Enlightenment: A Publishing History of the Encyclopédie (1979, an early attempt to develop the history of books as a field of study), The Great Cat Massacre and Other Episodes in French Cultural History (1984, probably his most popular work, which has been translated into 16 languages), Berlin Journal, 1989-1990, (1991, an account of the fall of the Berlin Wall and the collapse of East Germany), and The Forbidden Best-Sellers of Prerevolutionary France (1995, a study of the underground book trade). His latest books are The Case for Books (2009), The Devil in the Holy Water, or The Art of Slander in France from Louis XIV to Napoleon (2010), and Poetry and the Police: Communication Networks in Eighteenth-Century Paris (2010).

Corey Davis

Technical Services Librarian, Royal Roads University

Corey Davis is Technical Services Librarian at Royal Roads University, where he is also responsible for library systems and book acquisitions. His recent research interests includes student use of ebooks and the particular challenges of managing and providing access to ebook collection using web-scale discovery tools.

Hilary Davis

Associate Head, Collection Management, NCSU Libraries

Hilary Davis is Associate Head of Collection Management at the North Carolina State University Libraries. Her primary role is to work with faculty, students and researchers in the physical sciences and lead data analysis efforts for assessing the value of library collections. In 2008, she was named one of Library

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Journal's "Movers and Shakers." She holds an MLS from University of Missouri-Columbia and an MS in Biology from University of Missouri-St. Louis. More info: <http://www.visualcv.com/hilarymdavis>

Mitchell Davis

SVP, Business Development, BiblioLabs, LLC

Mitchell Davis, a graduate of the College of Charleston (93) has been working in media and publishing since 1994. He has launched a number of businesses, including BookSurge, which was sold to Amazon.com in 2005. He is a founder and SVP, Business Development for BiblioLabs, a technology company focused on innovating book distribution.

When not thinking about how to distribute old books, he and his wife Farrah Hoffmire have an award winning documentary film and media production company (Organic Process Productions) and he plays in a Widespread Panic cover band called 54 bicycles. He also enjoys bodysurfing and spending time with his two beagles mix hounds.

Emilie Delquie

Vice President, Publishers Communication Group

Emilie Delquie is Vice-President of Publishers Communication Group and has been an active member of the information industry for over eleven years. She joined PCG, the sales and marketing consulting firm in 2005, after working for five years with the collection development team at the University of Massachusetts-Boston Library. She is now working closely with over 100 publishers to implement marketing campaigns designed to increase retention and grow institutional subscriptions. Recently, she has conducted studies on librarians' attitudes toward e-books and co-authored chapters on e-books standards and patron-driven acquisition.

Sam Demas

Consultant, Sam Demas Collaborative Consulting and College Librarian, Carleton College

Sam Demas is a freelance librarian, helping libraries invent their futures as dynamic and flexible organizations, and as stewards of both remarkable legacy collections and a burgeoning world of digital resources. Sam has worked as a library director, as a specialist in collections and preservation in the research library community, and as a collaborator in and instigator of numerous projects and programs.

As College Librarian and Senior Lecturer at Carleton College for 13 years (1998-2011), Sam and his colleagues experimented with the development of the liberal arts college library as both a virtual space and a vibrant place of student research, community building and cultural events. The staff of Carleton's library won the ACRL Award for Excellence in Library Services for their exemplary work in developing library services in support of the college's mission. Sam provided leadership in establishing the Bridge Consortium with St. Olaf college and was involved with programs and initiatives of the Oberlin Group of libraries.

Prior to Carleton, Sam worked at Cornell University for 20 years in a variety of positions and libraries. He was Head of Collection Development and Preservation at the A.R. Mann Library of Cornell University from 1985 to 1998, and Associate Director of Mann Library for three years before that. His research interests at Cornell were in selection for preservation, national preservation planning, and in adapting the principles and practices of collection development to the challenge of developing the electronic library.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Brittany Rhea Deputy

Graduate Assistant, University of South Florida

Brittany Rhea Deputy received her Bachelor of Science degree in Public Relations from the University of Florida: College of Journalism and Communications and is currently pursuing her master's degree in Library and Information Science. Before coming to USF, she spent two years at UF as a NSF grant manager assistant and a mentor assistant to underrepresented minority students making the transition into graduate school. She is a graduate assistant in the School of Information and a graduate intern at the Shimberg Health Sciences Library. In the future, she plans to pursue a Ph.D in Applied Medical Anthropology and to specialize in Health Science Information Outreach. In her spare time, she enjoys volunteering, running, reading, cooking and drinking lots of coffee with her friends.

Tim Devenport

Consultant/Project Manager, EDItEUR

I'm Lead Serials Consultant with EDItEUR and ICEDIS, where I help develop standards for information exchange and EDI. In a parallel life, I'm an independent consultant and project manager in the serials publishing sector, specializing in business systems implementations and interpreting different business functions to one another. My career has spanned a number of senior management and project leadership roles with major academic and business publishers, including NPG, Palgrave Macmillan, Thomson, and Elsevier. All of which makes it hard to find sufficient time for family, music, rugby and steam locomotives, and figuring out the enigma that is pecha kucha!

Susann deVries

Assistant Librarian, Eastern Michigan University

Susann deVries is the Education Librarian at Eastern Michigan University. Her work as the liaison to the College of Education keeps her busy and content. Susann's life goal is to visit all of the U.S. National Parks and fix the chimney problem in her house.

Mike Diaz

Executive Director, Marketing, ProQuest

For more than a decade, Mike Diaz has worked with diverse organizations throughout the globe to enhance research and learning, to turn information into insight, and to enhance the impact of information resources.

As ProQuest Executive Director, Marketing, Mike currently manages the company's strategic outreach efforts with libraries, graduate schools, and other key customers and partners worldwide. Prior to joining ProQuest, Mike worked as Director of International Marketing at Gale and as an analyst at the U.S. Department of Commerce, where he tracked the latest trends in IT and helped US companies to expand internationally.

Mike holds degrees from American University and University of Vermont and has studied at Oxford, London School of Economics, Georgetown and University of Michigan. At Mike's blog InfoViews, he explores the latest trends at the intersection of libraries, technology, research and learning.

Mark Dimunation

Chief, Rare Book and Special Collections Division, Library of Congress

Mark Dimunation was appointed Chief of the Rare Book and Special Collections Division, Library of Congress in March 1998. As Chief, Mr. Dimunation is responsible for the development and management of the Rare Book Collection, the largest collection of rare books in North America. He acquires materials, develops programs of lectures and presentations, and oversees the operations of the Division. He came to the Library of Congress from Cornell University, where he had served since 1991 as Curator of Rare Books and Associate Director for Collections in the Division of Rare and Manuscript Collections, and taught in the English Department

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Mr. Dimunation had his start with rare books when he was appointed the Assistant Chief of Acquisitions at The Bancroft Library at the University of California, Berkeley. He served in this position from 1981 until 1983, when he was hired to be the Rare Book Librarian and Assistant Chief for Special Collections at Stanford University.

Mr. Dimunation did his undergraduate work at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minnesota. Following some course work at Christ Church College in Oxford, Mr. Dimunation entered the graduate program in American History at the University of California, Berkeley. It was the experience of doing his research at The Bancroft Library that prompted Mr. Dimunation to pursue a career in Rare Book Librarianship. He specializes in 18th and 19th century English and American printing and has considerable experience working with antiquarian materials as well as fine press and contemporary artists books. He has lectured extensively about book collections and has authored a number of exhibition catalogs, including a recent study of Andrew Dickson White as a nineteenth-century book collector. Mr. Dimunation is a member of the Grolier Club, IFLA, and the ESTC Board and is currently Chair of the Rare Books and Manuscripts Section (RBMS) of ACRL/ALA.

Lee Dirks

Director, Portfolio Strategy, Microsoft Research

Lee Dirks is the Director for Portfolio Strategy in Microsoft Research Connections, the team within Microsoft Research responsible for working closely with academia and research organizations helping solve some of the world's most challenging scientific and social problems. A veteran with more than 20 years of experience across multiple information management fields, Dirks holds a Master of Library Science degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and a post-master's degree in Preservation Administration from Columbia University. In addition to past positions at Columbia University and at OCLC, he has held a variety of roles at Microsoft since joining the company in 1996, initially as corporate archivist, then corporate librarian, and senior manager in the corporate market research organization.

Joyce Dixon-Fyle

Coordinator of Collection Development, DePauw University

Joyce Dixon-Fyle holds a PH.D. in French Literature and an M.L.S. from Indiana University, Bloomington, IN. She is the author of: Female Writers' Struggle for Rights and Education for Women in France (1848-1871), Peter Lang, 2006.

She currently serves as Coordinator of Collection Development, with rank of Associate Professor at De Pauw University, Greencastle IN.

Ed Donakey

Chief of Staff/Strategic Relations, FamilySearch

Mr. Donakey directs the global Strategic Relations team for FamilySearch where he guides technology and genealogy relationships. He sits on executive advisory councils for industry leaders Dell and HP along with serving on the board of directors for Kids on the Move. He was the founding CEO of Golder Melick and senior vice president at Agilix Labs, Caldera Systems, The Bison Group and e-leads. At different times he has directed global operations, domestic and international marketing, business development, and M&A. Earlier in his career he held product and management positions at 3Com and WordPerfect/Novell.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

For the 6th consecutive year Ed was recently elected to the v|Spring v100, recognizing the top 100 entrepreneurs in the state of Utah. Ed's bachelors and graduate studies were in Philosophy at Brigham Young University.

Rebecca Donlan

Assistant Director for Collection Management, Florida Gulf Coast University Library

Becky manages collection development and technical services for the Florida Gulf Coast University Library in Fort Myers, Florida, where she has worked since May 2000. She has served as the chair of the Florida state university libraries' Collection Planning Committee and also is editor-in-chief of the Journal of Interlibrary Loan, Document Delivery and Electronic Reserve.

Jim Dooley

Head, Collection Services, University of California, Merced

I'm the head of collections and technical services at UC Merced, the tenth and newest campus in the University of California system. The campus and library opened in 2005. Prior to coming to UC Merced in 2003 I held various positions in the J. Willard Marriott Library at the University of Utah. Currently I'm serving as chair of the UC Collection Development Committee. I'm also the chair-elect of the ALCTS Acquisitions Section.

Kimberly Douglas

University Librarian, California Institute of Technology

A staff member in the Caltech Library System since 1988, Ms. Douglas first served as Head, Reader Services and most recently both as Director of the Sherman Fairchild Library for Engineering and Applied Science and Manager, Technical Information Services.

Ms. Douglas has long been involved in designing and implementing automated library services. She introduced desktop publishing to the libraries, initiating their online presence in the early 1990's and provided leadership in the design and implementation of Caltech's groundbreaking document delivery service, TOC/DOC, and in migrating to a fully integrated automated library system. She has also taken a leadership role in implementing digital collections at Caltech, beginning in 1999 with the campus discussion regarding Copyright in Scholarly Communication. Ms. Douglas was instrumental in the planning and execution of the Sherman Fairchild Library for Engineering and Applied Science that opened in 1997. She has published on a variety of topics, most recently on aspects of digital collections.

Ms. Douglas has served on the IEEE Library Advisory Committee and is currently a member of the Visiting Committee for the Goddard Space Flight Center Library. She has been active in Library and Information Technology Association (LITA) Interest Groups by helping to found, chair and develop programs for the Interest Group on Electronic Publishing. After receiving her MS in library science from the Long Island University in 1978, Ms. Douglas held positions in scientific research libraries at the Bigelow Laboratory of Ocean Sciences in Boothbay Harbor, Maine, and at USC, where she headed the Hancock Library of Biology and Oceanography from 1982 to 1985 and the Science and Engineering Libraries from 1985 to 1988.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

John Dove

President, Credo Reference

John G. Dove has extensive experience in technology businesses including electronic publishing and online education. In 1968 he joined a start up on Wall Street that produced the first end-user accessible online database of stock market information.

In the early 90s he was on the executive team of a Boston area consulting firm, Symmetrix, which was instrumental in building learning organizations and electronic performance support systems to back them up. Subsequently, he was president and COO of SilverPlatter, a supplier of electronic and online bibliographic information to research libraries worldwide.

In 2000, John was COO of GlobalLearn, a company that deployed investigative reporters and photographers to travel the world on behalf of (and wired into) social studies classrooms. GlobalLearn was purchased by an arm of Houghton-Mifflin. Immediately prior to joining Credo Reference in 2003, John worked with the Executive Education on E-Government project at Harvard's Kennedy School of Government.

Kay Downey

Collection Management Librarian, Kent State University

Kay Downey is the Collection Management Librarian for Kent State University Libraries where she is engaged in local and statewide collection development initiatives. Previously she was the Art Librarian for serials and electronic resources at the Ingalls Library, Cleveland Museum of Art. There she also worked with colleagues from other prominent art museums and the Research Libraries Group on the development of SCIPPIO an auction catalog records database now hosted on OCLC's FirstSearch platform. She is a member of a number of professional organizations and currently serving on the ALA CRS Acquisitions Committee and ALAO Programming Committee. Her Charleston presentation is about the development of a new centralized system that manages the communication and workflow associated with the review and selection of electronic resources.

Karen Downing

Foundations and Grants Librarian, University of Michigan

Karen Downing has been a librarian since 1990 and currently is the Foundations and Grants Librarian at the University of Michigan Graduate Library. She received her Ph.D. in Education in 2009, studying higher education administration. Karen has authored a variety of articles, books and book chapters, and participated in writing the most recent ACRL Top Trends and Environmental Scan 2011. She is currently serving as an ALA Councilor at Large, and was named the first Visiting Scholar at the Diversity Research Center, Rutgers, Newark for 2010/2011.

Christine Dulaney

Associate Law Librarian for Technical and Metadata Services, American University Law Library

Currently employed as Associate Law Librarian for Technical and Metadata Services at American University Law Library in Washington, DC where I am responsible for coordinating the work of technical services as well as supervising the cataloging and metadata section. Prior to this position, I was Head of the Knowledge Assets Management Section at the Congressional Research Services at the Library of Congress. In this position, I implemented the Voyager integrated library system for CRS and developed the first Technical Services department at CRS. Prior positions included Head of Technical Services at Catholic University Law Library and Head of Acquisitions and Serials at George Washington University Law Library. I am an active member of ALA as well as AALL.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Cheri Duncan

Director, Acquisitions & Cataloging, James Madison University

Cheri Duncan is Director of Acquisitions & Cataloging at James Madison University in Harrisonburg, VA, where she has held various positions within the JMU Libraries over the past eighteen years. In her current position, Cheri oversees the units of Monographic Services, E-Resources & Serials Management, and Cataloging & Metadata. Cheri holds degrees in Communications and English Education from James Madison University and an MLIS from Texas Women's College.

Jennifer Duncan

Head of Collection Development, Utah State University

Leah Dunn

Library Director, Guilford College

Leah Dunn is Director of Hege Library at Guilford College in Greensboro, NC since August 2009. Leah is a dyed-in-the-wool Tar Heel. She holds both her B.A. in English and African Studies and her M.S.L.S. from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She spent 11 years at UNC Libraries, where she held several positions including Director of Undergraduate and Branch Libraries, Head of R.B. House Undergraduate Library and Electronic Reserves Librarian.

She spent a couple years away from N.C. where she served as librarian for the Bermuda Biological Station for Research from 1996-1998.

This is her 2nd Charleston Conference.

John Dupuis

Head, Steacie Science & Engineering Library, York University

John Dupuis has been with York University Libraries since 2000 and has been the Head of the Steacie Science & Engineering Library since 2006. He has a B.Comp.Sci from Concordia University (1986) in Montreal and an MLIS from McGill University (2000). He has been blogging at Confessions of a Science Librarian since 2002 (now at <http://scienceblogs.com/confessions/>).

David Durant

Federal Documents & Social Sciences Librarian, East Carolina University

David M. Durant is Federal Documents & Social Sciences Librarian at J.Y. Joyner Library, East Carolina University. He holds an A.B. in History from the University of Michigan, an M.A. in Modern European History from the University of California, Los Angeles, and a Master's of Science in Information (Library and Information Services) from the University of Michigan's School of Information. He has been employed at East Carolina since 1999. He also served in the North Carolina Army National Guard from 2005-2010, including a deployment to Baghdad, Iraq from April 2009-January 2010.

Marcia Dursi

Librarian and Associate Professor, Marymount University

I am entering my 11th year at Marymount University in Arlington, VA. I have a wide variety of responsibilities in our library such as Distance Education, Extension Coordinator, Service Group Leader for the Access Service Group, Reference Librarian, Instruction Librarian, Collection Selector and Liaison Librarian for the School of Business Administration's programs in Accounting, Economics, Finance, Marketing, Management, Master of Business Administration, Human Resource Management, Health Care Management and Legal Studies. In my spare time I teach a 3 credit Freshmen Inquiry course called "Photography Exposed: Another Language of Inquiry". My areas of research interest include visual literacy, graduate students and information literacy, and cognitive load theory as it applies to library instruction.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Claire Dygert

E-resource Licensing Specialist, Florida Center for Library Automation

Claire joined the Florida Center for Library Automation in May of 2007 as Electronic Resources Licensing Specialist. Claire's responsibilities include managing the FCLA funded databases that are available to all eleven state universities, as well as negotiating e-journal packages and other shared e-resource deals paid for by the libraries. Claire serves as a liaison to the state-wide Collection Planning Committee and its Electronic Resources Subcommittee. Prior to coming to FCLA, Claire worked at American University in Washington DC where she served as Department Head for E-resources and Serials. Claire's current professional activities include serving on the editorial board of the Journal of Interlibrary Loan, Document Delivery and Electronic Reserve, and on the board of FACRL.

H. Frederick Dylla

Executive Director and CEO, American Institute of Physics

Fred Dylla is the Executive Director and CEO of the American Institute of Physics, an umbrella organization of 10 scientific societies, publisher of scientific journals, and provider of physics outreach resources. Prior to this, Dylla served as Chief Technology Officer and an Associate Director at DOE's Jefferson Lab. He received his Ph.D. in physics from MIT, is a Past President and Fellow and of the AVS and a Fellow of the American Physical Society and the American Association of the Advancement of Science. The author of over 190 publications, Dylla is a strong advocate of scientific journals and for improved access to scientific information through various business models. In 2009 Dylla helped organize and participated in the Scholarly Publishing Roundtable under the aegis of the US House Science and Technology Committee. The Roundtable developed consensus recommendations for the development of public access policies for scholarly data and publications. Dylla currently serves on the STM Board of Directors and on the Executive Committee of the Professional and Scholarly Publication of the American Association of Publishers.

Liam Earney

Head of Licensing, JISC Collections

I've been working with JISC Collections for the last 8 years negotiating with publishers and licensing e-resources for universities and colleges.

In that time I have gradually become more and more interested in e-resource management, especially as a way of managing an ever increasing number of licensed resources and communicating effectively the terms of those licences to institutions and their users.

I now find myself in the exciting and daunting position of getting to address all of these issues with the Knowledge Base Plus project, where we'll be building a shared knowledge base of ERM information based on community participation.

Brad Eden

Dean of Library Services, Valparaiso University

Bradford Lee Eden is Dean of Library Services at Valparaiso University. Previous positions include Associate University Librarian for Technical Services and Scholarly Communication at the University of California, Santa Barbara; Head, Web and Digitization Services, and Head, Bibliographic and Metadata

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Services for the University of Nevada, Las Vegas Libraries. He is editor of OCLC Systems & Services: Digital Library Perspectives International and The Bottom Line: Managing Library Finances, and is on the editorial boards of Library Hi Tech and The Journal of Film Music. He has a masters and Ph.D. degrees in musicology, as well as an MS in library science. He publishes in the areas of metadata, librarianship, medieval music and liturgy, and J.R.R. Tolkien. His two books Innovative Redesign and Reorganization of Library Technical Services: Paths for the Future and Case Studies (Libraries Unlimited, 2004) and More Innovative Redesign and Reorganization of Library Technical Services (Libraries Unlimited, 2009) are used and cited extensively in the field. He is the author of Metadata and Its Applications (ALA TechSource, 2002), 3D Visualization Techniques (ALA TechSource, 2005), Innovative Digital Projects in the Humanities (ALA TechSource, 2005), Metadata and Its Applications: New Directions and Updates (ALA TechSource, 2005), FRBR: Functional Requirements for Bibliographic Records (ALA TechSource, 2006), and Information Organization Future for Libraries (ALA TechSource, 2007). His new book Middle-earth Minstrel: Essays on Music in Tolkien was published by McFarland Publishing in 2010.

Rachael Elrod

Reference and Instruction Librarian, The Citadel

Rachael Elrod has been a Reference and Instruction Librarian at The Citadel since 2010. Prior to that, she worked as a student supervisor at the University of Louisville for 4 years. She holds an MLS from the University of Kentucky (2008) as well as a Master of Education degree with a concentration in Counseling Psychology from the University of Louisville (2002). Her main research focus is on information literacy in the classroom.

Jill Emery

Collection Development Librarian, Portland State University

Jill Emery is the collection development librarian at Portland State University and has over fifteen years of academic library experience from various higher education institutions within the United States of America. She has served as chair of the ALA-ALCTS continuing resources committee (previously the serials section) and is a past-president of the North American Serials Interest Group (NASIG). Jill is also the social media specialist for the Electronic Resources & Libraries, LLC and serves on their program planning committee for the annual conference. She is a current member of The Charleston Advisor editorial board and the columnist for Heard on the Net.

Lenore England

Digital Resources Librarian, University of Maryland University College

Ms. Lenore England is the Digital Resources Librarian at the University of Maryland University College. Ms. England has been responsible for electronic resources management, financial, and procurement matters for the library for 10 years. She is active in the electronic resources management for the University System of Maryland and Affiliated Institutions, as Co-Chair of the Electronic Collections Task Group, and a member of the Maryland Digital Library Content Working Group and is on the Fundraising Committee for ALCTS. Ms. England holds an MLIS from San Jose State University and an MBA from George Mason University.

Richard Entlich

Collection Analyst, Cornell University Library

Richard Entlich has been Collection Analyst at Cornell University Library since November 2010. He is the lead analyst for a Mellon Foundation funded review of area studies collections for the 2CUL Project, and was the principal data analyst for a comprehensive circulation study of Cornell's print monograph collection. Previously, he spent four years as Research and Assessment Librarian. Prior to that, his work at Cornell focused on electronic publishing, digital imaging, and digital preservation. He was a lecturer in Cornell's Digital Imaging and Digital Preservation Management workshop series and co-authored the associated award-winning tutorials. From 1999-2007 he was a regular contributor to RLG DigiNews.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Greg Eow

Kaplanoff Librarian for British and American History, Yale University Library

Between work and school I have lived in several places, including Boston, Pittsburgh, Houston, Atlanta, New Haven, Connecticut, Washington, DC, and even Conway, Arkansas. I earned an M.L.I.S. in the archival studies program at the University of Pittsburgh's School of Information, and completed the Ph.D. in 20th century U.S. history at Rice University. At Yale I handle collection development for British and U.S. history collections, serve on the Yale University Library's Collection Steering Committee, and am currently putting together a library task force on patron driven acquisitions.

Jasper Faase

Project Manager, Koninklijke Bibliotheek (National Library of the Netherlands)

Jasper Faase (1974) is Project Manager Digitization at the Koninklijke Bibliotheek (National Library of the Netherlands). Since 1999 Jasper has been involved in large scale digitization projects concerning historical data. In 2008 he joined the Koninklijke Bibliotheek as coordinator of 'Heritage of the Second World War', a digitization programme that generated the following national collections: war diaries, propaganda material and illegally printed literature. He currently heads the Databank Digital Daily Newspapers project at the Koninklijke Bibliotheek, and is involved in several other mass-digitization projects within the KB's digitization department.

Jody Fagan

Director, Scholarly Content Systems, James Madison University

Jody Condit Fagan currently serves as Director of Scholarly Content Systems and Associate Professor in Libraries & Educational Technologies at James Madison University. She is also a PhD candidate in JMU's School of Strategic Leadership Studies. She previously worked at Morris Library, Southern Illinois University Carbondale, where she also obtained a Masters degree in history. She is a proud graduate of the College of Information Studies at the University of Maryland, College Park. Jody is currently the editor of the Journal of Web Librarianship and has recently published two books, Comic Book Collections for Libraries, with Bryan D. Fagan (Libraries Unlimited, 2011), and Web Project Management for Academic Libraries (Chandos, 2009), with Jennifer A. Keach. She has also published articles in Information Technology and Libraries, Computers in Libraries, and The Charleston Advisor, and has presented regularly at conferences such as the American Library Association, the American Society for Information Science and Technology, Computers in Libraries, and Electronic Resources & Libraries.

Dawn Fairbanks

Processing and Serials Specialist, American University

Dawn Fairbanks spent seven years running the youth services department of a public library in Vermont, where her day ranged from singing nursery rhymes with new parents to providing job search support for the newly unemployed. With a BA in writing and an MA in English Renaissance literature, Dawn spends her off hours singing opera, occasionally performing alongside her husband and two teenage daughters.

Leslie Farison

Business Librarian, Appalachian State University

Leslie Farison is Business Librarian and Assistant Professor at Appalachian State University, Boone, North Carolina. She received her MLIS from the University of Kentucky and her MBA from Indiana University.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Prior to becoming a librarian, Leslie spent many years in the corporate world. She has published in the Journal of Education for Library and Information Science and written book chapters for titles from ALA, Salem Press and IGI Global. She has previously presented at the Charleston Conference. Her research interests include Economics in Collection Development, Business information literacy, Citation Analysis and International librarianship.

Tina Feick

Director of Sales and Marketing, HARRASSOWITZ (Booksellers and Subscription Agents)

Tina is currently the Director of Sales and Marketing for HARRASSOWITZ, booksellers and subscription agents. She previously worked for Swets and for Blackwell's Information Services. Prior to working for subscription agents, she was the Head of Serials at Princeton University and the Free Library of Philadelphia. With over 35 years of serials experience, Tina holds a M.A. in Librarianship from the University of Denver and a MBA from Temple University. Active in serials organizations, Tina was previously President of NASIG and Chair of SISAC (Serials Industry Systems Advisory Committee).

Kady Ferris

Collection Development Librarian, St. Edward's University

Kady Ferris received her MSIS from the University of Texas at Austin and her undergraduate degree from the University of California, Berkeley. Since graduating from UT in 2010, Kady has been working non-stop on establishing and implementing a holistic weeding policy for the library at St. Edward's University in preparation for the packing and storage of the collection during the construction of a new library building. She serves on the ALCTS Transforming Collections Task Force charged with "providing leadership in the transformation of libraries and library services in a dynamic and increasing global digital information environment."

Rachel Fleming

Serials Librarian, Western Carolina University

Rachel Fleming has been the Serials Librarian at Hunter Library, Western Carolina University, since June 2011. The first five months of her employment at WCU have been devoted to a complete review of continuing resources in light of a significant budget reduction. Rachel came to WCU from Central College in Pella, Iowa, where she served as Collection Development Librarian for five years. Her responsibilities at Central included all monographic, serials, and electronic resources collections. While at Central, Rachel streamlined serials budgets to add resources without additional funds, and strategically reduced the monographic collection by 15%. Rachel is a graduate of the Library Science program at the University of Missouri – Columbia's School of Information Science and Learning Technologies.

Rachel Fleming-May

Assistant Professor, School of Information Sciences, The University of Tennessee

Rachel Fleming-May's main areas of teaching and research interest center around evaluation of academic library resources and services. She has a particular interest in the assessment of e-resources usage and co-authored the August/September 2010 issue of Library Technology Reports, entitled "The Concept of Electronic Resource Usage and Libraries," with Jill E. Grogg. Fleming-May is a member of the Lib-Value grant program's management team.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Bernie Folan

Head of Journals Marketing, SAGE, London

Bernie Folan is Head of Journals Marketing at SAGE Publications. She has overall responsibility for the marketing of SAGE journals and of marketing a growing number of e-products to the library market, working closely with sales, circulation and editorial teams globally. She sits on the UKSG Marketing Committee and the MAPP (Marketing in Academic and Professional Publishing) committee. Bernie was a member of the Usage Factor working group and speaks at various publishing and library events. Bernie has a keen interest in understanding the needs of an evolving library and the changing nature of academic research.

Yem Fong

Faculty Director, Collection Development, University of Colorado Boulder

Yem Fong is professor and director for Collection Development, University of Colorado Boulder Libraries. She has been an academic librarian for more than twenty years and has presented and written articles on return on investment, collection development, ILL and fee-based services. Her professional career has been broad based, including reference, serials, collection development and interlibrary loan experience at the Pikes Peak Library District and Colorado College. She also managed research and records for a special library before moving to the University of Colorado (CU). At CU, Fong directed the University of Colorado Technical Research Center, a fee based information service and interlibrary loan before moving to her current position in collection development in 2004.

Kathleen Fountain

Head of Collection Development, Washington State University Vancouver

Kathleen (Kathi) Carlisle Fountain manages the collection development operations at the Vancouver campus of Washington State University. While there, she has decentralized monographic buying by distributing it to liaison librarians, instituted data-driven monographic budgets, upgraded ordering for efficiency, and implemented a purchase on demand program. Her Charleston talk is a direct result of managing the monographic media collection and requests for streaming media in online classes. Before coming to WSU Vancouver, Kathi spent 10 years focusing on political science and government documents librarianship at California State University, Chico and at Creighton University.

Shin Freedman

Head of Acquisitions & Serials, Framingham State University Library

Shin Freedman, a freshwater New Englander, is Head of Acquisitions & Serials at Framingham State University Library in Framingham, MA. Shin received a MLS from Simmons College and an MBA from Bentley University. Prior to Framingham State, she worked at academic libraries including Brown University Sciences Library, Simmons College Library and Harvard University libraries. At her spare time, she enjoys jazz music and reading the Corrections section in the New York Times.

Rachel Frick

Director, Digital Library Federation

Rachel Frick is the senior program officer for the Council on Library and Information Resources' Digital Library Federation (DLF). Frick comes to CLIR from the Institute for Museum and Library Services (IMLS), where she was senior program officer for the National Leadership Grants Program for Libraries. She will assume her new position on May 21.

Prior to joining IMLS, Frick was head of bibliographic access and digital services at the University of Richmond. During her tenure she was selected to participate in the Frye Leadership Institute. Frick has also served as assistant acquisitions head and serials librarian at Virginia Commonwealth University, and as a sales manager for the Faxon Company. She holds an MSLS degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and a BA in English literature from Guilford College.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Curt Friehs

Business Librarian, SUNY-College at Old Westbury

Curt Friehs is the Business Librarian at SUNY-College at Old Westbury. In addition to Curt's library science degree, he also holds a degree in business administration. He is an avid volunteer at art museums and patron of the arts. Curt has written business-themed newspaper columns as a public librarian, presented at national library conferences, and has worked as a librarian with management responsibilities.

Li Fu

Digital Services Librarian, University of Maryland University College

Ms. Li Fu is the Digital Services Librarian in Information and Library Services at the University of Maryland University College. Ms. Fu provides support for electronic resources access and the library Web page, answers technical questions, and performs maintenance on SFX and ResearchPort. She holds a dual masters degree MIS/MLS from Indianan University - Bloomington.

Camila Gabaldon

Collection Development Librarian, Western Oregon University

At first glance, simultaneously having the roles of collection development librarian and resident techie might not seem like a great combination. After almost 10 years of doing it, I wouldn't have it any other way. Being at the cusp of revolutions in library activities, services, and attitudes is exciting and energizing, even when the sparks fly – as they occasionally do at our small library. Watching patrons make use of the programs and services we develop is incredibly rewarding and inspires me to work even harder at what I do.

I love pushing boundaries in the library world and take the word impossible as a challenge.

Erika Gallagher

Acquisitions Editor, IGI Global

With experience in Media Communications, Erika Gallagher joined IGI Global in 2007 and has since commissioned hundreds of book and journal titles. As part of the Editorial Content Division, she specializes in title creation and coverage management. She was promoted to her current position of Acquisitions Editor in 2009 and has held the title of Employee of the Quarter for her efforts. Erika graduated from the University of Pittsburgh, earning a B.A. in English Writing with a focus in Journalism, and a Certificate in Communications.

Julia Gammon

Head, Acquisitions Dept., University of Akron

Julia Gammon is Head of the Acquisitions Department at the University of Akron and serves as Marketing Manager for the University of Akron Press. Active in the library community, Ms. Gammon was President of NASIG and is involved in ACRL, ALA and ALCTS committees. She was co-editor of Advances in Serials Management and is on the editorial board for Serials Review and Library Collections Acquisitions and Technical Services. On a regional level she is currently chair of the OhioLINK Collection Building Task Force a key committee in Ohio's statewide library consortium. She was the recipient of the ALCTS Leadership in Acquisitions Award.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Julie Garrison

Associate Dean of Research and Instructional Services, Grand Valley State University

Julie Garrison is Associate Dean for Research and Instructional Services at Grand Valley State University. Her responsibilities include collection development, reference and research services, and the libraries' instructional, outreach, and liaison programs. Previously, she held positions as the Director of Off-Campus Library Services at Central Michigan University and Associate Director of Public Services at Duke University Medical Center Library. Her research interests include organizational development, the evolution of collection development, and new models for providing access.

Julia Gelfand

Applied Sciences & Engineering Librarian, Univ of Calif., Irvine Libraries

Julia Gelfand has been engaged with issues related to scholarly communications and academic publishing her entire career. She returns to Charleston this year to share ideas about relationships between new product development and the library's response in these challenging economic times. She is interested in best practices and tracking the ongoing changes in collection development activities as digital delivery alters the institutional landscape.

Diane Geraci

Associate Director for Information Resources, MIT Libraries

As Associate Director for Information Resources, Diane Geraci is one of four Associates on the leadership team of the MIT Libraries, with direct responsibility for acquisitions, metadata and enterprise systems; collections strategy and management; curation and preservation services; information delivery and library access; and Institute Archives and special collections. She is also actively engaged with the work of the Library's Office of Scholarly Publishing and Licensing. Prior to moving to MIT in 2008, she served as Librarian for the Social Sciences at Harvard College Library; held joint appointments as the Director of Science Libraries at the University of Michigan Library and Faculty Associate at ICPSR; and held various positions at the UK Data Archive (UKDA) at the University of Essex and at Binghamton University Libraries. Diane currently serves on the ACM Library Advisory Board, IEEE Library Advisory Council, ORCID Board, and representative on the Coalition of Open Access Policy Institutions (COAPI).

Heather Getsay

Resource Acquisitions Librarian, Slippery Rock University of Pennsylvania

Ms. Getsay has served as Resource Acquisitions Librarian at Slippery Rock University since 2009. Prior to that, Ms. Getsay was the director of a public library, and also worked as a law librarian in a special library. Ms. Getsay holds a Master of Library and Information Science degree from the University of Pittsburgh, and currently is pursuing a Master of Science degree in Legal Studies, Law and Public Policy, from California University of Pennsylvania.

Kelli Getz

Assistant Head of Acquisitions, University of Houston

Kelli Getz is Assistant Head of Acquisitions at the University of Houston's M.D. Anderson Library in Houston, Texas. She received her MLS from Indiana University- Bloomington in 2007. Kelli recently presented at the Texas Library Association Conference on "Strategy: Setting Successful Strategic Directions for the UH Libraries." She is also busy serving on NASIG's Continuing Education Committee, ALA's ALCTS Budget and Finance Committee, and is an active member of the Texas Library Association.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Nancy Gibbs

Head, Acquisitions Department, Duke University

Nancy Gibbs is head of Acquisitions at Duke University Libraries, The department is responsible for ordering all monographs, serials, periodicals and electronic resources and orders, receives, and catalogs non-Roman language materials. She has held positions at Penn State University Libraries as a Reference Librarian and Head of Personnel; Auburn University as a Humanities Cataloger and Approval Plan Librarian; and at North Carolina State University Libraries as Asst Head and Head of Acquisitions. She received her Bachelor's degree in Elementary Education from James Madison University and her Masters in Library Science from the University of Denver.

She is the past chair of the Acquisitions Section of the American Library Association; is active in the profession; serving on the editorial boards of two professional journals: Serials Review and Library Collections and Technical Services. She was the 2007 recipient of the Leadership in Library Acquisitions Award presented by the American Library Association's Association of Library Collections and Technical Services. In 2008 she was asked to teach a five day class in acquisitions practices to students in the United Arab Emirates at Al-Ain University. She continues to speak about acquisitions practices, electronic books, and electronic resources at local, national and international conferences. She serves on advisory boards for a number of library vendors and is a consultant in the field of acquisitions, publishing and vendor relationships.

Katy Ginanni

Collection Development Librarian, Western Carolina University

Katy Ginanni recently realized that she had 25 years of experience in serials before making a move to collection development. For someone whose initial interest in libraries was in archives and special collections, this came as something of a shock. Her jobs in life have included swimming instructor and lifeguard; artist's model; serials acquisitions and electronic resources for several academic libraries; account services, training, and sales manager for a subscription agent; bartender; and, most recently, collection development. Katy currently works at Western Carolina University, and has enjoyed exploring her new home in the back yard of the Great Smoky Mountains.

Cathy Goodwin

Head of Collection Management, Coastal Carolina University

Cathy Goodwin is currently Head of Collection Management at Coastal Carolina University's Kimbel Library, where she is responsible for collection development, cataloging, acquisitions and selection, licensing and acquisition of electronic resources. Cathy received the M.L.I.S. from the University of South Carolina in 2007, and holds an M.S.P.H. (Public Health) from UNC-Chapel Hill and a B.A. in biology from – yes, really – Transylvania University.

Michael Gorrell

Executive Vice President and Chief Information Officer, EBSCO Publishing

Michael Gorrell is responsible for managing all technology operations for EBSCO Publishing, as well as providing key leadership in strategic product direction for the EBSCOhost platform. Michael joined EBSCO Publishing in August 1994, coming from the high tech industry, specifically hired to help usher in the ambitious new service called EBSCOhost. He has been responsible for building a high performance system that meets the highest industry standards for performance and availability.

Mr. Gorrell has been instrumental in making usability testing central to the product design of the EBSCOhost platform, overseeing an industry-leading end-user testing program that has yielded tremendous feedback and enhancements to EBSCO's interfaces. In addition, under his direction, EBSCO Publishing has become the industry leader in website accessibility for users with various physical and visual disabilities.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Following EBSCO's acquisition of NetLibrary, the technology teams were charged with the mission of integrating eBooks into the EBSCOhost platform and Mr. Gorrell's direct involvement helped allow this to be accomplished within one year, including new functionality that had never before been available for eBooks.

Jill Grogg

Electronic Resources Librarian, University of Alabama

Jill Grogg is the Electronic Resources Librarian at the University of Alabama and has published widely on topics such as reference linking, e-resource management, digital libraries, and negotiation in a variety of publications, including Searcher, College & Research Libraries, and Computers in Libraries. Her work has been cited both inside and outside her field, including in Science. She is a member of the editorial board of Serials Review and has presented nationally and internationally. She has a forthcoming book The Librarian's Guide to Negotiation: Winning Strategies for the Digital Age from Information Today, Inc. (March 2012).

Pamela Grudzien

Head of Technical Services, Central Michigan University

Pamela Grudzien received her Master of Science in Librarianship from Western Michigan University and her Master of Science in Administration from Central Michigan University. She has held positions in collection development, reference, and resource sharing in both public and academic libraries. She has served in three department head positions at the Central Michigan University Libraries over the last 26 years--Access Services, Collection Development, and currently, Technical Services. One of her proudest accomplishments was her involvement in the building renovation of the Charles V. Park Library which resulted in the fabulous facility she now works in every day.

Carl Gustafson

Vice President of Technology, Wolters Kluwer Health

Carl Gustafson, Vice President of Technology for Wolters Kluwer Health Medical Research, based in New York City. Carl joined Medical Research in September 2006, and is among those responsible for the successful deployment of a new generation of Ovid search products under the OvidSP banner. Prior to joining Medical Research, Carl served as CTO and Vice President of Operations for CT Corsearch, a business unit within Wolters Kluwer Corporate Legal Services. During his tenure at CT Corsearch (2000-2006), he led the development team responsible for the introduction of Corsearch Advantage, an online trademark review tool. Before joining Wolters Kluwer, Carl worked within technical development for Reuters, based in Hauppauge, New York for 17 years. Carl, married with two children, received a BA in Economics from Clark University in Worcester, Massachusetts.

Kevin Guthrie

President, ITHAKA

Kevin M. Guthrie is an executive and entrepreneur with expertise in high technology and not-for-profit management. Kevin was the founding president of JSTOR (1995) and ITHAKA (2004). ITHAKA helps the academic community use digital technologies to preserve the scholarly record and to advance research and teaching in sustainable ways. It provides three externally facing services: JSTOR, the research, teaching and learning platform, Portico, the digital preservation service, and Ithaka S+R, the strategy and research enterprise focused on helping the scholarly community make a successful and sustainable transition to digital and network technologies. ITHAKA has offices in New York, NY, Princeton, NJ, and Ann Arbor, MI.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Previously Kevin started his own software development company serving the needs of college and professional football teams, and later served as a research associate at The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, where he authored The New-York Historical Society: Lessons from One Nonprofit's Long Struggle for Survival (Jossey Bass).

Kevin holds a BSE in Civil Engineering from Princeton University and a Masters in Business Administration from Columbia University. He lives in New York City with his wife, Sari Chang, and their three children.

Judi Guzzy

Technical Services Librarian, Johnson County Community College

Judi Guzzy has been the Technical Services Librarian at Johnson County Community College since 2003. She holds an MLIS from the University of California, Berkeley, A.M. in Teaching English as a Second Language from the University of Illinois, and a BS in Psychology from the University of Illinois. Her interests are collaborative resource-sharing, project management and life in general.

Chuck Hamaker

Assoc University Librarian for Collections & Tech Svcs, University of North Carolina Charlotte

Sebastian Hammer

President, Index Data

Sebastian is a co-founder of Index Data, a discovery software and services company originally started in Denmark in 1994. His professional interests include search technologies and standardization, and he has created several Open Source tools that are in widespread use among libraries and vendors. He lives in rural New Hampshire.

William Hannay

Partner, Schiff Hardin LLP

William M. Hannay leads the firm's Antitrust and Trade Regulation Practice Group. He regularly represents corporations and individuals in civil and criminal matters, involving federal and state antitrust law, the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA), foreign direct investments (including Exon-Florio), antiboycott laws, and export control regulations.

Mr. Hannay is the past Chairman of the American Bar Association's (ABA) 14,000-member Section of International Law, was a founding member of the ABA's Asia Law Initiative Council, and was the first chairman of the ABA's Africa Law Initiative Council. He has led delegations of American Bar Association lawyers on international legal exchanges to South Africa, Hong Kong, Vietnam, Ghana, the Ivory Coast and Morocco.

He is a former Assistant District Attorney in the New York District Attorney's Office. On behalf of Schiff Hardin clients, he has conducted non-public internal investigations, and represented clients in external investigations by U.S. and foreign enforcement agencies.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Cody Hanson

Website Architect and UX Analyst, University of Minnesota Libraries

Cody Hanson has co-chaired the University of Minnesota's "Discoverability" task forces, which have authored two reports on discovery in academic libraries. Cody is the author of "Libraries and the Mobile Web," a 2011 ALA Library Technology Report, he was a 2010 ALA Emerging Leader, and he chairs the LITA Education Committee.

Kathryn Harnish

Senior Product Manager, OCLC

In her role as Senior Product Manager at OCLC, Kathryn Harnish leads the organization's initiatives for the cooperative platform, development community support, and analytics...although she confesses an undying love for acquisitions workflows, as well! Prior to joining OCLC in early 2010, Kathryn enjoyed a 13-year tenure at Ex Libris (formerly Endeavor), most recently serving as the Director of Product Management. Kathryn holds an MLS from the University of Pittsburgh.

Matthew Harrington

Collection Management Assistant, Virginia Tech

Matthew Harrington has been assembling cost and use analyses for online resources at Virginia Tech since 2009. He previously taught English composition at Radford University. He holds a M.A. in Communications, a B.A. in English and a B.A. in History, all from Virginia Tech, with additional coursework in George Mason University's Cultural Studies Ph.D. program. Matthew has worked at the Catholic University of America's Mullen Library, George Mason University's Fenwick Library, as well as Virginia Tech's Newman Library, where he began his first library position as a Student Assistant in 1992.

Aisha Harvey

Head, Collection Development, Duke University Libraries

Aisha Harvey joined Duke University Libraries in 2002. In her current position as the Head of Collection Development, Aisha provides leadership, vision and strategic direction for the Duke University Libraries in the development and management of the libraries' collections. She is also the Library Science subject librarian. In 2011, Aisha served as the Association of Southeastern Research Libraries' (ASERL) first Visiting Program Officer to lead the development of a cooperative journal retention program in the south east region. Prior to working at Duke, Aisha worked at the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation exposing her to public libraries throughout rural North Carolina. Aisha holds a BA in English Literature from UNC-Greensboro and an MSLS from UNC-Chapel Hill.

Aisha is a Class of 2000 ALA Spectrum Scholar, a 2004 University of Minnesota Leadership Institute for Early Career Librarians alum, a 2007-2008 ARL Leadership and Career Development Fellow, and a 2010 Harvard LIAL alum.

Areas of Professional Interest/Expertise: sustainable asset management, transformative leadership, access driven services and collections, "the book" as it evolves

Eric Hellman

President, Gluejar, Inc.

Eric Hellman, is President of Gluejar, Inc. He is a technologist, entrepreneur, and writer. After 10 years at Bell Labs in physics research, Eric became interested in technologies surrounding e-journals and libraries. His first business, Openly Informatics, developed OpenURL linking software and knowledgebases, and was acquired by OCLC in 2006. At OCLC, he led the effort to productize and expand the xISBN service, and began development of Electronic Resource Management services. After leaving OCLC, Eric began blogging at Go To Hellman. He covers the intersection of technology, libraries and ebooks, and has written extensively on the Semantic Web and Linked Data. His new business is Gluejar, Inc, which is developing a platform to "unglue ebooks".

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Kittie Henderson

Director, Academic and Law Divisions, EBSCO Information Services

Kittie Henderson, M.L.S., serves as Director of the Academic and Law Divisions. In her position, Henderson works with EBSCO staff and clients in North America to develop and expand services to academic, research and law libraries. Henderson has been with EBSCO since 1992.

Kenneth Hendges

Team Leader, Technical Support, BUSCA, Inc.

Charles Henry

President, Council on Library and Information Resources

Bruce Heterick

Vice President, JSTOR | Portico

Bruce Heterick is Vice President at ITHAKA, where he has sales and business development responsibilities for JSTOR and Portico on a global basis.

Bruce has spent nearly 25 years in the higher education and library communities. He was an application developer at Virginia Tech before joining VTLS in 1988. Bruce held senior management positions at The Faxon Company and Blackwells, and prior to joining JSTOR in 1999, was executive director of SunGard SCT's higher education consulting practice.

Bruce has written and presented extensively on information management issues, and is active in the Coalition for Networked Information (CNI), and the National Information Standards Organization (NISO), where he is currently serving as Chair of the Board.

He holds a B.S. in Management from Virginia Tech, and a M.B.A. from the Pamplin School at Virginia Tech.

Charles Hillen

Head of Acquisitions & Serials Dept., Loyola Marymount University

Charles Hillen earned his M.S.I.S. degree from the University of Tennessee, Knoxville where he recently completed a three-year appointment on the Advisory Board of the School of Information Sciences. He earned his B.M. and M.M. degrees in music performance from the University of Cincinnati, College-Conservatory of Music. After working as the Lead Cataloger and as supervisor of the Diehn Composers Room at Old Dominion University (Norfolk, VA), Charles worked as the Head of Acquisitions at the Getty Research Institute in Los Angeles. Currently, Charles is the Head of the Acquisitions and Serials Department at Loyola Marymount University (also in Los Angeles) and is the chair of the ALA ALCTS-AS Research and Statistics Committee. Charles is interested in issues surrounding library staff training and development, knowledge management and database control.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Susan Hinken

Head, Technical Services and Collection Development, University of Portland

Susan Hinken is the Head of Technical Services and Collection Development at the University of Portland W. W. Clark Memorial Library in Portland, Oregon where she also serves as an adjunct in Department of History. She is active in the Orbis Cascade Alliance focusing on collaborative collection development and electronic resources issues. Chair of the Alliance's original EBook Task Force, she is currently serving on the Demand Driven Implementation Team and chairs the Collaborative Technical Services Team.

Will Hires

Assistant Librarian, Louisiana State University

Will Hires is the engineering and scholarly communication librarian at Louisiana State University (LSU). His undergraduate degree is in electrical engineering. Since graduating from the LSU School of Library and Information Science in 1995, he has worked as a librarian at Ohio State University, Vanderbilt University, and the Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Laboratory. He has been at LSU since 2008 and is the liaison to the seven departments in the College of Engineering and to the Department of Computer Science. He is also the interim Patents and Trademarks Librarian and works scheduled shifts on the Reference Desk in the Middleton Library. He is a member of the American Library Association and the Association of College and Research Libraries. His research interests include engineering collection development, the system of scholarly communication, and the importance of open access for the sharing of information, for collaboration on research, and for the general advancement of knowledge.

Sandra Hirsh

Director and Professor, San Jose State University

Sandra Hirsh is Professor and Director of the School of Library and Information Science at San Jose State University, where she leads the world's largest accredited graduate program in library and information science. Prior to this, Hirsh leveraged her knowledge as an information professional at leading global companies -- as a senior user experience manager at Microsoft and as director of the Information Research Program at HP Labs. She has received five U.S. design patents for consumer web products. She holds a PhD from UCLA and a Master of Library and Information Science from the University of Michigan.

Clement Ho

Social Sciences Librarian, American University

Clement Ho has been at American University Library for nine years. He is the librarian for the History, International Studies, Political Science, Public Administration, Justice and Law, Sociology, Women Gender and Sexuality Studies, Jewish Studies, and Israeli Studies programs at the university. He oversees the collection and library instruction for these programs.

Karen Hogenboom

Numeric and Spatial Data Librarian, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Karen Hogenboom came to data librarianship on a long and winding road, from degrees in literature and rhetoric through a stint at a small law firm before getting an MLIS and working as a librarian for the Illinois General Assembly. From the General Assembly it was a short step to the Government Documents Library at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, and another short step to focus on numeric and spatial data. That is where you will find her today, unless she is in the garden or playing chamber music.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Robert Holley

Professor, Wayne State University School of Library & Information Science

Bob Holley has been actively involved in collection development since 1980 as an academic librarian, library science professor, and researcher. He was chief collection development officer at the University of Utah and at Wayne State University. He has taught collection development to hundreds of students both in the classroom and online in the Wayne State University School of Library & Information Science. His eclectic research interests include cooperative collection development, popular culture in libraries, intellectual freedom, scholarly communication, and the out-of-print book market. He is particularly interested in how the Internet has influenced scholarly communication and collection development. He believes that libraries should track more closely developments in the corporate sector to help develop and evaluate similar library services.

David Hoole

Marketing Director, Nature Publishing Group

David Hoole is the Marketing Director for Nature Publishing Group, responsible for all marketing, licensing and customer relations. His remit includes funder and library relations, copyright, open access and self-archiving policies, content licensing, rights and permissions, corporate and institutional marketing, public relations, and brand management. David joined Nature Publishing Group (NPG) in 2001 and was Head of Brand Marketing and Content Licensing for eight years, after a year as NPG's Internet Strategist. He graduated from Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, in 1990 with a degree in Natural Sciences. From 1991 to 2001 he worked in a variety of marketing, publishing, and commercial roles at Elsevier. Outside of NPG, David is a keen runner, cyclist, and foodie.

Tony Horava

AUL Collections, University of Ottawa

I've been working in academic libraries for about 24 years, and there's never been a time of greater opportunity for us develop new strategies to providing information resources and demonstrate our value. New types of resources, new ways of choosing and delivering resources - it's also a bewildering time of new information technologies but this keeps things interesting! I'm intrigued by the rapid evolution of scholarly communication practices and what this means for us. Collaboration and risk-taking will take us in new directions. How we get there is the question...

Ross Housewright

Senior Analyst, ITHAKA S+R

Kirsten Huhn

Head, Electronic Resources and Receiving, Concordia University Libraries

Kirsten is Head of Electronic Resources and Receiving at Concordia University Libraries in Montréal. Prior to coming to Concordia she worked in Technical Services and ILL at Jacobs University in Northern Germany. A native German, Kirsten holds an M.A. in American Studies from Universität Leipzig and an MLIS from McGill University. Her professional interests include serials and electronic resource management, licensing, and staff development in academic libraries. When she is not trying to hit the curveballs of the electronic resources and serials world, Kirsten enjoys travelling, yoga, great (vegetarian) food and wine. This is her first Charleston conference.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Carol Hunter

Associate University Librarian for Collections and Services, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Carol Hunter is the Associate University Librarian for Collections and Services at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and leads the library efforts in building collections and providing scholarly communication, research, instruction, and access services. As a member of the Library's senior leadership team, she helps to define priorities and long-range plans for the Library. She is also an active member of the Triangle Research Libraries Network (TRLN) Council of Directors. Prior to her appointment at UNC in November 2010, Carol served as Associate University Librarian for Public Services and Collections at the University of Virginia.

Jill Jascha

Head of Acquisitions, University of Arkansas at Little Rock

Jill Jascha received her MLIS (1993) from the University of Oklahoma (Go Sooners!). After graduation, she was in charge of Acquisitions and a member of the Library Management Team at North Idaho College for 17 years. Currently, Jill is the head of Acquisitions at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock. She created and developed a sparkling new Acquisitions department and has library-lands' best staff. Jill appreciates living in the beautiful state of Arkansas and Little Rock really does rock. In her liberty from the library; she enjoys hanging out with her beloved Golden Retriever, Maxine. Jill also pursues the fine art of shopping, watching college football, and is determined to try every one of Little Rock's 500 eateries.

Mark Johnson

Director, Publisher Relations, HighWire Press / Stanford University

Mark Johnson leads HighWire's team of talented Publication Managers and Publication Specialists, the staff responsible for providing strategic consulting, feature development, project management, and general support services for publishers hosted on HighWire's platform. He has 20+ years of experience in the publishing business, including stints in the newspaper, cable television, and STM/scholarly publishing sectors. Prior to joining HighWire, Mark was Marketing Director for the Cell Press imprint at Elsevier, where he was involved in the successful launches of the early "Cell" branded journals. Mark lives in the San Francisco Bay Area with his wife and 2 cats. He enjoys cycling and occasionally participates in triathlons. He has been known to swim in the frigid water of the San Francisco Bay, where he has made the crossing from Alcatraz to San Francisco shore seven times (and counting).

Glenn Johnson-Grau

Head of Collection Development, Loyola Marymount University

Glenn Johnson-Grau is Head of Collection Development at Loyola Marymount University in Los Angeles. He is also a member of the Statewide California Electronic Library Consortium (SCELC) Product Review Committee. This will be his fifth Charleston Conference. He enjoys walking, so when not at conference sessions he is likely to be out exploring the city.

Gail Johnston

Associate Director of Libraries, Texas A&M University-Commerce

Gail Johnston has been Associate Director of Libraries at Texas A&M University-Commerce since January 2008. Prior to that, she held positions in both technical services and public services at East Texas Baptist University in Marshall, Texas. She earned her MLS from the University of North Texas. She is a Class of 2009 TALL Texan. She is a member of the Texas Library Association's Leadership Development Committee and is the 2011 TLA District 5 Chair. Gail is currently involved in an extensive project to evaluate and rebuild her library's long-neglected print and e-book collection.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Lindsay Johnston

Managing Director, IGI Global

Lindsay Johnston is the Managing Director at IGI Global and has been in the publishing industry for more than 5 years. Lindsay primarily oversees the Editorial Content Division with a specific emphasis on content acquisitions. During her time at IGI Global, she has procured hundreds of titles in four separate imprints and has made significant contributions to new product development. She has previous experience in educational marketing and specializes in recruitment and public relations. She holds a B.A. from Shippensburg University of Pennsylvania, where she majored in Communication/Journalism with an emphasis in Public Relations, and a minor in Human Communication Studies.

Mary Ann Jones

Coordinator of Electronic Resources, Mississippi State University Libraries

Mary Ann Jones joined the library faculty at Mississippi State University Libraries in 2005 as the Electronic Serials Librarian and has been the Coordinator of Electronic Resources since 2008. Mary Ann is responsible for the day-to-day management of all the libraries electronic resources and works closely with the serials, acquisitions, and systems departments to manage the various aspects of today's challenging electronic content across all areas of the library. Responsibilities include ordering, licensing, access management and maintenance, and assessment of eJournals, databases, and eBooks. Mary Ann received her MLIS from Florida State University in 2005 and her BA in Organizational Communication from University of Central Florida in 2001. Mary Ann's research interests include institutional repositories, journal evaluation methodology, and open access adoption in academia.

Ryan Jones

President, PubGet Inc

Pubget develops cloud-based content access tools for scientists and researchers. The company's core product, Pubget.com, is a free site for legally finding and getting research papers. The site provides access to content from 450 libraries around the world in science and engineering, weighted toward biomedical science, but including content in arXiv, JStor, and IEEE. Pubget also provides content tools for industry and libraries. All are hosted and sold via a freemium model.

Ryan manages sales, marketing and finance for Pubget. He joined Pubget from Microsoft's enterprise search group, where he helped some of the world's largest web sites build better user experiences with search technology. Before Microsoft, Ryan ran a media search business for FAST Search, and built technology market strategies at Commonwealth Capital and the Yankee Group. Ryan has an AB from Dartmouth College and an MBA from UC Berkeley.

Harry Kaplanian

Director of Research & Innovation, Serials Solutions

Harry Kaplanian has been at Serials Solutions since 2007 and is currently the Director of Research and Innovation. Prior to joining Serials Solutions, he worked for Microsoft developing Live Search Books, served as Vice President of Development at Mandarin Library Automation and previously Director of Development at SIRS Publishing. Harry holds a degree in Computer Science from Florida State University. His interests are skiing, gardening and all things related to libraries.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Robert Karmelich

National Sales Director, Swets

Robert Karmelich has been with Swets Information Services for the last five years and is the current National Sales Director. One of his key roles in this position is to actively work with libraries in creating strategies and solutions surrounding content acquisition and management. Mr. Karmelich has spent the last 13 years in the publishing/information industry and has previously held sales management positions with both HW Wilson and Infotrieve in addition to private consulting. Mr. Karmelich holds both a BS in Kinesiology and an MBA.

Michael A Keller

University Librarian, etc, Stanford University

Librarian/Cybrarian/Publisher/Music Librarian/Musicologist; SUNY/Buffalo, Cornell, Yale, Stanford; founded HighWire Press; CEO Stanford University Libraries & Academic Information Resources, HighWire Press & Stanford University Press; Fellow CLIR, American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Academy of Arts & Sciences; Board Member CLOCKSS, Bibliotheca Alexandrina, National Institute of Informatics of Japan, British Library (consultative), National Library of China, Long Now Foundation, MondobioTech, Kistler Ritso Foundation, Hamilton College, LANL; co-founder Digital Library Federation, PASIG; Siemens Stiftung Leclurer; innovation at Stanford - LOCKSS, CourseWork (Sakai), Stanford Digital Repository, Matthew Parker Online Library; P.I. & grant recipient NSF, NEH, Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, Hewlett Foundation, etc.; visiting professor Chinese Academy of Sciences; co-organizer Linked Data Workshop (CLIR/Stanford 2011); consultancies - Libya, Bahrain, Egypt, Japan, Princeton, Indiana, Yale, Uppsala, Edinburgh, Ferrara, Newsweek, KAUST, numerous scientific societies; author, panelist & speaker. Official bio on Conference Website Speaker page.

Robert Kelly

Associate Librarian, Eastern Michigan University

Robert G. Kelly assumed collection development responsibilities at Eastern Michigan University (EMU) in 2006. Previously he worked at University of Michigan-Dearborn and UM-Ann Arbor Kresge Business Administration Library. In 2005, concluding 20 years of service, he retired emeritus from the U of M. His areas of experience and research are in collection development, management, and assessment, e-journals, and vendor contracts. He enjoys both photography and traveling, most recently visiting Rome, Florence, and Venice in May 2011.

David Kennedy

Head of Systems, Sheridan Libraries, Johns Hopkins University Library

Anne Kenney

Carl A. Kroch University Librarian, Cornell University

As the chief academic and administrative officer of the university's extensive library system, Anne Kenney leads one of the world's largest research libraries, with a total budget of over $53 million, a staff of nearly 400 and more than 8 million volumes. Cornell has 20 constituent libraries located in Ithaca, Geneva (N.Y.), New York City and Doha (Qatar), and it also actively serves scholars around the globe.

Kenney came to Cornell Library in 1987 and served as associate director for the Department of Preservation and Conservation until 2001. During that time, and from 2002 to 2006 as associate university librarian for instruction, research and information services, she helped spearhead a period of change and growth that has made Cornell Library a pioneer in digitization, network access and scholarly publishing. Active in the archival and preservation communities, Kenney is a fellow and past president of the Society of American Archivists. She currently serves on the Social Science Research Council's Committee on Libraries and Archives of Cuba and is a member of the Advisory Committee of Portico, a nonprofit digital preservation service. She has served as a commissioner of the National Historical Publications and Records Commission (National Archives), the National Science Foundation/European Union Working Group on a Digital Preservation Research Agenda, and was a member of the Clinton/Gore presidential transition team.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Kenney is known internationally for her pioneering work in developing standards for digitizing library materials that have been adopted by organizations around the world, including such important archives as JSTOR, the Scholarly Journal Archive. She is the co-author of three award-winning monographs and more than 50 articles and reports. She has been the recipient of several awards, including: Yahoo en español's 2002 award in the category "Internet y computadoras"; the Society of American Archivists' Best Book Award (Leland Prize) in 1997 and 2000 for books on digital imaging for libraries and archives; the SAA Preservation Publication Award in 1995 and 2004; and the 2001 LITA/Library Hi Tech Award for Outstanding Communication in Library and Information Technology from the American Library Association. More recently, her research in organizational aspects of digital preservation has resulted in publication of reports of e-journal archiving and a training program that has had an international impact.

In 2010 Kenney also became a member of the Board of Directors for ARL (Association of Research Libraries). When not working, Anne and her dog, Hummer, are avid hikers and gardeners.

Randy Kiefer

Executive Director, The CLOCKSS Archive

Randy is the Executive Director of the CLOCKSS Archive (www.clockss.org) and actively works in the field of digital preservation of academic materials. Prior to assuming that role, Randy worked as a consultant for a number of STM publishers. His consulting work covered agency relationship, branding and business development within India, and online journal platform selection. Randy was the Director of Subscription, Membership, & Technical Services for the Institute for Operations Research and the Management Sciences (INFORMS). Randy had been with INFORMS since January 1999 until May 2010, and worked on their online publishing efforts for the last nine years, in addition to his other responsibilities. Randy has travelled to China, India, Europe, the U.K., and in the U.S. to meet with librarians, aggregators, content providers, and authors to discuss online distribution/subscription issues.

Bob Kieft

College Librarian, Occidental College

Bob has pursued interests in cooperative collections work in the TriCollege Consortium and as a board member of the Philadelphia Area Consortium of Special Collections Libraries and the Pennsylvania Academic Library Consortium, Inc. He helped to plan and conduct the 2010 IMLS-funded workshop, "Toward a Cloud Collection: Designing a National Framework to Manage Monographs" and was founder with Bernie Reilly of a group who meet informally at ALA to discuss cooperative collections issues. He is currently a member of the WEST executive committee and is an advisor to the IMLS-funded "Maine Shared Collections Strategy."

Katharina Klemperer

Project Manager, HARRASSOWITZ Booksellers and Subscription Agents

Katharina Klemperer is Project Manager for OTTO HARRASSOWITZ GmbH & Co. KG, Booksellers and Subscription Agents. She was a member of the NISO Working Group for Recommended Practices for the Presentation and Identification of E-Journals (PIE-J) and has served on numerous standards committees for both NISO and EDItEUR, the international group coordinating development of the standards infrastructure for electronic commerce in the book, e-book and serials sectors. In previous lives she was the proprietress of Library and Information Systems Consulting and also worked in library systems for the University of California, Dartmouth College, and Harvard University.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Julie Kliever

Commons Librarian for Research, Education and Collections, Providence College

Julie has been working at Phillips Memorial Library at Providence College, in Providence, RI, for the past 4 years. She is currently in charge of Collections Services, where she spends her days making sure library resources, and the people who request them, are happy! Julie comes to the field of librarianship after 20 years in private industry, in the telecommunications field. She greatly appreciates the fact that there are very few 3 AM phone calls in the library world.

Susan Klimley

Journal and Electronic Resources Librarian, Columbia University

My science librarian career can be summed up as a life spent in serials: the good the bad and the ugly. Journal publishing, electronic journals, usage statistics, author order and number, all have attracted my attention over the years.

Tom Klingler

Assistant Dean for Systems & Technical Services, Kent State University Libraries

Tom Klingler has worked in several capacities in several OhioLINK libraries. His work has included reference, systems, technical services, and collection management, though library automation has been the single consistent thread throughout his career. He has been consecutively engaged in a wide variety of OhioLINK task forces and committees for 23 years. He has chaired the OhioLINK Discovery Layer Task force from 2008 through 2011.

Elizabeth Kocevar-Weidinger

Instruction/Reference Services Librarian, Longwood University

Elizabeth Kocevar-Weidinger is Head of Instruction and Reference Services and interim E-Resources Librarian at Longwood University, Farmville, Virginia. Before coming to Longwood in 1999, she was the Instruction Coordinator at Frostburg State University, Frostburg MD. She received her MLIS in 1993 from University of Texas at Austin and her M.Ed. in 1996 from Frostburg State University. She has published and presented on reference and instruction services, informal learning spaces, and millennial culture.

Rita Kohrman

Education/ Curriculum Materials Librarian, Grand Valley State University

Rita Kohrman has been with Grand Valley State University since 1994 as the education librarian and the Curriculum Materials Library (CML) director. Rita received her bachelors degree and teacher certification from St. Andrews Presbyterian College in Laurinburg, NC., her masters degree in library science from Wayne State University, Detroit, MI., and her masters in education/adult-higher education from GVSU, Allendale, MI. Rita has been involved with the Education Behavioral Science Section of the ALA, and is the editor of a new book on the history and future of the CMLs located in the U.S. "Curriculum Materials Collections and Centers: Legacies from the Past, Visions of the Future" will be published by ACRL winter 2013.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Ramune K. Kubilius

Collection Development/ Special Projects Librarian, Northwestern University, Galter Health Sciences Library

A health sciences librarian for over two dozen years. Past chair of MLA's (Medical Library Association's) Collection Development Section and the Section Council liaison to the National Program Committee for the 2013 conference, an international federated meeting to be held in Boston. SLA (Special Libraries Association) member and on the local committee for the 2012 SLA conference in Chicago. Participates in regional and state health sciences library organizations. Involved with Charleston Conference as one of the program directors, with all that entails, including for the past few years- serving as a conference dine around host and recruiter/compiler of conference session "And They Were There" reports for "Against the Grain". (Edited 2 health sciences special issues for ATG). Convener of the first five health sciences Lively Lunches and still active in their organization, providing an annual "past year in review" segment to the program.

Nettie Lagace

Associate Director for Programs, NISO

Nettie Lagace is Associate Director for Programs at NISO, the National Information Standards Organization, where since May 2011, she is responsible for directing NISO's educational and standards development initiatives. Previously Nettie worked at Ex Libris, serving as product manager for the SFX link resolver, Verde electronic resource management software, and bX scholarly recommender service. She holds an M.I.L.S. degree from the University of Michigan, and has lived in Boston since 1997 -- enjoyments include cross-country skiing, playing with and training her chocolate Lab puppy, Ringo, and cooking and reading about food.

Selden Durgom Lamoureux

E-Resources Librarian, North Carolina State University

Selden is Electronic Resources Librarian at North Carolina State University. She has been active in electronic resource issues since 1999. Selden served as adjunct faculty at SILS UNC-Chapel Hill, and has presented at a number of conferences. Along with Judy Luther, she co-chairs the NISO SERU Standing Committee. Judy and Selden are the recipients of the first COUTTS Award for Innovation in Electronic Resources. Selden's an avid walker, a wannabe kayaker, and a sporadic but enthusiastic potter.

Andrea Langhurst

Licensing/Acquisitions Librarian, University of Notre Dame

Andrea Langhurst has worked as Licensing/Acquisitions Librarian at the University of Notre Dame, Hesburgh Libraries, since September 2008. Previously she worked as Technical Services Librarian at GE Global Research, a corporate library outside Albany, NY. Andrea received her MLIS in 2004 from the University of Iowa, where she worked as a graduate assistant on a year-long digital project on Ghana, traveling to West Africa at the end of that year to assist in a 2-day workshop on digital projects.

Victor Lao

Academic Licensing Manager, Springer

Victor Lao is the Senior Licensing Manager for the South East territory for Springer. He graduated from Rutgers University in New Jersey with degrees in Accounting and Finance. He has worked in STM publishing for over 9 years, five years as the Controller for Humana Press, and four in his current position with Springer. He currently manages all electronic product sales as well as journal licenses.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Jackie LaPlaca Ricords

Credo Evangelist, Credo Reference

Jackie LaPlaca Ricords has an academic background in education policy, history, and economics and has completed research projects at the University of Pennsylvania, a Rotary International Fellowship in England and Spain, as well as a NEH Fellowship in Rome. Jackie spent 10 years coordinating education non-profits, faculty professional development programs, and government projects in the areas of educational technology, service-learning, and diversity. Before her current position as a director for Credo Reference, Jackie was the Director of Library & Educational Relations for a STM publisher, IGI Global. A central focus of Jackie's current position is assisting libraries with their e-resources planning and developing new products to assist with information literacy.

Brian Larsen

User Services Manager, ITHAKA

Brian Larsen is the User Services Manager at ITHAKA and is responsible for administering access, integrating advanced functionality, and supporting the Portico and JSTOR websites. He has worked for ITHAKA since 2005 and has 10 years experience providing website support, working previously in this capacity for WeightWatchers.com and the University of Michigan.

He holds a B.A. Comparative Religion from the University of Michigan and an M.A. in North American Religious History from Columbia University.

Derek Law

Professor Emeritus, University of Strathclyde

He is chair of the JISC Advance Board and has worked in several British universities and has published and spoken at conferences extensively. He is a regular project evaluator for the EU and has undertaken almost fifty institutional reviews. Most of his work has been to do with the development of networked resources in higher education and with the creation of national information policy. Recently he has worked on the future of academic information services. This has been combined with an active professional life in professional organisations related to librarianship and computing. A committed internationalist he has been involved in projects and research in over forty countries. He was awarded the Barnard prize for contributions to Medical Informatics in 1993, Fellowship of the Royal Society of Edinburgh in 1999, an honorary degree by the Sorbonne in 2000, the IFLA medal in 2003, Honorary Fellowship of CILIP in 2004 and was an OCLC Distinguished Scholar in 2006. He is also a naval historian and bibliographer – making Charleston doubly worthwhile!

Edward Lener

Associate Director of Collection Management, Virginia Tech

Having worked for many years as College Librarian for the Sciences at Virginia Tech, Edward Lener now also serves as Associate Director of Collection Management. He currently is on the ALCTS CMS Publications Committee and is the university's representative to the VIVA Resources for User's Committee. 2011 marks his fourth time attending the Charleston Conference.

Elisabeth Leonard

Market Research Analyst, SAGE Publications

Leonard brings nearly 15 years of experience in the library field to her newly created position at SAGE, as the market research analyst for online products. Leonard is active within various sections of the American Library Association (ALA) and is an instructor at SJSU. Leonard received her bachelor's degree from Salem College, her masters of science in library science from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, her master's of business administration from Wake Forest University and is currently pursuing her PhD in Information Science from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. Her dissertation topic is innovation in libraries. You can find her work at elisabethleonard.com.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Michael Levine-Clark

Collections Librarian, University of Denver

Michael Levine-Clark is the Collections Librarian at the University of Denver's Penrose Library and has also held positions as a reference and documents librarian. He has an MS in Library and Information Science from the University of Illinois, and an MA in History from the University of Iowa. With colleagues from the Colorado Alliance of Research Libraries, he founded the open access journal Collaborative Librarianship, and serves as co-editor for scholarly articles. He has served as chair of the Collection Development and Evaluation Section (CODES) of the Reference and User Services Association (RUSA), has been a member or chair of many committees within RUSA and the Association for Library Collections and Technical Services (ALCTS), and has been a member of a variety of publisher and vendor library advisory boards. He has published and presented widely on various aspects of academic library collections use and analysis, including the use of e-books in academic libraries and the development of demand-driven acquisition (DDA) models. He is particularly interested in how e-books and DDA can transform scholarly publishing and academic library collections.

Rachel Lewellen

Assessment Librarian, UMass Amherst Libraries

Rachel Lewellen has been an Assessment Librarian at the University of Massachusetts Amherst Libraries since 2004. Other assessment projects at UMass have included assessment of the Learning Commons, electronic resources purpose of use study, LibQUAL+ and ClimateQUAL. She has previously worked in digital initiatives, special projects, planning, and as the residency program coordinator at the UMass Amherst Libraries. Rachel has a Masters of Information in Library Science from the University of Michigan's School of Information and a Masters of Arts in Education from Boston College.

Christine Lewis

Acquisitions Librarian, Marshall University Libraries

Christine Lewis is the Acquisitions Librarian for Marshall University Libraries. She is also an instructor for a local community college. She has been active in a multi-year plan to reconfigure library space and collections. In addition to her academic library experience, she worked in a public library in reference, staff training, and outreach. She earned her MLIS from the University of South Carolina in 2000. Prior to that she enjoyed multiple career paths in social services and in a family owned business. She currently lives in Huntington, WV.

Nancy Linden

Science and Engineering Librarian, University of Houston

Nancy has been a subject liaison at the University of Houston for 10 years. Her subjects have been primarily in Engineering but have sometimes included the Natural Sciences. She currently is Coordinator of the Science team and serves to facilitate projects and make progress on issues of importance to this group, particularly in collections and outreach.

J. Michael Lindsay

Serials/E Resources Librarian, Preston Medical Library, University of Tennessee Graduate School of Medicine

Michael Lindsay is Serials and Electronic Resources Librarian for the Preston Medical Library, part of the University of Tennessee Graduate School of Medicine. He has worked in the areas of Serials, Electronic

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Resources, and Collection Development in medical libraries for 8 years, and is a column editor for the Journal of Electronic Resources in Medical Libraries. Michael's current research interests involve exploring ways in which technology can improve the experience of library users. A native of East Tennessee, Michael lives in Knoxville, Tennessee with his wife Samantha, and is celebrating her journey as a new college student.

Forrest Link

Acquisitions Librarian, The College of New Jersey

Hardly a stranger to this group, I spent nearly 30 years as a vendor rep for three different book jobbers. Upon the collapse of my last commercial employer, I was rescued from penury (or, worse, a reprise of my role as Willy Loman) by the good folks at The College of New Jersey Library. Here, I try to apply lessons learned in industry to our library workflows while exercising a healthy skepticism regarding over-hyped fads.

Alexis Linoski

Electronic Access Librarian, U.S. Naval Academy

Alexis Linoski received her MLS from the University of North Texas and is currently the Electronic Access Librarian at the United States Naval Academy. She has focused her career on all aspects of managing electronic resources, from collection development to acquisition to maintenance. She has a background in business and began her library career as a solo librarian at a small career college.

Geoffrey Little

Collections Librarian, Concordia University

Geoffrey Little is Collections Librarian at Concordia University Libraries in Montreal with responsibility for coordinating collection development, assessment, and management. Previously he directed public affairs and communications for the Yale University Library. Since 2010 he has been Editor of the Journal of Academic Librarianship's 'Managing Technology' column as well as a member of the journal's editorial board. His research interests include collection development theory and practice, the uses of library technology, and book and library history. In his spare time he enjoys swimming, catching up on back issues of the Times Literary Supplement, and planning trips to impractical places. He has degrees in History and Information Studies from the University of Toronto.

John Little

Head, Discovery & Core Services, Duke University Libraries

John works with a team of application managers, system developers, and system administrators to deliver library services such as the Catalog, Summon, ContentDM, and mass storage in support of repositories, digitization, and information delivery. John has also been involved with Quali OLE from its inception.

Erin Lockett

Vice President, Sales, Readex

Erin Lockett has over 13 years of academic publishing experience, starting with K.G. Saur, then Scholarly Resources and for the past 8 years with Readex, a division of NewsBank. In her current position as Vice President-Sales, she manages her own territory and works collaboratively with the Readex sales team on strategic planning for North American accounts. An American history major herself, Erin enjoys talking with librarians about the databases she would have used in college--and is a little jealous of the students who get to use them today.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Deborah Ludwig

Assistant Dean of Collections & Scholar Services, University of Kansas

Rick Lugg

President, Sustainable Collection Services LLC

Rick has worked with academic libraries for nearly 30 years, as a workflow consultant (R2 Consulting), a bookseller (YBP), and most recently as co-founder of Sustainable Collection Services (SCS), a new company focused on data-driven deselection for monographs. When not working, Rick has no idea what to do with himself.

Judy Luther

President, Informed Strategies LLC

Judy Luther is President of Informed Strategies LLC which provides publishers and vendors with market insights on customer expectations for successful products. A Past President of the Society for Scholarly Publishing (SSP), Judy is CoChair with Selden Lamoureux of the NISO Standing Committee for SERU (Shared Electronic Resources Understanding) and serves on the International Advisory Board for Project COUNTER. Passionate about trees and the environment, you'll find her hiking when not traveling or at her desk. www.informedstrategies.com

Clifford Lynch

Executive Director, Coalition for Networked Information

Clifford Lynch has led the Coalition for Networked Information (CNI) since 1997. CNI, jointly sponsored by the Association of Research Libraries and EDUCAUSE, includes about 200 member organizations concerned with the intelligent uses of information technology and networked information to enhance scholarship and intellectual life. CNI's wide-ranging agenda includes work in digital preservation, data intensive scholarship, teaching, learning and technology, and infrastructure and standards development. Prior to joining CNI, Lynch spent 18 years at the University of California Office of the President, the last 10 as Director of Library Automation. Lynch, who holds a Ph.D. in Computer Science from the University of California, Berkeley, is an adjunct professor at Berkeley's School of Information. He is both a past president and recipient of the Award of Merit of the American Society for Information, and a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the National Information Standards Organization. Lynch currently serves on numerous advisory boards and visiting committees, including the National Digital Preservation Strategy Advisory Board of the Library of Congress and Microsoft Corporation's Technical Computing Science Advisory Board. His work has been recognized by the American Library Association's Lippincott Award, the EDUCAUSE Leadership Award in Public Policy and Practice, and the American Society for Engineering Education's Homer Bernhardt Award.

Bonnie MacEwan

Dean, Auburn University Libraries

During the six years I have served as Auburn's Dean of Libraries we have focused on our users. We have opened a Learning Commons in partnership with our Writing Center, Study Partners and Computer designed with our students and supported by a Study Commons, a Graduate and Faculty work area and a Honors College Student Study. Building on my experience as Dean of Collections and Scholarly Communication at Penn State I've continued to contribute to advisory boards for electronic resources, served in leadership position for regional collaborative organizations such as ASERL and been a member of the editorial boards.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

George Machovec

Interim Executive Director, Colorado Alliance of Research Libraries

George is the Interim Executive Director at the Colorado Alliance of Research Libraries. He has been with the Colorado Alliance since 1993 in a variety of roles. Previously he was head of systems at Arizona State University (ASU) Libraries from 1987-1993 and before that was a reference librarian and head of the Solar Energy Collection at ASU. George is the managing editor for The Charleston Advisor (<http://charlestonco.com>) which provides in-depth reviews of products and services for libraries as well as monitoring trends in the information marketplace. Some specific areas in which George has been involved in the last decade include the deployment of a regional union catalog (<http://www.coalliance.org/prospector>), the development of an electronic resource management system and link resolver called Gold Rush (<http://goldrush.coalliance.org>), involvement with a consortial digital repository project and cooperative purchasing of electronic resources.

Susan Macicak

Librarian, University of Texas at Austin

Susan manages approval and demand driven book collections at the UT Austin Libraries, wrangling bibliographer expertise, reader preferences and demonstrated demand. She was previously the Electronic Resources Librarian at the Watson Library of Business and Economics at Columbia University and has a BA in International Studies from Hope College and an MLIS from the University of Texas at Austin

Colleen Major

Networked Electronic Resources Librarian, Columbia University

Colleen Major is the Networked Electronic Resources Librarian at Columbia University Libraries, where her work focuses on electronic resources acquisitions, access, and services. Colleen previously served as the Ethnic Studies Librarian and Multicultural Coordinator, and Acquisitions Librarian at The University of Montana. She holds a M.L.S. from The University at Buffalo.

Meris Mandernach

Collection Management Librarian, James Madison University

Meris graduated with a Masters in Science in Library and Information Science from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. She worked as a science librarian at both Loyola University and James Madison University (JMU). She is now the Collection Management Librarian at JMU as well as the chemistry librarian. She reviews articles for Issues in Science & Technology Librarianship as well as the Journal of Web Librarianship. She has presented at the Charleston Conference twice before on topics related to collection work.

Susan Marcin

Licensed Electronic Resources Librarian, Columbia University

Susan Marcin is the Licensed Electronic Resources Librarian for Columbia University Libraries, where her work focuses on electronic resources acquisitions, access, and services, including the management of electronic resources across Summon web-scale discovery, 360 Link openURL, Metalib federated search, 360 MARC records, the Voyager integrated library system, and database and electronic journal discovery services. She holds a BA from Trinity College in Hartford, CT, an MSLS from Catholic University in Washington, D.C., an MBA from Fairfield University in Fairfield, CT.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Raimonda Margjoni

Accounting & Project Manager, University of Florida Libraries

Raimonda Margjoni has been with the University of Florida Libraries' Acquisitions Department since 2002. Her work experience includes the daily management of the libraries' Exchange Program and Unit Head of Print Serials. Currently she is the Project & Accounting Manager with responsibilities that include coordinating the Health Science Center Library's budgets and conducting project management. Raimonda has co-written a peer-reviewed journal article on statewide repositories and serves on a state consortial Acquisitions Subcommittee. She holds a BS in Electrical Engineering from Polytechnic University of Tirana, Albania, and received her MLIS from University of South Florida.

Michael Margotta

Head, Global Business Development, Maverick Outsource Services, Ltd.

With over 25 years senior management experience, both as CEO of an STM publishing house and providing consultation for e-distribution platforms, Michael specializes in new business development, acquisitions, operations management, vendor service proposal analysis, contract negotiations, customer relations and marketing. He has worked extensively in journal start-ups, book projects, reference work series and database development with specific focus on creating e-distribution platforms suited to the content needs. Michael has in-depth knowledge of world markets and has provided support services for publishers of all sizes and in a variety of subject disciplines.

Prior to joining Maverick, Michael was Director of Sales and Marketing for MetaPress, a division of EBSCO, Inc. where his acumen was leveraged to provide electronic content hosting solutions assisting publishers reach target academic audiences, at consortia, institutional and individual levels. Previous to that, he was the President, CEO and primary stockholder at Technomic Publishing Company, a producer of high quality scientific and medical reference books and primary research journals in every major technological area, including material science, biomaterials and pharmaceutical science. Michael began his career utilizing his college education in engineering as an avionics flight test engineer, providing a unique experience as one of the group to fly the first C-5B built by Lockheed. In addition to his B.S. in Electrical Engineering from the University of South Carolina, Michael also earned an MBA degree from Brenau College.

Stacey Marien

Acquisitions Librarian, American University

I have been a librarian for 15 years. I started as the Business librarian at Elon College (now University) in NC for 3 years and then moved to Washington, DC. I have been at American University for 12 years, 10 of those years as the Business Librarian and the last two in Acquisitions. In my spare time, I tend to my front yard garden as well as a plot in the nearby community vegetable garden. I have two children, ages 14 and 12 and have a lot of fun with them. Is it stereotypical to say that I knit and read mysteries too?

Mary Marshall

Sales Director - Consultant, De Gruyter

After 2 careers first as a librarian and then working the other side of the street with BCR, EBSCO, OCLC, LEXIS NEXIS, Greenwood and WebFeat, I am now a consultant. Enjoying helping clients and libraries with new digital media solutions.

Michael Matos

Business and Economics Librarian, American University

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Ned May

VP & Lead Analyst, Outsell

In his capacity as Vice President Ned May is the lead analyst for Outsell's analytic coverage and advisory services focused on the Search, Aggregation & Syndication market. His research centers on the myriad ways in which digital content is aggregated and consumed. He keeps a keen eye on web search engines and portals, licensed content aggregators, and subscription and syndication service providers, as well as the technology vendors serving these segments. Ned serves as an executive-level adviser and consultant to clients on issues impacting all facets of this market, including the money flows around online advertising, content syndication and copyright, and the delivery platform challenges across the tethered web and mobile devices such as smart phones, tablets, and e-book readers. Ned is regularly quoted in the mainstream press, has been featured on PBS's Nightly Business Report and FoxBusiness.com and has spoken at numerous events including most recently AAP's General Meeting, SIIA's NetGain, and the Innovation in Education Summit sponsored by the McGraw Hill Foundation.

Antje Mays

Head, Monograph & AV Acquisitions, Ida Jane Dacus Library, Winthrop University

Antje Mays is Head of Monograph & A-V Acquisitions at Winthrop University's Ida Jane Dacus Library. A regular contributor to Against the Grain's Biz of Acq, she has also written for Library Management Today and served as book review editor for International Leads. She has written and presented on e-books, assessment and accreditations, fundraising, business technologies in libraries, and national security. An experienced librarian, educator, language translator and multilingual researcher, import-export manager, data nerd, web designer, and artist, she views libraries' role of connecting learners with knowledge through the lens of business, pedagogy, and learning technologies.

Antje holds a BA in Liberal Arts from SUNY-Albany's Regents College, a Master of Library & Information Science from the University of South Carolina in Columbia, and an MBA from California Coast University. After recent completion of her Doctor of Education coursework, she is presently completing her dissertation.

Kyle McCarrell

Acquisitions and Cataloging Librarian, Augusta State University

Kyle McCarrell presently serves in the Reese Library at Augusta (GA) State University as the Acquisitions and Cataloging Librarian. In this position, he performs a variety of tasks, but is most focused on improving the efficiency of the areas he oversees. Before becoming a librarian, his undergraduate music education degree led to an ill-fated stint as a middle school band director; however, he still uses his piano and trombone abilities throughout the Augusta area while mixing in an occasional round of golf. He enjoys spending the rest of his free time with his wife.

James McCoy

Director, University of Iowa Press

Jim McCoy is Director of the University of Iowa Press where he previously served as sales and marketing director. He worked as Associate Sales Manager/National Accounts Manager for the University of Chicago Press from 1996 through 2006, and acted as UCP's account manager for YBP, Blackwell's, and Coutt's Library Services. He began his career as a manager and book buyer for Waterstone's Booksellers in Chicago.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Peter McCracken

Co-Founder, ShipIndex.org

Peter McCracken is best known as a co-founder of Serials Solutions; before that he was a reference librarian at East Carolina University and the University of Washington. But his real interest is in ShipIndex.org, a site built to aid people doing vessel research, and begun a year before Serials Solutions. While in library school, Peter spent a summer at a maritime museum library where he discovered the challenge of trying to do research on specific vessels. Later, at the University of Washington, he created the precursor to ShipIndex.org, in which he compiled indexes to books that mentioned ships, and made those 100,000 citations available online. The free version contains this work, plus 40,000 WorldCat Authority records, and the premium version currently contains over 2.25 million citations.

Peter lives in a village outside of Ithaca, NY, with his wife, who teaches Art History at Ithaca College, and their 7-year-old son. He holds a BA from Oberlin College, an MLS from UNC-Chapel Hill, and a Masters in Maritime History from East Carolina University. Peter is on the Board of Directors of Alternatives Federal Credit Union, and on the Board of Trustees for the Tompkins County Public Library, both in Ithaca.

Gina McCue

VP, Strategic Accounts, Credo Reference

Gina is responsible for collaborating with consortia, research libraries and discovery vendor partners to support information literacy programs. Prior to joining Credo, she represented ebrary as the VP of North American Sales and Global Business Development. She has vast experience in library product sales and market development. Her previous roles included global sales and marketing management positions at SilverPlatter Information, Ovid Technologies, and Wolters Kluwer Health. In her library career, she focused on consortia arrangements, channel Partnerships, and content product development for libraries and information professionals. Prior to information and technology sales, she worked for Abbott Laboratories in sales management. Ms. McCue earned her B.A. from the College of the Holy Cross, Worcester, MA. She is also an award winning performance poet and one of her pieces was included in the Wadsworth Anthology of Poetry.

John McDonald

Chief Information Officer, Claremont University Consortium

John McDonald was appointed the Chief Information Officer for the Claremont University Consortium on October 1, 2011. He is responsible for providing leadership in managing the daily operations of The Claremont Colleges Library, a major academic resource for the faculty and students of the Claremont Colleges, Information Technology Services, and Records Management. John serves as a member of the senior management team reporting to the CEO. His professional background in higher education and library management spans more than 14 years. He served as the Director of Information and Bibliographic Management & Faculty Relations at the Library of the Claremont University Consortium prior to assuming the role of Chief Information Officer. Prior to joining Claremont, he held positions at the California Institute of Technology and Virginia Commonwealth University. His interests include information usage behaviors, technology, and organizational dynamics. His non-work interests include baseball, football, and spending countless hours playing dolls and fairies with his 4 year old daughter. One of his great dreams in life was to always finish ahead of Chris Pierard and Matt Hall in their fantasy baseball league, but that dream was dashed as they finished in first and second place this year.

Robert McDonald

Executive Director Quali OLE/Associate Dean, Indiana University

Robert H. McDonald is the Associate Dean for Library Technologies and Digital Libraries, Associate Director for the Data to Insight Center, and Executive Director of Quali OLE at Indiana University. He currently serves as Executive Director of Kuali OLE and works closely with the Kuali OLE Board, the OLE Functional Council, the OLE Technical Council and the OLE Core Team. Previously, Mr. McDonald has held management positions with the San Diego Supercomputer Center-UC San Diego, Florida State University, and Auburn University.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Emily McElroy

Head, Content Management & Systems, Oregon Health & Science University

Emily is currently head of Content Management & Systems at Oregon Health & Science University. Her department handles collection development, acquisitions, cataloging, digital collections, serials, data curation, scholarly communications, and systems. She holds a B.S. from DePaul University and a MLIS from Dominican University.

Anne McKee

Program Officer for Resource Sharing, GWLA

Anne E. McKee, GWLA Program Officer for Resource Sharing 2000-. Indiana University, Bloomington, MLS

With a diverse career in librarianship; McKee has also worked for 2 subscription agencies, 4 academic libraries and can talk "profit margins" with the best of them (!) A former President of NASIG, McKee is on the Serials Review Editorial Board and strives to balance a busy career with an even busier family including a husband, 1 teenager, 1 "tween" and our 2 dogs-Maddie and Sunny. McKee is probably the only person you'll meet with both an undergrad and MLS in Library Science. She is mostly however, an obnoxious WKU and IU basketball fan!

Allen McKiel

Dean of Library Services, Western Oregon University

Allen McKiel began his career as a programmer/systems analyst. The merger of his technical skills with librarianship occurred at OCLC and NOTIS. He has over twenty years of academic library experience first as the Director of Libraries for Region 2 of Indiana's Ivy Tech Community College, then as the Director of Libraries for Northeastern State University in Oklahoma, and currently as Dean of Library Services for Western Oregon University. He currently serves on the Muse/UPCC Library Advisory Board and has served on ebrary's Technical Advisory Board for over five years.

Carol Anne Meyer

Business Development and Marketing, CrossRef

Carol Anne Meyer is responsible for marketing and business development at CrossRef. An information industry professional with 25 years of experience in publishing and product development, Carol has held positions at Aries Systems, Northern Light, SilverPlatter, Little Brown, ACM and Random House. Carol has been active in the scholarly communications community for many years. She currently serves as President-Elect of the Society for Scholarly Publishing. When not extolling the virtues of creating, disseminating, and cleaning up metadata, Carol spends time not doing housework or yardwork with her two children, husband, and dog in a lovely town in the Boston suburbs.

Lars Meyer

Sr. Director, Content Division, Emory University

Lars Meyer is the Sr. Director of the Content Division at Emory University Library, responsible for providing leadership and management for acquisitions and metadata services, electronic resources, digitization, preservation, and storage. He is also the subject librarian for German Studies.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Stephen Miller

Associate Provost, Information and Library Services, University of Maryland University College

Stephen Miller is Associate Provost for Information and Library Services at University of Maryland University College (UMUC). He holds a Master's of Science in Library Science from the University of Kentucky School of Library and Information Science and a Master's of Business Administration from UMUC. Prior to coming to UMUC he was Director of the Digital Library of Georgia at the University of Georgia Libraries, and before that an archivist and project manager at Duke University's Rare Book, Manuscript, and Special Collections Library.

Sylvia Miller

Project Director, University of North Carolina Press

Sylvia K. Miller has 25+ years in scholarly publishing. This year, the Encyclopedia of World Dress & Fashion, her brainchild co-published by Berg Publishers and Oxford University Press, became the tenth Dartmouth Medal winner on her project list. As executive editor at Scribner Reference, she was involved in some of the earliest digital reference publishing, and later she spearheaded online reference as a publishing director at Routledge. As director of the Mellon-funded collaborative project "Publishing the Long Civil Rights Movement" at UNC Chapel Hill, she is working to connect published scholarship and multimedia archival materials in new ways, both online and in enhanced e-books. She holds a B.A. (U.C. Berkeley) and an M.A. (Columbia University) in comparative literature.

Will Moore

Sr. Associate, Maverick Outsource Services

Will has more than 15 years of experience delivering innovative marketing for both start-up and established technology companies in the publishing, software and computer hardware industries. Before joining Maverick Outsource services, Will was VP of Marketing for Ingram Digital where he helped to transform that company from a startup to the leading provider of comprehensive digital services for publishers. Prior to that role, Will was Director of Marketing for VitalSource, one of the leading providers of eTextbooks and related technologies. Will resides in Chapel Hill, NC with his wife Jennifer and their 4 children.

Eric Moran

Executive Editor, SAGE Publications

Eric leads a journals editorial team for SAGE focused on developing our existing content and expanding our reach across the social sciences. With nearly 15 years of academic publishing experience, he has worked in various roles in both the production and editorial departments at SAGE. Eric led the development and launch of SAGE's new open access publication, SAGE Open, and continues to oversee its evolution.

Hector Morey

Senior Acquisitions Specialist, Library of Congress

Hector Morey serves as a senior acquisitions specialist covering Central America, the Caribbean and Spain (Law) at the Library of Congress. Having completed graduate education in psychology and information science he is currently pursuing an MBA with a concentration in federal programs management.

Michael Moss

Professor, Humanities Advanced Technology and Information Institute

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

James Mouw

Associate Director, Technical & Electronic Services, University of Chicago

James R. Mouw is Assistant Director for Technical and Electronic Services at The University of Chicago and has previously held positions at the University of Illinois at Chicago and Gardner-Webb College in North Carolina. He is also adjunct professor at Dominican University School of Library and Information Science (formerly Rosary College) where he teaches classes on serials management and academic library administration. Mr. Mouw holds a B.A. in Music from Calvin College, Grand Rapids, Michigan and an MLS from Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo. An active member of ALA and ALCTS, he is past-chair of the Acquisitions Section of ALCTS, and is a member of numerous ALA and ALCTS committees. Mouw is a regular contributor to library journals, focusing on issues related to the acquisition of serial titles and the linking of electronic resources. His most recent interests include the development and delivery of e-books, library standards, licensing, and faceted browse interfaces. He is a frequent presenter at library conferences, including the Charleston Conference, NISO meetings and the Society for Scholarly Publishing. He serves as Editor-in-Chief of Library Collections Acquisitions and Technical Services and was previously a member of the editorial board of Serials Review. He is a member of several publisher, vendor and information industry advisory boards including Project COUNTER and CrossRef.

Allyson Mower

Scholarly Communications & Copyright Librarian, Marriott Library, University of Utah

Allyson Mower is the Scholarly Communications & Copyright Librarian at the J. Willard Marriott Library at the University of Utah. She provides information, tools, and services related to both publishing and copyright. Previous to this position, Allyson worked at Eccles Health Sciences Library where she coordinated the institutional repository, spearheaded the digitization of the health sciences theses and dissertations, and developed a copyright permissions tool called University Scholarly Knowledge Inventory System (U-SKIS). Allyson received her MLIS from the University of Washington in 2009 and holds an MA in Liberal Arts from St. John's College and a BA in American Studies from Utah State University. She was also a Library Journal Mover & Shaker in 2008.

Robert Murdoch

Assistant University Librarian for Collection Development and Technical Services, Brigham Young University

Robert Murdoch is the Assistant University Librarian for Collection Development and Technical Services at Brigham Young University. Before taking his current assignment at BYU, he served as Deputy Directory of Libraries at Utah State University. His professional interests are in collections development and resource licensing.

Fiona Murphy

Publisher, Wiley-Blackwell

I started my publishing career in the Law Department at Oxford University Press whilst finishing off my DPhil Thesis in English. Since then, I've done stints in London (Theology), Sydney (Medical Communications then Fiction with Random House), but am now settled with Wiley-Blackwell in Chichester, on the south coast of England.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

There, my main responsibility is to grow, develop and manage the Earth & Environmental Sciences journals program. However, since the 'Climategate' hacking incident, which fell into my subject area, I've been spending increasing amounts of time researching scholarly communication issues.

I'm also building relationships with learned societies, data centres, funding bodies and other organisations in order to inform Wiley's data policies and innovative directions in terms of new business models. (I've recently started tweeting on these subjects as @DrFionaLM.)

Apart from this, I also have two small children and a house project so am kept busy at all times. If I still had hobbies, they would be walking, cooking, film and friends.

Catherine Murray-Rust

Dean and Director of Libraries, Georgia Institute of Technology

I love academic libraries and have spent my whole career building and advocating for them. Now I have a new passion, saving lives by providing information and encouragement to prevent colon cancer.

Research universities are wonderful places to work because the emphasis is on the future. The students and faculty members are the people who will find therapies to help people live with chronic illness such as cancer and perhaps even find cures. They will need time and funding to make progress, but they will make progress.

In addition to believing in science and technology, the story of my diagnosis with colon cancer has many lessons for everyone. I have had surgery and am now in a long course of chemotherapy. I also try all the complementary therapies I can, including meditation, yoga, exercise, nutrition, counseling, journaling and blogging. I am saving acupuncture until the time that the side effects become worse. I have an excellent chance, but I want to prevent others from traveling down this road into the parallel universe of cancer.

Here is what you can do for yourself and your family:

1. Have your first colonoscopy (no other test is as effective) at age 50. Go earlier if you have a history of colon cancer in your extended family.
2. Have the test every five years if you can. If your insurance company will not pay for it until seven to ten years, consider paying for it yourself.
3. Become an advocate for private insurance companies paying for the test if you live in a state which does not require it. So far there are 28 states that require coverage.

The people who love you depend on you and want you to stick around as long as possible. Colon cancer is 90% preventable and is the second leading cause of death in the U.S., more than breast cancer and AIDS combined. You do not have to be one of those who need treatment or who die early.

David Myers

President, DMedia Associates, Inc.

David Myers is an Information Industry expert, specializing in Sales, Licensing, Legal and Business Development. Throughout his career, he has drafted, negotiated and closed over 600 domestic and international licensing agreements with publishing partners, customers and distributors. He has also negotiated and closed countless business alliances, strategic partnering, and revenue generation deals. Prior to starting his consulting practice, he was Executive Director, Global Licensing and Business Development with Wolters Kluwer Health for 7 years. Prior to that, he was Vice President of Business Development, WeFusion, Inc., Vice President of Business Development for Marco Polo Technologies, Senior Associate, Whitehall Montague & Cie. Investment Bankers and Strategic Planning Analyst,

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Texaco, Inc. In these roles, David led the development of strategic plans and developed and led the effort for new product licenses, new strategic partnering and acquisition targets.

David earned a B.S. in Genetics/Business from The University of Maryland, a M.B.A. in Finance from Pepperdine University and a J.D. from American University. David is an active member of the California State Bar, a prior member of the Content Board of the Software and Information Industry Association, and of many publishing industry associations.

Boaz Nadav-Manes

Director, Acquisitions and Automated Technical Services and Philosophy Librarian, Cornell University Library

Boaz Nadav-Manes, Director of Acquisitions and Resource Sharing Services at Cornell University Library. Boaz holds a B.A. in Classics and Philosophy from Tel Aviv University and an M.F.A degree from Cornell. He has taught at the university level and served on a curriculum development committee before assuming his academic role in Cornell University Library where, in addition to serving as a director, he is a selector for material in Philosophy. Boaz is a member of the ALA ALCTS Acquisitions Organization and Management Committee and has presented at ALAs, ACRL, and the Charleston Conferences.

Daureen Nesdill

Data Curation Librarian, University of Utah

David Nicholas

Director, CIBER Research

Director, CIBER Research Ltd (<http://ciber-research.eu/index.html> 2011 -). Previously: 1) Director of the Department of Information Studies at University College London and also Director of the UCL Centre for Publishing and Director of the research group CIBER. 2004- 2011; 2) Head of Department and Professor of Library and Information Studies. City University, London. 1996 – 2004

Main research interests are mapping information use and seeking behaviour in virtual spaces; web behaviour; the digital consumer, the virtual scholar, e-books; Google Generation; e-journal usage; evaluation of publisher digital platforms; user needs.

Jane Nichols

Collection Development Librarian, Oregon State University Libraries

Jane is the Collection Development Librarian for Social Sciences and Humanities at OSU and is serving as an Interim Acquisitions Supervisor where she is learning all things Acquisitions. She is the editor of the TechCast column in Collection Management which explores new technologies used to manage collections and she is active in ALA having served as the 2011 Chair of ACRL's Women & Gender Studies Section.

Elizabeth Nolan

Chief Publishing Officer, OSA - The Optical Society

Elizabeth Nolan is the Chief Publishing Officer for OSA- The Optical Society. In this role, she oversees all facets of OSA's publishing program. Before joining The Optical Society, Elizabeth was Senior Vice President, Global Sales, Marketing and Strategy at SPI where she led some of its largest strategic initiatives and developed a host of new innovative services for STM publishers. Prior to that, she held senior level positions at Thompson Publishing Group, The Worldwatch Institute and Wolters Kluwer. With more than 17 years of experience working with global not-for-profit and commercial publishers and an Asia-based service provider, Elizabeth has forged a career that is rich in journal, book, and electronic publishing expertise.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Brian Norberg

Libraries Fellow, NCSU Libraries

Brian Norberg is a Libraries Fellow at NC State University, where he splits his time working in Collection Management and Digital Library Initiatives. His main duties include building collections in the Humanities and developing solutions for curating born digital objects throughout the Libraries. Brian holds an MLS from Indiana University and MA in English Literature.

Kathleen Norton

Head of Collection Development, Mount Holyoke College

Kathleen Norton is Head of Collection Development at Mount Holyoke College's Library, Information, and Technology Services (LITS). In addition to her work on collections, she works with her LITS colleagues on communications, website re-envisioning, and the use of ethnographic methods to learn more about the needs and interests of the MHC community.

Leslie O'Brien

Director of Technical Services and Collection Management, Virginia Tech

Leslie O'Brien has been at Virginia Tech's University Libraries for 20 years and recently became responsible for collection management. In addition she oversees technical services functions, including acquisitions, serials, cataloging, binding and preservation, and electronic resources management. Her areas of interest are analyzing usage data and electronic resources management.

Julie Obst

Librarian, Central Piedmont Community College

Julie Obst is a second-year librarian in Charlotte, NC. She manages a campus library for Central Piedmont Community College where she has worked in Library Services for 5 years. Julie spends her days planning engaging library instruction classes and collecting materials for the campus programs; non-destructive examination, welding, HVAC, and construction management. Her students are consistently challenging her research abilities with detailed technical topics. She loves to read about sailing, but is petrified once she's actually on the boat with her husband. Julie raises chickens for eggs, gardens and loves hiking with their terriers, Miles and Penelope.

Ann Okerson

Associate University Librarian, Yale University

Ann Okerson has been at Yale since 1996, following experience in academic library management, the commercial sector, and as senior/ founding program officer for Scholarly Communications at the Association of Research Libraries in Washington, DC. In her Associate Director position, her chief responsibilities are to Collection Development and International Programs. During her tenure at Yale, and with her leadership, the University Library has made significant strides in electronic collections and has engaged the Library in the Yale's global programs, strategies, and aspirations through a series of varied and innovative programs. Yale University Library is one of the largest and most complex systems in the world, comprising some 20 libraries, nearly 600 FTE staff, and significant budgets, fund-raising initiatives, and high international visibility. Its collections and staff capabilities are second to none in the world.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

In 1996, after taking up her Yale position, Okerson organized the Northeast Research Libraries consortium (NERL), a group of 27 large and over 70 smaller libraries negotiating for electronic information and engaging occasionally in other cooperative activities. NERL is based at the Yale Library. She has been one of the active, founding spirits of the International Coalition of Library Consortia (ICOLC).

In her travels and spare time, Ann Okerson specializes in fine dark chocolate (worldwide), French macaroons, cupcakes, and murder mysteries.

Edward O'Neill

Senior Research Scientist, OCLC Research

Darby Orcutt

Assistant Head of Collection Management, North Carolina State University Libraries

Darby Orcutt is the Assistant Head of the Collection Management Department, North Carolina State University (NCSSU) Libraries. He edited the collection Library Data: Empowering Practice and Persuasion (Libraries Unlimited, 2010) and has published and presented much in the library literature and beyond, including on the topic of comic books and religion. A frequent reviewer and publisher consultant, he also teaches in NCSSU's Department of Philosophy & Religious Studies, NCSSU's University Honors Program, and the School of Information & Library Science at The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. His experience prior to his professional library career includes work as a vendor to libraries and as a rare book scout.

Henry Owino

Acquisitions Librarian, The Petroleum Institute, Abu Dhabi, UAE.

Henry has worked as a librarian in academic libraries in Uganda, Australia and currently in the United Arab Emirates. In addition Henry taught at the Library School at Makerere University, Uganda. Henry's professional focus is in Collection Development and Access. Henry holds graduate qualifications in Library Education from Loughborough University of Technology, UK; Information Management from RMIT University, Australia. He undertook College studies in Librarianship from RMIT University, Australia and Makerere University in Uganda. Henry is married to Susan with whom they have 2 daughters and 3 sons.

Cathy Palmer

Head of Education and Outreach, University of California, Irvine

Cathy Palmer is the Head of Education and Outreach at the University of California, Irvine Libraries, where she provides leadership for the Libraries' outreach and instruction programs and information literacy initiatives. Prior to that, she served as the English and Comparative Literature and Classics librarian and the Instructional Services Coordinator at UC Irvine. She has held previous librarian positions at Sinai Hospital in Detroit, Michigan and at the Alma College Library. She holds an AMLS from the University of Michigan where she also received a BA in History and English. (95 words)

Chuck Palsho

President, Media Services Division, NewsBank, Inc.

NewsBank is a premier news information provider, serving the academic and library markets for more than 35 years. Chuck is the President of NewsBank Media Services which handles licensing, content acquisition and publisher services for NewsBank. Chuck's team has driven NewsBank's explosive growth of news content to over 6,000 sources. Unique to NewsBank is their position as both a leading news aggregator and a leading service provider to its news partners which keeps NewsBank on the cutting edge of the news industry.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

David Parker

Publisher and Founder, Business Expert Press

I founded Business Expert Press to serve advanced business students. In my own executive education studies I found library resources to be mostly aimed at PhDs. and faculty. And in my professional role as editor-in-chief for business publishing at Pearson I witnessed our move away from publishing for advanced business students to a focus on core curriculum for undergraduates. Plus I prefer to live in shorts and flip flops so entrepreneurship was my only viable option!

Kari Paulson

President, EBL - Ebook Library

Kari Paulson is the President and founder of Ebook Library (EBL), a subsidiary of Ebooks Corporation and has more than a decade of experience with ebook technology. Growing up in Minnesota, Kari was drawn to winter sports and began her career as a professional figure skater in Europe. She has been a voice agent, a radio producer, a production manager for a film producer, and project manager for a web development company. A dual American and Australian citizen, Kari now lives in London.

Matthew Pavlick

Head, Monographs Acquisitions Services, Columbia University Libraries

I have been in the Monographs Acquisitions Services department at Columbia University Libraries for just over 7 years. I obtained my MLS from Queens College, and have worked at several New York City cultural institutions including the American Museum of Natural History. I still enjoy browsing and shopping for books, especially at small independent bookstores in Brooklyn.

Lizanne Payne

Print Archives Consultant, WEST & CRL

Lizanne Payne is a consultant active in the field of shared print collections among academic libraries. Current work includes:

- Project Manager for the Western Regional Storage Trust (WEST), a distributed retrospective journal repository system among more than 100 libraries in 12 states.
- Print archives consultant to the Center for Research Libraries (CRL)
- Member of a multi-institutional planning team for the OCLC pilot project to develop a metadata standard to disclose print archiving commitments in WorldCat
- Consultant to organizations planning consortial shared print programs including the Committee on Institutional Cooperation (CIC) Center for Library Initiatives and the New York Art Resources Consortium (NYARC).

Ms. Payne has extensive experience in the field of library consortia, shared library systems, and library storage repositories. She served for 20 years as Executive Director of the Washington (D.C.) Research Library Consortium (WRLC) where she presided over the implementation and ongoing development of WRLC's shared digital library systems and the construction and operation of WRLC's shared library storage facility which began operations in 1994 and was expanded in 2010.

Ms. Payne is a graduate of Smith College and earned an M.L.S. from the University of Maryland and an M.B.A. from The George Washington University.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Michael Pelikan

Information Designer, Emerging Technologies Group, Penn State Information Technology Services

Michael's attention is focused where technology and the expression of ideas meet. His past includes sixteen years in Public Broadcasting, partially overlapping with fourteen years spent in Alaska. More recently, he served six years as Library Liaison to the Penn State College of Information Sciences and Technology, before joining the Emerging Technologies Group (ET) with Penn State's Information Technology Services. ET is an enclave, a small interdisciplinary group reporting to the Vice Provost for IT. "We're his posse," reports Michael, "We go after new ideas, surround them, evaluate, prototype, try to fly the wings off, and hopefully inform strategic planning."

Bruce Pencek

College Librarian for Social Sciences, Virginia Tech

Bruce Pencek has been the liaison librarian for social sciences at Virginia Tech since 2001, working primarily with political science/international studies, public administration, history, science and technology studies, and more recently, ROTC. Formerly a political science professor, and still actively presenting at conferences of the American Political Science Association, he received the ACRL/LPSS Marta Lange/CQ Press Award in 2010 for his contributions to political science librarianship. He is currently president of his university's faculty senate.

Jerry Persons

Principal, Knowledge Motifs LLC

Veteran technology analyst for the Stanford University Libraries with broad-based expertise in knowledge management and information delivery tools applicable to the support of scholarship and research for university faculty and students.

Jerry did at Stanford and now continues to pursue, experiment with, and track emerging technologies-- screening them for their likely 3-5 year impact on the knowledge management and information service environments found in research libraries. His background includes 30+ years of experience with all aspects of research-library services, facilities, technologies, processes, vendors, collections, and programs working knowledge of computing resources ranging from enterprise scale environments, to support for hundreds of desk-top and public-service computers, down thru personalized gigabit networks with terabyte scale NAS capabilities current focus is the emergent practices, communities, and technologies associated with linked open data.

Oliver Pesch

Chief Strategist, E-Resource Management and Access Services, EBSCO Information Services

Oliver Pesch works as chief strategist for EBSCO Information Services in Birmingham Ala where he helps set direction for EBSCO's E-Resource Access and Management Services initiatives. Oliver is a strong supporter of standards – currently serving as co-chair of the NISO SUSHI Standing Committee; he is also member of the Executive Committee for Project COUNTER and is a regular contributor to Serials Librarian through his Spotlight on Standards column.

Erika Peterson

Director of Media Resources, James Madison University

Erika's first library job was as a student circulation desk assistant at Zimmerman Library at the University of New Mexico. She received her MLIS from Louisiana State University in 1999. She has worked previously at University of Louisiana at Lafayette and University of Virginia.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Joan Petit

Humanities & Social Sciences Librarian, Portland State University

Joan received her MSLS and BA (English & Women's Studies) degrees from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and an MA in English from Western Carolina University. At Portland State University, she works as Humanities and Social Sciences Librarian and liaises with several departments, including History, International Studies, and Black Studies. Before moving to Portland in 2009, Joan spent two years in Egypt while working for the American University in Cairo. Her research interests include student and faculty use of digital resources.

Jason Philips

Datasalon Director, New York University Library

T. Scott Plutchak

Director, Lister Hill Library of the Health Sciences, University of Alabama at Birmingham

T. Scott Plutchak has been Associate Professor and Director of the Lister Hill Library of the Health Sciences at the University of Alabama at Birmingham (UAB) since 1995. Prior to that he was Associate Director and then Director of the Health Sciences Center Library at St. Louis University. He received his Masters Degree in Library Science from the University of Wisconsin in 1983, and was a post-graduate Library Associate at the US National Library of Medicine. From 1999 through 2005 he was the editor of the Journal of the Medical Library Association (JMLA), and presently serves on the editorial board of Evidence Based Library and Information Practice. In 2001 he received the MLA Estelle Brodman Academic Librarian of the Year award, and in 2009, the Outstanding Alumni Award from the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley. He is a founding member of the Chicago Collaborative, a group dedicated to finding common ground among the librarian, publisher and editorial communities. In 2009 he was a member of the Scholarly Publishing Roundtable, which submitted a report to the US Congress in January 2010 with recommendations on providing public access to federally funded research results. In May 2011 he delivered the Medical Library Association's annual Janet Doe Lecture on the history and/or philosophy of librarianship. He is a frequent speaker to publisher and library groups on topics ranging from intellectual property to scholarly communication to the future of librarianship. He leads the international librarian rock band, The Bearded Pigs.

Michel Porter

President, Library Renewal

Michael is a librarian, presenter, author, practical technology fan, and PEZ collector. He has 20 years of experience working in Libraryland and has presented hundreds of times to library staff around the world. His writings regularly appear in major library journals around the world. In 2009 he was selected as a Library Journal "Mover & Shaker", in 2010 was elected to the American Library Association's governing Council and in 2011 was also elected to the ALA Executive Board. He previously worked with The Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, OCLC, WebJunction, and the Allen County Public Library. Michael currently serves as CEO of Library Renewal, an organization dedicated to research, partnerships and grassroots solutions for libraries as they struggle to offer electronic content to their users in competitive ways. Read more from Michael at libraryman.com and libraryrenewal.org.

Audrey Powers

Associate Librarian, University of South Florida

I am the research librarian at the University of South Florida. Currently I work with students and faculty in The College of The Arts, but in my former life I was a Science librarian. These very different roles have provided me with the unique opportunity to work with researchers, faculty and students who are fun, intriguing and dedicated to the disciplines they are engaged in.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

As a Charleston Conference Director I collaborate with other professionals to develop and organize the conference program each year as well as create programs of interest for the library and publishing communities.

In addition, I currently write blog posts for Libraries Thriving (Credo Reference) and CoTA News@USF Libraries.

My current professional interests include the development of marketing strategies for academic libraries, the intersection of science and the arts, evaluating electronic resources and collection development.

Jason Price

Assistant Director of Operations & Management, Claremont Colleges Library

Jason S. Price is the Assistant Director of Operations & Management at the Claremont Colleges Library. He earned a PhD in Plant Evolutionary Ecology from Indiana University Bloomington where he cut his teeth as a teacher and researcher before pursuing a Masters in Library Science. After spending ten years in graduate school, he thoroughly enjoys applying hard won analytical skills to current library challenges. His role as Electronic Resource Analyst for the Statewide California Electronic Library Consortium provides opportunities to work with libraries, consortia and publishers to improve products and increase pricing equity. As a practiced dabbler, he enjoys being involved in as many levels of academic library teaching and research pursuits as he can handle (and sometimes a few more!). He has been publishing and speaking about ejournal and ebook usage and pricing since 2005.

Carrie Rampp

Director of Library Services & Instructional Technology, Bucknell University

I have been the Director of Library Services & Instructional Technology at Bucknell University since 2008. At Bucknell, Library and Information Technology is a merged organization, so beyond responsibilities for Bertrand Library programs, services and staff; my duties include oversight for Bucknell's instructional technology area. Prior to Bucknell, I worked for Middlebury College in Vermont. I received my B.A. from Randolph-Macon Woman's College, an M.A. in History from Southern Methodist University and an M.L.I.S. from Syracuse University. I am very interested in how technology has and will transform libraries, both the risks and rewards.

Greg Raschke

Associate Director for Collections and Scholarly Communication, NCSU Libraries

Greg Raschke is the Associate Director for Collections and Scholarly Communication at the NCSU Libraries where he leads programs to build, manage, and preserve the Libraries' extensive collections. His responsibilities include overseeing a $10 million+ collections budget and the development of digital collections. He also leads the Libraries' partnerships in developing new and sustainable channels for scholarly communication. He has published and presented on diverse topics such as the future of research library collections, electronic resources and organizational change, and recruitment practices in academic libraries. He loves the Grateful Dead, baseball, hockey, and his wife and children (not in that order).

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Shannon Regan

Electronic Resources Support Specialist, George Mason University

A native of Michigan, Shannon Regan moved south of the Mason-Dixon line after accepting a position with the George Mason University Libraries. In her capacity at George Mason, Shannon enjoys exploring issues surrounding the acquisition and licensing of streaming media in academic institutions and electronic resources assessment. Shannon is an avid horseback rider and sports fan, and splits her spare time between riding and watching her favorite teams play.

Tamara Remhof

Head of Technical Services, Texas A&M University-Commerce

Tamara Remhof grew up in western Minnesota. She got her Bachelor of Science from the University of Nebraska - Omaha and her Master of Library Science from the University of North Texas. She has taught school in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas, was the Instruction/Reference Librarian at the University of Texas-Pan American in Edinburg, Texas, the Collection Development Librarian at South Texas College in McAllen, Texas, and is now the Head of Technical Services for Texas A&M University-Commerce.

Stephen Rhind-Tutt

President, Alexander Street Press, LLC

Stephen Rhind-Tutt is President of Alexander Street Press, an award winning publisher of online collections for libraries, teaching and education. He has 24 years of experience in Electronic Publishing, with a number of different companies. From 1989-1995 he held a variety of roles at SilverPlatter Information, including Vice President Health Sciences Publishing, and Vice President U.S. Region. In these roles he was responsible for the development, sales and management of more than 200 electronic products. Until its sale to Proquest Stephen was President of Chadwyck-Healey, Inc. where he developed and distributed more than 100 electronic products, including the world's largest collection of primary texts in English and American Literature. Stephen has spoken at a number of conferences including The Charleston Conference, The Association for Documentary Editors, The Society for Scholarly Publishing and more. He sits on the boards of CLIR, the Council on Library and Information Resources and the University of California Press.

Theresa Preuit Rhodes

Associate Director for Public Services & Collections, Mercer University - Jack Tarver Library

Six years and untold budget cuts after adding collections responsibilities, I find it less fun but strangely more fulfilling. At Mercer since 2001, I've also worked in Norfolk, Pensacola, and Tuscaloosa. I'm a rabid college basketball fan and a lover of odd numbers and bridges.

One mantra: "beg, borrow, steal; just don't reinvent the wheel." I'm looking for new ideas and asking many questions. I'm nervous about presenting at a conference I've never attended and on a BIP version that sunsets soon. Maybe something I'm doing will help you, or you can show me what I can do better.

John Riley

Eastern Regional Sales Manager, BUSCA, Inc.

I cover the Eastern Region of the country for BUSCA, Inc. located in Ithaca, NY, a worldwide vendor of books and multimedia. I am proud that this will be my 26th consecutive Charleston Conference! I am also proud to be on the Editorial Board of Against the Grain and to hold the position of editor for the column "Library Marketplace." I also enjoy participating in the writing and performing of the skit that the Charleston Players put on each year. In my spare time I enjoy writing science fiction and I have published

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

3 books that explore the realms of sci-fi as they pertain to books, bookshops, and libraries. My books can also be found on Kindle under my name: John D. Riley.

John Riley

Sales Manager, BUSCA, Inc., BUSCA, Inc.

Angharad Roberts

Postgraduate Research Student, University of Sheffield

Angharad Roberts is a postgraduate research student working towards a PhD at the University of Sheffield's iSchool. This research is a collaborative project with the British Library and aims to develop a conceptual approach to the library collection in the digital world, using a case study of library collections for the emerging field of social enterprise. Prior to this, Angharad gained an MA in Library and Information Studies at University College London and worked as a professional librarian at Anglia Ruskin University. Angharad blogs about her research at <http://digitalworldcollections.blogspot.com>.

Linda Roccas

Professor, College of Staten Island Library

I am the Coordinator of Electronic Resources at the College of Staten Island, City University of New York. We have acquired many more databases in the past decade, and recently we have converted nearly all of our print journals into electronic form. Now our focus is on acquiring more ebooks than print books since our library has limited space for expansion despite a growing student population. I am focusing on promoting wider access and usage for the ebooks, particularly among our e-resistant faculty.

Irving Rockwood

Editor & Publisher, CHOICE

Irving Rockwood is Editor & Publisher of CHOICE, which reviews more than 7,200 new scholarly books and electronic resources annually. Irv's editorial career has included stints at Houghton Mifflin, University of Wisconsin Press, Longman, and ownership of Irving Rockwood & Associates, Inc., a literary agency specializing in academic authors. At CHOICE, Irv has overseen the launch of Choice Reviews Online <http://www.cro2.org> and Resources for College Libraries <http://www.rclweb.net/>, the latter in partnership with R.R. Bowker. Irv is a founding member of the Chicago Collaborative, a working group of publishers and librarians established in 2008 to promote open communication and education among the primary stakeholders in the scholarly communication arena (www.Chicago-Collaborative.org).

Mara Rojas

Social Sciences Liaison Librarian, Dickinson College

Mara Degnan Rojas is the Social Sciences Liaison Librarian at Dickinson College in Carlisle, PA. She received her BA in German and International Affairs from the University of Michigan and her MS in Library and Information Science for the University of Illinois.

Joanne Romano

Licensing and Serials Librarian, The Texas Medical Center Library

Joanne Romano has been the Licensing and Serials Librarian with The Texas Medical Center (TMC) Library since 2007. She is responsible for all technical and licensing issues for over 8,000 online journals as well as research and grant funding for new acquisitions. She serves on the TMC Library Development Committee in marketing and sponsorships. In 2010, Joanne was liaison for The TMC Library, Wiley-Blackwell and the Assistant Director for Policy Development at NLM/NIH, to provide emergency online access to the Universidad de Talca in Chile. She presented at an annual meeting of the NN/LM Southeastern/Atlantic Region's Emergency Preparedness Committee (EPRAC) in November 2010.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Doralyn Rossmann

Collection Development Librarian, Montana State University

Doralyn Rossmann has served as Collection Development Librarian at the Montana State University Library since 2008. She has an MLS and a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science and English from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and has a Master's in Public Administration from Montana State University. Her previous positions include Reference, Systems, Multimedia Projects, and GIS/Data Librarianship. Her current research focuses on public budgeting, Web scale discovery tools, and managing e-book collections. Recent publications include an article on e-books and MARC records in "Serials" and an article on participatory budgeting processes in "Public Administration Review."

Ian Rowlands

Director, CIBER Research Limited

Ian is a Director of CIBER Research Limited, a consultancy which provides analytical services to the publishing and related industries. CIBER is a university spin-off, having been originally established at City University in London before moving to University College London in 2005.

Molly Royse

Head, Research Collections, University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Molly Royse joined the University of Tennessee Libraries, Knoxville, in 2000 as Humanities Coordinator. She was appointed Head of Research Collections in 2008. Prior to her appointment at UT, she served as a Reference/Instruction Librarian at Berea College in Kentucky for 6 years, and at Kansas State University for 10 years where she was a Social Sciences Bibliographer and Coordinator of Multicultural Library Services.

Betty Rozum

Associate Dean for Technical Services, Utah State University

Betty Rozum is the Associate Dean for Technical Services at Utah State University. Prior to assuming this position, she worked at USU as a science reference librarian and the Head of Serials. She counts herself fortunate to have a able and creative staff who allow her to actively engage in many aspects of Technical Services. Among those she especially enjoys muddling in are collections, copyright, and institutional repositories.

Catherine Rudowsky

Electronic Access Librarian, Slippery Rock University

Ms. Rudowsky has served as a librarian at Slippery Rock University since 2004. In that time, she has served as the Business Librarian as well as the Electronic Access Librarian, the Outreach Librarian, and then the Electronic Access Librarian. Prior to Slippery Rock University, Ms. Rudowsky worked in special libraries, serving hospital libraries. Ms. Rudowsky graduated with her MLIS from the University of Pittsburgh in 1999 and her MBA from Indiana University of Pennsylvania in 2006. She is currently pursuing her PhD in Communications Media and Instructional Technology from the Indiana University of Pennsylvania.

Judy Russell

Dean of Libraries, University of Florida Libraries

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Ellen Safley

Director of Libraries, University of Texas at Dallas

Ellen Safley is the Director of Libraries at the University of Texas at Dallas. Her research interests include enhancing and developing new services for the 21st century library, migrating traditional collections to maximize the acquisition and use of electronic resources, and embracing assessment techniques to show how libraries are used and changing over time.

She is involved with many organizations including the American Library Association and the Texas Library Association.

Ellen holds a Master of Library Science degree from the University of Pittsburgh and a Doctor of Philosophy in Political Economy from the University of Texas at Dallas.

When she is not working, Ellen dabbles in botanical illustration and is an avid orchid enthusiast.

Leila Salisbury

Director, University Press of Mississippi

Leila W. Salisbury has been the director of the University Press of Mississippi (UPM) since 2008. Prior to her appointment, she was marketing director at the University Press of Kentucky. At UPM, she is responsible for the overall direction and management of the scholarly publishing operation, its editorial focus, fundraising, and new technology initiatives and investments. She also acquires the regional and film/popular culture studies lists and serves as primary liaison between the Press and UPM's eight state consortium campuses. UPM publishes approximately 75 new titles annually.

Cynthia Sanner

Publisher, Gale/Cengage Learning

Cynthia Sanner is a e-publications industry leader with 18-years hand's on experience in educational content acquisition, management, development and production in the United States and Internationally. Starting with her first publishing position where she partnered with Theme Medical Publishing to product manage one of the first CD-ROM based medical programs ever released, Cynthia has be involved in digital publishing her entire career.

Currently, Cynthia works for Gale/Cengage Learning as their Publisher for General Reference and International. At Gale, one of the world's leaders in Library Reference, Cynthia is responsible for InfoTrac, Gale's periodical aggregation/database, Gale Virtual Reference Library (GVRL), Gale's eBook database, and all International versions of those products.

Kevin Sayar

President & General Manager, ebrary

Prior to co-founding ebrary, Mr. Sayar worked with Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati (WSGR), considered the U.S. leader in high technology start-up representation, to provide legal research and analysis on corporate securities litigation, intellectual property and technology transactions. While attending law school, Mr. Sayar was an independent consultant to start-up businesses in early stage development. He specialized in strategic market penetration, business development and copyright issues on the Internet.

Mr. Sayar holds a J.D. from California Western School of Law and a B.A. in English from the University of California, Berkeley.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Lindsey Schell

Research Services Librarian, University of Texas Libraries

Lindsey E. Schell has worked at the University of Texas Libraries since 2002. Her portfolio includes serials management and budgets, patron-driven programs, research services policies and subject specialist training. She is also the subject specialist for English literature and gender studies. She has published and presented numerous conference papers on eBook management and patron-driven acquisitions. Lindsey received her M.L.S. from The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and a bachelors in history and gender studies from Tufts University.

Lauren Schoenthaler

Senior University Counsel, Stanford University

Ms. Schoenthaler joined Stanford in 2001 and practices general university law, concentrating on student matters, copyright, privacy and dispute resolution. Prior to joining Stanford, Ms. Schoenthaler clerked for the Honorable A. Wallace Tashima, at both the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals and the Central District of California. Ms. Schoenthaler has also served as a Deputy District Attorney for Santa Clara County. In the private sector, Ms. Schoenthaler was an associate of (now) Pillsbury Winthrop practicing primarily in the areas of antitrust, intellectual property and general litigation.

Ms. Schoenthaler received her B.A. degree from Northwestern University and her J.D. from Hastings College of the Law, magna cum laude. At Hastings, Ms. Schoenthaler was an editor of the Hastings Law Journal and a member of Order of the Coif.

Roger Schoneld

Director of Research, Ithaka S+R, ITHAKA

Roger leads the research efforts at Ithaka S+R, including examinations of the impact of new technologies on academia through studies of faculty attitudes and practices, teaching and learning with technology, and the changing role of the library.

Key projects at Ithaka S+R that Roger has led have included the Ithaka S+R Faculty Survey since its inception; several upcoming projects on the changing research methodologies of faculty members in a digital environment; studies of the impact and sustainability of courseware initiatives; and the Ithaka S+R Library Survey and a number of projects on library strategy, economics, and collections analysis, with a particular emphasis on digitization, management, and preservation of library collections, culminating in What to Withdraw for scholarly journals, two national consulting projects on behalf of ARL/COSLA and GPO for government documents, and service on the NSF Blue Ribbon Task Force for Sustainable Digital Preservation and Access.

Previously, Roger was a research associate at The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation. There, he collaborated on The Game of Life: College Sports and Academic Values with James Shulman and William G. Bowen (Princeton University Press, 2000). He also wrote JSTOR: A History (Princeton University Press, 2003), focusing on the development of a sustainable not-for-profit business model for the digitization and preservation of scholarly texts.

Follow Roger on Twitter at rschon.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Robert Schufreider

Special Library Sales Manager, SAGE Publications

A 16 year veteran working with libraries and publishers has made Bob keenly aware of the changing scholarly publishing landscape from both sides. Bob currently heads up the Non-academic Library sales market for SAGE after stints as Sales Director for Ingenta, Aptara and MPS Technologies. Bob started his journey to the dark side in 1995 with EBSCO Publishing starting with selling CD-Rom databases to schools, hospitals and public libraries and eventually leading their Content Licensing team. Before that, Bob entertained thousands (hundreds? a couple of seniors) as a radio talk show host in suburban Boston.

Judit Sedillos

Electronic Resources Coordinator, Naval Postgraduate School

September 11th, 2011 marked my tenth year working in academic libraries, and it has been a wonderful, albeit somewhat accidental career path. My newest role as Electronic Resources Coordinator marries my interests in technology and business analysis. I am also a busy mom who somehow manages to squeeze a little running and photography into her schedule. I am excited to have managed to get on this year's program with my counterpart from the Naval Academy - my first such engagement after a five year hiatus.

Corey Seeman

Library Director, Kresge Business Administration Library, University of Michigan

Corey Seeman is the Director of the Kresge Business Administration Library of the Ross School of Business at the University of Michigan. Corey has been at the library since November 2005 and the director since 2006. He previously worked as the Associate Dean for Resource and Systems Management at the University of Toledo (Ohio) (May 2001 to November 2005); Library Training Consultant, Innovative Interfaces, Inc. (January 1999 to April 2001); and Manager of Technical Services, National Baseball Library at the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum, Inc. in Cooperstown (November 1996 to November 1998). He has a M.A.L.S. (1992) from Dominican University and an A.B. (1986) from the University of Chicago (with a major in European History). He has written articles primarily in the areas such as library systems, cataloging (especially in the context of special library collections) and on collection development issues associated with autism. He will be focusing his writing on change management in the library and service issues associated with academic libraries.

Rebecca Seger

Director, Institutional Sales, Americas, Oxford University Press

Rebecca is the Director of Institutional Sales for the Americas for Oxford University Press, where she has worked for eleven years. In this role, she is responsible for print, online database, eBook, and journal sales to libraries in North and South America. She is the past chair of the AAP/ALCTS Joint Committee and has spoken often at industry gatherings about online products and eBooks, including the Charleston Conference, ALA, and Association of American Publishers/PSP Division seminars.

Megan Sheffield

Assistant Librarian, University of South Florida

Before I became a science librarian, I studied biomechanics at Clemson University in SC. I attended University of Maryland in College Park to get my MLS, and was really excited to get out of the DC area and take the science librarian job at the University of South Florida in Tampa. My professional interests include data repositories and science literacy. When I'm not busy being a librarian, I play roller derby for the Tampa Bay Derby Darlins, and my "derby name" is Zelda Blitzgerald.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Wendy Shelburne

Electronic Resources Librarian, University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign

Trey Shelton

Print & Media Acquisitions Unit Manager, University of Florida Smathers Libraries

Trey Shelton became the head of the Print & Media Acquisitions Unit in October 2010. This is Trey's second opportunity to present a poster. Trey's first poster, "The 'Queer' Politics of Libraries," was presented at the University of Tennessee College of Communication and Information Science's 31st Annual Research Symposium in 2009, where he was awarded Best Research Award: Best Poster. Trey serves on several working/discussion groups for Smathers Libraries, and he co-chairs Smathers Libraries Continuing Operations Working Group. Trey also serves on two University Presidential Committees, the LGBT Concerns Committee and the Career Resource Center Advisory Committee.

Peter Shepherd

Director, COUNTER

Over a 30-year career, Peter Shepherd has become intimately acquainted with most aspects of STM journal, book and database publishing, initially with Wiley and subsequently with Pergamon, Elsevier and Harcourt. Since 2002 Dr Shepherd has been Director of COUNTER, the not-for-profit international organization whose mission is to improve the quality and reliability of online usage statistics. Peter Shepherd received a PhD in chemistry in 1978 from St Andrews University and joined the publishing industry in 1980, following a post-doctoral research fellowship at the University of California, Santa Barbara.

Daniel Shouse

Collection Development Librarian, East Carolina University

I received my MLS from Indiana University in 1992. I started working at ECU a couple of months later. I spent 10 years in Reference, 8 years in the Teaching Resources Center, and the last year or so in Collection Development. In my free time I enjoy playing golf and guitar.

Aaron Shrimplin

Assistant Dean for Collections and Research Services, Miami University

Aaron Shrimplin is currently the Assistant Dean for Collections and Research Services at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. Prior to this position he worked as an electronic information services librarian with a specialization in numeric data services, also at Miami University. Aaron's current professional interests and contributions center on issues related to digital collections, ebooks, and data literacy. Aaron received a bachelor's degree in Political Science from Wittenberg University and a MLIS from The University of Pittsburgh. Aaron lives in Cincinnati, Ohio with his wife and two young boys. He enjoys the Lowcountry and has vacationed in Pawleys Island, South Carolina for over 40 years.

Charles Sicignano

Head of Technical Services, University of West Georgia

Graduated with an MLS from Florida State University in 2008. Started at UWG as the Electronic Resources Librarian; in October 2009 became the head of the Technical Services department. Duties include managing 2 faculty and 4 staff members, as well as collection development liaison for Political Science and the College of Business.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Charles Sicignano

Head of Technical Services, University of West Georgia

Rafael Sidi

VP, Application Marketplace & Developer Network, Elsevier

Rafael Sidi is Vice President, Elsevier's Application Marketplace and Developer Network. Rafael has been with Elsevier since 2001 and has been leading online product development efforts at Elsevier. He has been instrumental in creating and managing productivity enhancing online products for researchers in academic, government and corporate markets including Elsevier's new Sciverse platform, ScienceDirect, Engineering Village, Referex and illumin8.

Rafael has a BSc in Electrical Engineering from Bogazici University, Istanbul, Turkey and MA from Brandeis University.

Stuart Silcox

National Sales Manager, Canada, Swets

Stuart Silcox is a well known leader in the subscription management community in Canada. With over 20 years experience in the industry, Stuart has worked in senior management positions with the Faxon Company and Swets, and is currently National Sales Manager for Swets in Canada. Stuart is a past President of CSISAC, CASLIS Toronto and has served on various other industry associations.

Robin Sinn

Liaison Librarian, Research Services, Johns Hopkins University

Robin N Sinn has been a liaison librarian in the Research Services department of The Sheridan Libraries, Johns Hopkins University since 2006. Besides supporting several science and engineering departments, she is the current chair of the Scholarly Communications Group. The SCG is a committee made up of librarians from the Welch Medical Library and The Sheridan Libraries, and they promote and support Open Access and other discussions about scholarly literature.

Robin has a BA in biology and an MS in library science from Drexel University. Her interest in science librarianship has taken her from the Academy of Natural Sciences, Phila (1993-1995), to the University of Toledo (1995-2000), and Bowling Green State University (2000-2006), before landing at Johns Hopkins.

Martha Sites

Deputy University Librarian, University of Virginia

Martha Sites is Deputy University Librarian at the University of Virginia where she is responsible for the day-to-day operation of 12 libraries on Grounds and a high-density shelving facility off-Grounds. Prior to her move to the Library in 1996 to serve as Associate University Librarian for Information Technology, she was Director of User Support in UVa's central information technology organization. She has played a significant role in shaping the University of Virginia's "library of tomorrow" that blends digital and traditional library activities and programs to provide scholars with innovative collections, tools, spaces, and services. She has served on numerous University and national councils and task forces. Her primary professional interests include digital preservation; data curation; next-generation organizational & service models in libraries; and development of library leaders.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Brad Skiles

Kuali OLE Project Manager, Indiana University

Brad Skiles works at Indiana University as the project manager for the Kuali Open Library Environment (OLE). Brad has over 15 years of higher education IT experience. Prior to coming to Indiana University to work on Kuali, Brad spent 14 years at Purdue University, the last seven as the Director of Information Services. Brad's areas of responsibility included business intelligence, data architecture, and project management. Brad also served Purdue University as an Oracle DBA, Data Administrator, and as an adjunct faculty member teaching courses in enterprise data architecture. He has also taught at Indiana Wesleyan, Ivy Tech Community College, and George Mason University. Brad has given numerous presentations on enterprise data architecture and business intelligence and has degrees from Ball State University and Miami University.

Pamela Skinner

Reference/Electronic Resources Librarian, Smith College

Pam has worked as a reference librarian at Smith College for twenty-five years. She has also managed Smith's interlibrary loan service and, more recently, added the "electronic resources" component to her job. With a major job vacancy at Smith, Pam has stepped in to lead the Collection Development Working Group and serve on the Five College Collections Management Committee. This is her first time attending the Charleston Conference. She is a devoted "foodie"; please come talk with her about your favorite Charleston restaurants. She also welcomes tips for managing stress!

Amy Smith

Circulation Supervisor, Troy University

Amy Smith has been the Circulation Supervisor at the Rosa Parks Library at Troy University's Montgomery Campus since 2006. Mrs. Smith received her B.A. in Business and a M.S. in Counseling and Psychology from Troy University. Mrs. Smith is currently pursuing a Masters degree in Library and Information Science at the University of Southern Mississippi.

MacKenzie Smith

Research Director, MIT Libraries

MacKenzie Smith is a Research Director with the MIT Libraries, a Senior Fellow at the Creative Commons, and Special Consultant to the ARL E-Science Initiative. She was formerly the Associate Director for Technology Strategy at the MIT Libraries and oversaw their use of technology and digital library research program. At MIT she was the project director for DSpace, MIT's collaboration with Hewlett-Packard to develop an open source digital research repository platform, and led research projects on Semantic Web data publishing and the long-term curation and preservation of digital research data. She has also held technology positions at the Harvard University Library and the University of Chicago Library, and has a MA degree in Library and Information Science from the University of Chicago.

Gracemary Smulewitz

Head, Distributed Technical Services, Rutgers University Libraries

Gracemary Smulewitz is head of Distributed Technical Services at Rutgers University Libraries. The department is responsible for the purchase and management of electronic resources as well management of traditional serials acquisitions and holdings. With well over 20 years experience in Technical Services, Gracemary has presented on issues of collections analysis, workflow management and electronic resource management in many venues. She is a member of the newly formed NISO ebook SIG as well as the VALE Electronic Resource Group and Chair of the VALE e-book Group, both part of a state wide consortium for academic libraries .

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Kent Snowden

Library Director, Troy University

Kent Snowden has served in his current position as the Director of the Rosa Parks Library at Troy University's Montgomery Campus since 2005. He has also served as the Bibliographer/Library Liaison to various areas in academics, including Computer Science; Business; Nursing; the Sciences; and Library Instruction. Previous to coming to Troy, Mr. Snowden was the Head of the Access Services Dept., Rod Library, University of Northern Iowa. Mr. Snowden has continued to remain active in the state library associations, chairing roundtables, committees, and subdivisions. Mr. Snowden scholarly interests are in Library Marketing and Mentoring in the Academic Library, among others.

Lisa Spagnolo

Acquisitions Librarian, University of California, Davis

Lisa has been at the University of California, Davis, since 2004, serving as Acquisitions Librarian with oversight for monographs, and, after a reorganization in 2008, the serials operation. She has participated in several systemwide initiatives across the University of California including current activities connected to Next Generation Technical Services. Prior to joining UC, she was at the University of Washington, where she also earned her MLIS in 2001.

Charles Spornick

Head, Collection Management, Emory University

Chuck Spornick is the Head of Collection Management for Emory's Woodruff Library - Emory's main library. He is responsible for managing budgets, setting policy, and providing leadership for the direction of Emory's library collections. He has been at Emory since 1986.

Heather Staines

Senior Manager eOperations, Springer Science + Business Media

Heather Ruland Staines is Senior Manager eOperations for Springer Science + Business Media, where she manages digital preservation, book partnerships, transition management, and communications with Asian locations. Previously, she was Global eProduct Manager for SpringerLink. She began her publishing career at Greenwood Publishing Group/Praeger Publishers in book acquisitions. Eventually, she served as Editorial Director for Praeger Security International, a multi-format imprint. Her graduate and post-graduate work was in military and diplomatic history at Yale University.

Christine Stamison

Senior Customer Relations Manager, Swets

Christine Stamison, Senior Customer Relations Manager for Swets, has worked in various positions in the subscription agent industry for the past 18 years. Previously, she worked for 13 years in academic libraries, primarily in Serials, at both the University of Illinois at Chicago and at the University of Chicago Libraries. Christine received her Masters in Library and Information Services from Rosary College (now Dominican University) and is a regular lecturer for serials and technical services classes.

Kirstin Steele

Collection Management Librarian, The Citadel

Has worked as a senior manager for almost 20 years in public and academic libraries. Writes a quarterly column for "Bottom Line: Managing Library Finances." Volunteers with Greyhound Pets of America's

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Charleston chapter to adopt retired racing greyhounds locally. Vacillates between dreading and welcoming the post-human era.

Michael Stoppel

Public Services Administrative Supervisor, American University of Paris France

Since 2001, I work in the library (user services) at the American University of Paris. In July 2011, I participated in the ACRL Immersion program. I obtained a D.E.A. in Sociology at the E.H.E.S.S. (Paris) in 1992 and my M.L.I.S. at the Humboldt University in Berlin in 2010. My professional interests are library instruction and library user research (ethnographic studies). The Masters thesis (2010) focused on why students do not use the library and what libraries can learn from non-users.

Connie Stovall

Assistant Director for Collection Management, Virginia Tech

Connie Stovall serves as Assistant Director of Collection Management, a position she recently acquired after having worked as College Librarian for Humanities at Virginia Tech for 5 years. Connie holds an MLIS and an MA in American Literature, both from The University of Alabama, and B.B.A in Accounting with a minor from The University of North Alabama. She has been working in libraries since 1998, when she took her first position as a student circulation assistant.

Bruce Strauch

Professor, The Citadel

Shelly Stuard

Director, Alibris for Libraries, Alibris

Shelly Stuard is the Director, Alibris for Libraries. Shelly joined Alibris twelve years ago to head up the library division of Alibris, an online bookseller specializing in books that are hard-to-find.

Bill Sudduth

Head, Government Information, Microforms, newspapers, and Maps Departments, University of South Carolina

Bill Sudduth is Head of Government Information, Microforms, Newspapers and Maps Departments at the University of South Carolina Libraries. He received his MS in Library Science from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1985. Prior to coming to USC in 1999, Bill held positions at Williams College (1985-1990) and the University of Richmond (1990-1999). He is past chair of both the Depository Library Council and ALA-GODORT. Bill has taught government information and information policies for the University of South Carolina.

Michael Sweet

CEO, Credo Reference

As CEO, Michael brings a broad set of business skills and a passion for reference and web technology to his role at the market-leading online reference company. He focuses on involving librarians and publishers in the discoverability and content usability discussion, leading to greater cooperation and innovation across the industry. Before joining Credo Reference in 2006, Michael served as both CFO and COO of CoreWeb, a web software development and consulting company. He also spent seven years as a new business development manager at Global Insight providing Fortune 500 companies with business planning tools for market segmentation analysis and strategy development. Michael holds a MBA from Babson College with an emphasis on finance and entrepreneurship.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Narda Tafuri

Coordinator of Technical Services, The University of Scranton

Narda Tafuri is the Coordinator of Technical Services at The University of Scranton. She began her career at The University in 1994 in the position of Acquisitions Librarian. Prior to this, she was the Director of the Library at Keystone Junior College (now called Keystone College). In addition to these positions, she has worked for the Modern Language Association, E.F. Hutton, as well as a private business library in NYC. She is currently the Editor of the ALA/ALCTS Library Materials Price Index which is published in The Library and Book Trade Almanac (formerly known as The Bowker Annual). Narda has served on, and has chaired, several ALCTS Committees including the ALCTS Publications Committee and ALCTS Out-of-Print Discussion Group. Formerly a "native Staten Islander," Narda now cohabits with her dog and husband, an out-of-print bookseller, in their home in Fleetville, PA. When not reading, she enjoys walking in the woods, hunting for flea market finds (aka 'antiques') and working with her TDI registered therapy dog through the "Children Reading to Dogs" library program.

John Tagler

Executive Director, Professional & Scholarly Publishing/AAP

John Tagler is Vice President and Executive Director of the Professional and Scholarly Publishing Division of the Association of American Publishers. Prior to assuming this position in 2008, he was with Elsevier for more than 30 years, most recently as Vice President, Customer Marketing. In his tenure at Elsevier he served in a variety of capacities which involved library sales, marketing, library relations, communications, customer service, electronic publishing and exhibitions. He started his career as a librarian with the National Foundation/March of Dimes and later worked with IEEE standards publishing for four years before joining Elsevier.

Mr. Tagler holds a Bachelors degree from the University at Albany and a Masters in Library and Information Science from Pratt Institute. He has served in board positions with the Society for Scholarly Publishing and the North American Serials Interest Group and been active in the Medical Library Association and Special Libraries Association.

Greg Tananbaum

CEO, ScholarNext

Greg is the Founder and CEO of Anianet (www.anianet.com), a professional network connecting Chinese scholars to their western peers. In addition to these responsibilities, Greg serves as a consultant to publishers, libraries, universities, and information providers as owner of ScholarNext (www.scholarnext.com). ScholarNext clients include Microsoft, SPARC, and Annual Reviews. He has been President of The Berkeley Electronic Press, as well as Director of Product Marketing for EndNote. Greg writes a regular column in Against the Grain covering emerging developments in the field of scholarly communication. He has been as an invited speaker at dozens of conferences, including the American Library Association, the Society for Scholarly Publishing, the Association of Professional and Learned Society Publishers, and Online Information UK. He holds a Master's Degree from the London School of Economics and a B.A. from Yale University.

Mikiko Tanifuji

General Manager, National Institute for Materials Science

Mikiko Tanifuji, General Manager of Scientific Information Office at the National Institute for Materials Science, a national research laboratory in Tsukuba, Japan. She is a managing director of NIMS Library, and a publishing director of an open access journal publishing, STAM. She is a member of Japan National Research Institutes Library Consortium (JNLC.JP), Japan Science Council, SCOPUS Contents Selection and

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Advisory Board and Library Advisory Board member of few publishers. Currently, a development of library management system and a digital library (repository) system in respond to needs of integrated search and management over the web sources.

NIMS eSciDoc <http://goo.gl/lh2qg>

SAMURAI: <http://samurai.nims.go.jp/index-e.html>

Profile: <http://www.linkedin.com/in/tanifuji>

Thomas Taylor

President, Dragonfly Sales and Marketing

Tom Taylor is President of Dragonfly Sales and Marketing Consulting. Dragonfly manages the sales efforts of independent publishers through a global network of sales organizations. Before forming Dragonfly, Tom was Vice President of Marketing and Sales at SAGE in California. Tom has been in academic publishing for 31 years starting in 1979 as a sales representative at Addison Wesley where he moved into positions in marketing, editorial and sales management. In 1995, Tom became a sales manager at Prentice Hall and in 1998 was hired to head up sales and marketing at Course Technology, a Thomson Learning company.

Carol Tenopir

Professor, University of Tennessee

Carol Tenopir is a Chancellor's Professor at the School of Information Sciences at the University of Tennessee, the Director of Research for the College of Communication and Information, and Director of the Center for Information and Communication Studies. She holds a PhD in Library and Information Sciences from the University of Illinois. Currently, Dr. Tenopir is leading a national team in the IMLS-funded "Lib-Value" project, which is examining multiple methods to measure the value and return on investment of multiple services and collections in academic libraries. This builds on her previous research exploring value and outcomes of scholarly reading and changes over time with e-collections. She is the author of five books and over 200 articles.

Sanford Thatcher

Director Emeritus, The Pennsylvania State University Press

Sanford G. Thatcher retired at the end of June 2009 after twenty years as Director of Penn State University Press. His most significant administrative achievement, besides stabilizing the finances of the Press, was to forge an excellent working relationship with the Penn State Libraries, which resulted in the joint launching of the Office of Digital Scholarly Publishing in Spring 2005 followed by the administrative merger of the Press into the Libraries in December of that year. Always working as an acquiring editor at the same time, he sponsored over 600 books for publication in humanities and social sciences. His twenty-two year career earlier at Princeton University Press, culminating in his appointment as Editor-in-Chief in 1985, resulted in the acquisition of over 800 titles. Along the way he gained expertise in copyright law and served as a member of the Copyright Committee of both the Association of American University Presses (which he chaired for twenty-one years) since 1972 and the Association of American Publishers since 1974, as a member of the Association for Copyright Enforcement from 1986 to 1995 (overseeing the landmark suit against Texaco), and as a member of the Board of Directors of the Copyright Clearance Center since 1992, the same year he joined the Editorial Advisory Board of the Journal of Scholarly Publishing where many of his writings on copyright and the publishing industry have appeared. In 2007 he became a member of the Editorial Advisory Board of the British journal Learned Publishing as well. In February 2007 the AAUP released its Statement on Open Access, which he drafted, and Learned Publishing included a lengthier version of it in its July 2007 issue. In retirement, now based in Frisco, Texas, he continues to work part-time as an acquiring editor for both Lynne Rienner Publishers and the University of Rochester Press.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Deborah Thomas

Research Collections Librarian, University of Tennessee

Deb Thomas moved to Technical Services after a long career in public services. Her current job in Research Collections focuses on working where collection development, acquisitions, and cataloging intersect. She has worked at the University of Tennessee since 2000 and holds an M.B.A. from Western Carolina University and M.L.S. from Peabody College of Vanderbilt University.

Lisa Carlucci Thomas

Director, Design Think Do

Lisa Carlucci Thomas is a nationally recognized librarian and author known for her leadership, innovation, and research on mobile and social technologies. Her expertise includes ebooks, mobile culture, social media, technology trends and training, and career development for information professionals. Lisa is the Director of Design Think Do, providing technology, new media, and creative services consulting to libraries and organizations. Her previous experience includes overseeing library systems and digital initiatives at Southern Connecticut State University; and managing access services, e-resources and digital collections at Yale University. Lisa is a 2010 Library Journal Mover & Shaker and a 2009 ALA Emerging Leader. Follow on Twitter @lisacarlucci.

Marcia Thomas

Director of Collections and Technical Services, Associate Professor, Illinois Wesleyan University

Marcia Thomas is Director of Collections and Technical Service, Associate Professor, and library liaison to English, Philosophy and Women's Studies at Illinois Wesleyan University. In her former life she worked in public libraries and a museum. Her publications include John Wesley Powell: An Annotated Bibliography, Emergency Response Planning in College Libraries (ACRL CLIP Note #40), and reviews for Choice. She is currently working on a literature review for LRTS. Marcia enjoys singing in a community chorus, kayaking, and spending time with two cute grandkids.

Wm. Joseph Thomas

Head of Collection Development, East Carolina University

Joseph is Head of Collection Development at Joyner Library, and has previously worked in Collection Development, Electronic Resources, Reference and Instruction positions.

Joan Thompson

Collection Development Manager, YBP Library Services

Joan is a collection development manager at YBP. In this position, Joan has worked with the Orbis Cascade Alliance since the beginning stages of its Demand Driven Acquisitions Pilot Project. Prior to joining YBP, Joan worked in various public services positions at the University of Texas, Brown University and MIT. As the assistant director of the Boston Library Consortium, Joan oversaw a patron initiated ILL program and helped manage e-resource licensing and consortial purchases. Joan holds an MLIS from the University of Texas and a BA from Southwestern University.

Samantha Tillett

Strategic Relationship Manager, British Library

Samantha (Sam) Tillett is Strategic Relationship Manager at the British Library. She has worked at the British Library for over 22 years, currently exploring ways of making the British Library's vast collections more accessible in partnership with others. For many years, Sam worked in the BL's document supply service as a customer services manager and a key account manager. She enjoys football (or soccer in the USA), but watching rather than playing! She also enjoys walking her dogs with her husband in the the English countryside.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Lily Todorinova

Academic Services Librarian, University of South Florida

I am the Cultural Studies/Humanities librarian at the University of South Florida. Before this, I was a Carolina Academic Libraries Associate at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. My research interests include Global Information Literacy, Emerging Technologies, Instruction and User Education, Reference and User Services, and Digital Humanities, among others.

John Tofanelli

Librarian for British & American History & Literature, Columbia University

John Tofanelli has been Librarian for British & American History & Literature at Columbia University since 2000. He has been Chair of Columbia Libraries' Electronic Resource Assessment Working Group since early 2009. John has a Ph.D. in English and a wide range of active interests. In his book article "Critical Editions," he provides literature librarians with an introductory overview of theories of critical editing. John has also been involved, at both Columbia and Johns Hopkins, in projects for the preservation of 19th-century materials in their original printed formats.

Vickie Toranzo Zacker

Graduate Student, School of Information, University of South Florida

Vickie Toranzo Zacker is an MA LIS candidate at the University of South Florida (USF)'s School of Information. She obtained a BA in history and secondary education from the University of Miami and master of heritage preservation from Georgia State University with a focus in historic preservation and public history. Vickie is a graduate assistant at the USF School of information where she provides research, administrative, and distance learning support. She is a volunteer with the Archives, Digital Projects, and Special Collections department at the USF Tampa Library and a board member for the Friends of Tampa Union Station. A former intern with the Metadata & Cataloging department at NCSU Libraries, she worked closely with special collections and digital initiatives on the creation of documentation to be used by staff and student assistants working with the libraries' special collections asset management system. Her current research focuses on digital repositories used by academic libraries in the creation of their scholarly commons and workflows for the digitization of photography collections. Graduating in August of 2012, she hopes to obtain future employment in a research library.

Matt Torrence

Academic Services Librarian for Engineering & Business, University of South Florida Tampa Library

Matt Torrence has educational background in International Studies & Economics, Library & Information Science, and a graduate certificate in the Environmental Studies and Policies. He currently serves as the Business & Engineering Librarian at the University of South Florida, Tampa Library. Along with the rest of the library professionals and subject specialists, he strives to provide information expertise to students and faculty, with a special focus on the research needs of the clients and colleagues from subjects related to business and technology. Matt works extensively in evaluating the resource requirements of these and other subject areas to enhance and improve our library collections and services.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Cory Tucker

Head, Collection Management, UNLV

Cory Tucker is Head of Collection Management at the University of Nevada Las Vegas Libraries. Cory is responsible for administration and coordination of collection development activities for the University Libraries and leads the identification, evaluation, selection, and initial licensing of print and electronic information resources for the UNLV Libraries. In addition, Cory coordinates and implements the collection assessment activities for the Libraries. Cory is an active member of ALCTS and is currently the Chair-Elect of the Collection Management Section. Cory received his undergraduate degree in finance from the University of Tennessee-Knoxville and received his MLS from the University of South Florida.

Mark Tullos

Senior Product Manager, RR Bowker

Mark has an MLIS from LSU and held roles at Loyola University, New Orleans, OCLC and Elsevier. Mark joined RR Bowker, part of ProQuest, in 2010 and manages Books in Print, Resources for College Libraries, Bowker Book Analysis System and Syndetic Solutions product lines. Mark shares his time in the NY/NJ area and New Orleans. Mark is an amateur cocktail mixologist and if you're nice will throw you something from a Mardi Gras float, but you have to pay your own way to New Orleans.

Jillian Tweet

Director of Marketing for E-Resources, IGI Global

Andrea Twiss-Brooks

Co-Director, Science Libraries, University of Chicago

Andrea has oversight for all collections in science, medicine and technology and is directly responsible for selection and management of the collections in chemistry, physics, geology and related sciences at the University of Chicago. As a science librarian for a large academic research library, she has served on a number of publisher advisory boards, including American Chemical Society, Royal Society of Chemistry and Chemical Abstracts Service. She is also a geology subject editor for ALA's Resources for College Libraries.

E. Chisato Uyeki

Reference and Collection Development Librarian, Mt. San Antonio College

Chisa is the lead librarian in the areas of collection development and acquisition at California's largest single-campus community college (located about 30 miles east of LA). Since starting at Mt. SAC in November 2007 she has coordinated the nascent liaison program, as well as the evaluation, selection, de-selection, and maintenance of the Library's serials, electronic resources (databases and monographs), and print collections. Chisa has been a user of Resources for College Libraries (RCL) and RCLweb with Career Resources since 2009, and has served on the RCL Editorial Board since 2010. Chisa also worked on a thorough collection analysis utilizing the Bowker Book Analysis System with Books in Print.

Frans van Ette

Business Development Director, Swets

Ken Varnum

Web Systems Manager, University of Michigan

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

John Vickery

Collection Manager for Management & Social Sciences, NCSU Libraries

John Vickery has been at North Carolina State University Libraries since 2005. He holds an MLS from UNC Chapel Hill where he specialized in database design and administration. While at UNC, he got introduced to collections and acquisitions by working in Latin American and Iberian Resources for Davis Library. He started programming in SAS two years ago to analyze NCSU Libraries' print collection and PDA program and has continued to use SAS to assist with a major collections move as well as other collections analysis projects.

David Walker

Library Web Services Manager, California State University

Laura Warren

Libraries Thriving and Information Literacy Intern, Credo Reference

Laura will graduate from San Jose State University with an MLIS in spring 2012. She currently interns with Dubai Women's College (remotely, of course, to avoid the long commute) and Credo Reference. As the Dubai Women's College Instructional Development Intern, Laura plans lessons and creates teaching materials for use in information literacy sessions. Laura's roles at Credo vary but include planning workshops for Credo subscribers and supporting professional collaboration in Libraries Thriving, an online collaborative community.

Laura's session, which she is presenting with a librarian she met through an online collaborative community, was inspired by her experience with Libraries Thriving.

Scott Warren

Head of Collections, Syracuse University Library

Scott Warren is the Head of Collections as well as Bibliographer for the Sciences and Technology at the Syracuse University Library. Previously, he was the Associate Director of the Burlington Textiles Library and Engineering Services at the North Carolina State University Libraries. Mr. Warren began his career in 2001 as an NCSU Libraries Fellow. He earned an MA in Library and Information Studies from The University of Wisconsin-Madison and B.S.'s in Physics, Mathematics, and Astronomy and a B.A. in History from The Pennsylvania State University. He has fathered several articles and presentations as well as two wonderful daughters.

Scott Wasinger

Senior Director of Sales for eBooks and Audiobooks, EBSCO Publishing

Scott Wasinger is Senior Director of Sales for eBooks and Audiobooks at EBSCO Publishing. Prior to NetLibrary becoming a part of EBSCO Publishing in early 2010, Scott spent over four years managing the NetLibrary business for OCLC. With his previous 13 years at IHS (Information Handling Services), he brings 18 years of electronic content experience to bear in creating the best eBook and Audiobook solutions for libraries worldwide. Scott is degreed in International Relations and Chinese Language and Literature, and is based in Denver, Colorado.

Jack Waters

Unit Manager, University of Florida Libraries

University of Florida Libraries

1995-present Unit Manager, Accounting & Paying Unit, Acquisitions Dept.

1989 - 1993 Orange County Library District (Orlando FL) Accountant

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

1971 - 1988 Cincinnati, Ohio: Coopers & Lybrand CPA firm, City of Cincinnati Government

Anthony Watkinson

Senior Lecturer, Department of Information Studies, University College London

Anthony Watkinson is on the organising committee of the Charleston Conference and helps moderating the plenary sessions. He is also co-organiser of the next in the Fiesole Collection Development Retreat series and is on the editorial board of The Charleston Advisor. He is proud to have been the first recipient of the Vicky Speck Leadership Award. He has been a librarian and a scholarly publisher in a number of companies and organisations including Academic Press, Oxford University Press, Chapman & Hall and Wiley-Blackwell but is now concentrated on his faculty position in the Department of Information Studies at University College London. His central interest is in the transition between scholarly communication in print and scholarly communication in digital form and with the interactions between different players in the information chain finding their feet in the digital environment. He has written on Electronic Solutions to the Problems of Monograph Publishing, Securing Authenticity of Scholarly Paternity and Integrity and most recently on Open Access with special reference to funding models. He also works as a consultant currently for the UK Publishers Association but has been on committees of JISC and other bodies in the wider information world. He can be reached at anthony.watkinson@btinternet.com.

Charles Watkinson

Director, Purdue University Press, Purdue University Libraries

Gail Watson

Acquisitions Supervisor, The University of Tennessee Library

Gail has been with the University of Tennessee Library since May of 1989 specializing in technical services. She is currently the supervisor of the Acquisitions Department. She holds a B.A. degree from the University of Tennessee and is a graduate student at the University of Tennessee planning to graduate in May of 2012 with a M.S. in Information Science.

Doug Way

Head of Collections and Scholarly Communications, Grand Valley State University

Doug Way is Head of Collections and Scholarly Communications at Grand Valley State University, where he previously held positions as Head of Liberal Arts Programs and Government Documents Librarian. Doug holds an MLIS from Wayne State University and has written and presented extensively on collection management, the use of library collections and issues in scholarly communications.

Mary Beth Weber

Head, Central Technical Services, Rutgers University Libraries

Mary Beth Weber is head of Central Technical Services at Rutgers University Libraries, a unit which provides traditional technical services support (acquisitions, cataloging, end processing) and development of metadata standards and applications, including the recently launched RUresearch portal for data sets. She has held various positions at Rutgers, including Special Formats Catalog Librarian and Head of Cataloging and Metadata Services prior to her current position. Weber co-chairs the E-Books Working Group with Gracemary Smulewitz. Together, they developed a pilot PDA project with Coutts for Rutgers, and are considering options for expanding their PDA plan based on the success of the pilot. Weber is the author of three books on resource description for nonbook materials and co-authored the recently published Describing Electronic, Digital, and Other Media Using AACR and RDA.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

She is an active member of ALCTS, and served as editor of the ALCTS Newsletter Online for six years. She also served as an ex-officio member of the LRTS Editorial Board for six years, and has been on the editorial board of LIBRES, an international library science journal, since its inception in 1993.

Debbie West

Collection Development Librarian, Troy University - Montgomery

Debbie West is the Collection Development Librarian at the Rosa Parks Library at Troy University – Montgomery. Having earned her MLS from the University of Alabama in 1991, she has over 20 years of library experience. Her last position before coming to Troy University was the Interlibrary Loan/Distance Education Librarian at Adams State College in Alamosa, Colorado. Ms. West is very active in the Alabama Library Association. She is currently the Moderator of the Alabama Library Association's Technical Services and Systems Roundtable, Treasurer of the Alabama Chapter of ACRL, and member of the Alabama Authors Award Committee. She is also a member of ALA and ACRL.

William Wheeler

Head, Research & Instruction, Georgetown University

Wheeler is interested in the larger issues surrounding discovery, beyond the current "discovery layers," to be inclusive ethnographic approaches to how people actually work, the Universities mission to foster curiosity, LIS 50 years of debate on human v. achine indexing, mapping/visual tools, and concepts f "reference." Having a Ph.D. in ethnomsicology, folklore, & anthropology and two subsequent LIS degrees Wheeler is interested in the interdisciplinary nexus. Having worked at Yale, NC State, Stanford, & Georgetown, and having taught LIS at Illinois, UNC, and Maryland, Wheeler is skeptical the "one stop" "single search box" will work for all users in all disciplines at all levels. Wheeler is only occasionally brilliant, but he'll bulldog an issue and leave you a trail to follw, regardless.

Meg White

Executive Director, Technology Services, Rittenhouse Book Distributors, Inc.

Meg White is a 20-year veteran of the health sciences publishing industry. Her background includes various sales, marketing, and product development positions at Rittenhouse Book Distributors, Mosby, Williams & Wilkins, and Wolters Kluwer Health/Lippincott Williams & Wilkins. She is a frequent speaker at industry-related conferences on the topics of product development, technology, curriculum, and continuing medical education.

Meg is currently Executive Director of Technology Services at Rittenhouse, leveraging her experience in the areas of technology, marketing, product development, and editorial. She headed the development of the company's eBook initiative, the R2 Digital Library, and continues to serve as product manager for the platform. Meg is a past President and former board member of the American Medical Publisher's Association.

Meg holds a B.A. in Speech Communication and Theater Arts from Wake Forest University. GO DEACS!

Martha Whittaker

Director of Content Management, George Washington University Libraries

Martha Whittaker is director of Content Management for the Gelman Library System at The George Washington University and co-director of the University's Cyberinfrastructure Center (CIC). She is a graduate of the University of Utah and has a Master of Arts in Library Science degree from Denver University. She also obtained a Certificate of Advanced Management from the Haas School of Business at the University of California, Berkeley.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Before coming to GWU, Martha Whittaker worked for Serials Solutions in Seattle, Washington and was vice president, Marketing and Sales, for Blackwell Book Services in Portland, Oregon and Oxford, UK. She also worked in libraries at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign, the University of Colorado, Boulder, the University of Wyoming, the University of California, Berkeley (Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory), and the University of Utah.

Martha Whittaker is a member of the American Library Association, the Association for Computing Machinery, and Beta Phi Mu, the library science honorary society.

Gabrielle Wiersma

Electronic Collections & Assessment Librarian, University of Colorado Boulder Libraries

Gabrielle Wiersma is an Assistant Professor and the Electronic Collections and Assessment Librarian at the University of Colorado at Boulder Libraries. As a librarian in the Collection Development department she facilitates selection and evaluation of new materials and analyzes the existing collection. She received her MLIS from the University of Denver with an emphasis on Reference and User Services.

Lynn Wiley

Head of Acquisitions, University of Illinois Urbana Champaign

Lynn Wiley has a BA in Anthropology and an MSLS from the School of Library Science at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She is currently the Head of Acquisitions and Associate Professor of Library Administration at the University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign. She has worked in academic libraries since 1983 in a public service role until shifting to technical services in 2006. Ms Wiley is active in local, regional and national associations and has spoken at conferences worldwide. She has written extensively about access services and in particular the results of analyses of statewide systems and collections. Getting patrons what they need seamlessly is her primary professional goal.

Thijs Willems

Project Manager Book Archives, Springer Science+Business Media

Thijs Willems is currently a project manager at Springer Science+Business Media. He's responsible for digitization of Springer's books. In this project all Springer books that currently still exist in print only (more than 65,000 titles) will be made available as an eBook. Prior to his current position, Thijs worked as senior product manager on the development of several e-products within Springer and other large STM publishers. Thijs holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Logistics and a Bachelor of Science degree in Information Technology.

Megan Williams

Technical Services Librarian, Shenandoah University

Megan Williams has a BS in Nursing from the University of Maryland and an MLS from Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C. She has worked in academic libraries since 1994 in serials and public services roles but moving to technical services in 1997. She is currently head of Technical Services for Shenandoah University Libraries. Outside of work, she enjoys spending time with her family, reading (of course!), birding and weaving.

Michael Winecoff

AUL for Information Technology, UNC Charlotte

Michael had experience working in Cataloging and Acquisitions as a Copy Cataloger, Cataloging Maintenance Coordinator, and Head of Accounts Payable, Receiving and Computing Operations before coming to Library Systems. Now, Michael is also responsible for the Monograph Acquisitions, Serials Acquisitions and Post Cataloging Quality Control sections which are now in the Library Information Technology unit.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Michael Winkler

Director of iTadd, University of Pennsylvania

Michael Winkler is the Director for Information Technologies and Digital Development at the University of Pennsylvania Libraries. As director, Michael guides the Libraries' digital library development, information technology infrastructure, learning management systems, and strategic technology planning. Before becoming Director in 2005, Michael was the Web Manager for the University Libraries at Penn from 1999 to 2005. In addition to his current responsibilities, Michael is the Chair of the Kuali OLE Functional Council, and has been with the OLE project since inception. Michael came to Penn from North Carolina State University where he was Head of Systems and Projects Librarian for six years. He served as the first network manager for the Library at the University of Massachusetts in Boston for 5 years. Michael earned a Masters in Library Science from the University of Pittsburgh, and has a degree in Economics from the University of Massachusetts and a certificate in Data Communications from Northeastern University. Michael is a 2007 Frye Fellow.

Andrea Wirth

Collection Development & Science Librarian, Oregon State University

Andrea Wirth is a collection development librarian and subject librarian at Oregon State University (OSU). In addition to collection development and subject area responsibilities, she is active in the OSU Libraries' scholarly communication program, and has also worked on several of the libraries' digital initiatives. She received her bachelor's degree in geology from Oregon State University and her master's in library science from the University of North Texas.

James Wisner

Assistant Director, Statewide California Electronic Library Consortium (SCELC)

James Wisner is the Assistant Director of SCELC, a library consortium of academic and non-profit research libraries in California and throughout the Southwest. Prior to his position at SCELC, James was the director of the Drescher Business Library at Pepperdine University, and he has also held electronic resource management positions in the corporate libraries of both Toyota and General Motors. He received his MLS from Indiana University-Bloomington and will receive his MBA from Pepperdine University next year.

Hazel Woodward

University Librarian, Cranfield University, UK

Hazel has been University Librarian and Director of the University Press at Cranfield University for over 12 years. Prior to that she was at Loughborough University as Head of Electronic Information Services. Hazel's research interests include electronic publishing and scholarly communication (the subject of her PhD thesis) and she has published many papers in the professional literature on digital library issues. She is very active professionally being currently the Chair of the JISC Collections Electronic Information Resources Working Group (which oversees NESLI2), Chair of the Board of Directors of COUNTER and Co-Chair of the COUNTER Usage Factor Project. She also contributes to UKSG activities as Chair of the Publications Committee and serves on the ICOLC organising committee. In 2009 Hazel was awarded an MBE (Master of the British Empire for "services to higher education").

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Laura Wrubel

E-Resources Content Manager, George Washington University

Laura Wrubel manages access to e-resources at George Washington University, a member of the Washington Research Libraries Consortium. Before joining GW Libraries in 2010, she was a systems librarian at University of Maryland, College Park, supporting the link resolver, federated search platform, and other systems for the University System of Maryland and Affiliated Institutions.

Susan Zappen

Associate College Librarian for Collections, Skidmore College

Susan Zappen, a graduate of the University of Missouri, Columbia was an acquisitions librarian in the university's Ellis Library and a library consultant to Educational Services for Nursing at the University of Michigan Hospitals. She became Acquisitions Librarian then Acquisitions and Serials Librarian at RPI before joining Skidmore College's Lucy Scribner Library first as Head of Technical Services then as Associate College Librarian for Collections. She never thought librarianship could be so dynamic, exciting and rewarding! Susan enjoys ballroom dancing, gardening, reading (of course) and attending operas. If we are what we eat, Susan is champagne and chocolate!

Frederick Zarndt

Consultant, CCS / DDD / DL Consulting

Frederick Zarndt has worked with historic and contemporary newspaper, journal, magazine, and book digitization since computer speeds, software, technology, storage, and costs first made it practical. He has worked with the Library of Congress on its pilot implementation of the NDNP National Digital Newspaper Program (2003), with the University of Utah since the beginning of its newspaper digitization program (2002), with the New Zealand National Library for its Papers Past and Parliamentary Papers digitization projects (2006), with Singapore National Library Board for its historic and born digital newspapers conversion projects (2006), with the National Library of Australia and with the State Library of Victoria on the Australian Newspapers Digitization Program (2008), and with many other institutions both small and large. Frederick has experience in every aspect of digitization projects including project requirements development, project management, conversion operations (both in-house and outsourced), acceptance testing, and software development for production and delivery of digital data.

Frederick is current chair of the IFLA Newspapers Section (the first non-librarian to serve as chair). He presently works as technical, business development, and sales consultant for Digital Divide Data (since 2008), Content Conversion Specialists (since 2005), and DL Consulting (since 2001). Previously he was President of Planman Consulting North America, a subsidiary company to Planman Technologies and Chief Technology Officer and one of the co-founders of iArchives / Footnote. Frederick has 25+ years experience in software development and is a member of ACM and IEEE and a Certified Software Development Professional (CSDP). He is also a member of ALA, IFLA, and SLA. Frederick has Master's Degrees in Computer Science and Physics.

Michael Zeoli

Director, Global Consortia Sales, YBP Library Services

Michael Zeoli has worked for YBP Library Services, an academic library book vendor, since 1997, with a 3 year hiatus spent at ebrary. Currently, Michael is also working with YBP publisher partners to help understand the transition from print to digital in academic libraries. Before joining YBP, Michael worked in the Acquisitions Department at the University of Chicago Library, while pursuing advanced studies in Italian Literature at the university. He has studied at Harvard, Middlebury College, and the School of the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston, and has spent extensive time in Italy.

2011 Charleston Conference Speaker Biographies

Ying Zhang

Acquisitions Librarian, Univ. of Central Florida

Ying Zhang is the Acquisitions Librarian at the Univ. of Central Florida Libraries in Orlando, FL. Her main responsibilities include overseeing operations in both serials and monograph, and working closely with the Electronic Resources Librarian. Formerly a Reference Librarian, Ying continues spending a few hours each week at Reference where she stays abreast on users' information needs.

Carol Zsulya

Head of Collection Management, Cleveland State University

Previous work experience has been in marketing, and marketing research and financial analysis in several major corporations in the automotive, chemical, and real estate industries. Also active in the Ohio library community as a member of 3OhioLINK committees relative to collection management. She is a member of an ALA taskforce that is in the process of editing the 4th edition of the Staff Development Handbook. At CSU, she is Chair of the University's Management and Administrative Staff Association.

Carol received a Master of Science in Library Science degree from Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio. She received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Ursuline College, Cleveland, Ohio.